2-Job Stigma Leads Mint Head to Quit Party Post

Mrs. Ross Says Action Is Intended to Avoid Criticism.

Farley's Position Is Made Difficult

Chairman of Democrats Remains Silent on Own Course.

By Felix Bruner.

Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint, yesterday resigned as a member and vice chairman of the Democratic National committee. She gave as her reason the wish to avoid the appearance of conflicting interests between her public service and her identity with the committee.

Mrs. Ross sent her resignation to Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National committee. Farley, in accepting the resignation, failed to express his views on the question of whether a committee member also should be a Government official.

The resignation put Farley in the embarrassing postion of accepting the withdrawal from the committee of a public official whose status was almost identical with his own. He did not indicate whether he would follow up his acceptance of the resignation of Mrs. Ross with his own withdrawal, but he previously has stated that he expects eventually to quit as National chairman.

Follows Mullen Action.

The resignation of Mrs. Ross followed that of Arthur R. Mullen, National committeeman from Nebraska, who resigned Tuesday. Mullen, who has been practicing law in Washington, quit following criticism by President Roosevelt and others of the dual activities of committeemen and lawyers. Mrs. Ross is the second Government office holder to resign from the committee. The first was Frank Walker, who quit as treasurer of the committee after he was made head of the National Emergency Council.

Among other National committeemen, besides Farley, who hold Government jobs are W. A. Julian, of Ohio, treasurer of the United States; Jed C. Adams, Texas, member of the Board of Tax Appeals, and W. W. Howes, South Dakota, First Assistant Postmaster General.

Cuba Aroused By Assassins

Secretary of State Fired On; Strikes, Rumors Add to Tension.

Havana, March 7 (AP).—An attempt on the life of Secretary of State Cosme de la Torriente today increased the tension of a situation which even conservative observers called extremely precarious because of strikes and rumors of revolt.

While machine guns bristled atop the presidential palace, unidentified persons he called Communists fired at the veteran Torriente with a submachine gun as he was leaving his downtown home.

"This is the doings of Communists," said the minister, toward whom, like other cabinet members, some of the popular indignation resulting from adverse economic conditions has reflected.

During the day Col. Fulgencio Batista, commander of the Cuban armed forces, relaxed the extra precautions he invoked against disorders last night, when he redoubled the palace guard, deployed soldiers and sailors about the capital and ordered autoists and pedestrians searched.

The strike situation, meanwhile, was unchanged, but this problem was considered the most serious of several confronting President Carlos Mendieta.

Mendieta moved to meet the crisis by assuming wide powers, suspending ten important personal guarantees in the provisional constitution, and signing the "law of national defense."

Turk, 160, Yearns To Wed Lady, 40; She'll Be His 13th

Istanbul, March 7 (U.P.).—Zaro Agha, the incredible Turk who claims to be 160 years old, is hopelessly in love again—this time with an attractive 40-year-old woman.

Zaro revealed today that Cupid has smitten him again in an application to the city government that his monthly salary of $150 be doubled in order that he may marry the woman and support her in fitting style.

The Mohammedan Methuselah describes his new love as a beauty.

If he marries her, she will be his thirteenth. His last wife divorced Zaro following his celebrated journey to the United States in 1930. Photographs of her husband with chorus beauties on his knees had been brought to her attention.

Pitts Rendezvous Charged

Probers Told Pitts Allowed To Visit Wife

Shoemaker Charges Lorton Inmate Rode to Hotel in Barnard's Car.

Charges that the chauffeur of Capt. M. M. Barnard, superintendent of District penal institutions, escorted G. Bryan Pitts, convicted head of the F. H. Smith Co., to frequent meetings with his wife at an Alexandria hotel were made yesterday by Representative Shoemaker when he appeared before the committee investigating Lorton Reformatory.

"You will find that Mrs. Pitts was frequently registered at the George Mason Hotel," the Minnesota Representative told the committee in substantiation of his statement. Asked how long this had been going on he replied that the visits were stopped with the beginning of the present Lorton probe.

Friends of Mrs. Pitts told The Post that she does visit the hotel frequently and from there goes to see her husband at Lorton on visiting days.

Protection Promised.

Shoemaker declared that Pitts would be brought to the hotel by Barnard's driver in his official car. Pitts would visit his wife, Shoemaker said, and then would be whisked back to the prison.

This was one of the many sensational charges Shoemaker made when he appeared before the committee, prefaced his remarks with an understanding that the committee would protect any persons, guards or prisoners whose names he mentioned from discharge, beatings or any form of retribution by prison officials.

To all the charges of Shoemaker Capt. Barnard, after the hearing, issued a denial. About the alleged Pitts story, he said "it is too silly for words," adding that his chauffeur was never permitted to leave the reformatory except when he was in the car.

Asks Inquiry on Ground.

The aged reformatory head, who will soon seek retirement, it was rumored yesterday, has asked the committee to move their investigation to the reformatory when questioning here has been completed, he said last night.

Barnard says he wants an open public hearing at the institution, where any prisoner can come forward and tell his story to the committee. He declared that he had the committee's promise that such action would be taken.

Kentucky House Jails Editor for Contempt

Frankfirt, Ky., March 7 (AP).—Vance Armentrout, acting editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, was ordered to jail today by the lobby investigating committee of the Kentucky House on the grounds that he was in contempt of the House in refusing to tell who signed a recent article in the paper's "Point of View" column.

He said the paper regarded such names confidential. He was ordered to jail for the remainder of the legislative session, ending March 15, and immediately left in company with the sergeant at arms.

Furniture Shower Has Sequel in 109 Arrests

Vancouver, B. C., March 7 (AP).—One hundred and nine men were arrested today and charged with "malicious damage to property" following an early morning disturbance in the Vancouver Men's Institute.

Locking themselves in on the two upper floors, the men threw everything movable out of the windows and a number of light and telephone wires were broken from insulators under the impact of the falling furniture.

Young Astor, Jilted, In China "to Forget"

Shanghai, March 7 (AP).—John Jacob Astor 3d, now in Shanghai, did not come to China for pleasure. He is here trying to forget his shattered romance with Eileen Gillespie, the New York debutante and Junior Leaguer, who broke her engagement with Astor and canceled their wedding—scheduled for February 6.

Astor, who is 21, said today that he is roaming the world "trying to forget." He plans to leave for Europe soon.

Blanket Pay Rise Denied By Johnson

Determined to Make NRA a Permanent Institution.

By Raymond Clapper.

Two weeks of open forum criticism of NRA came to an end last night as Gen. Hugh S. Johnson reassured protesting employers that no drastic cuts in hours and boosts in wages would be forced upon them in blanket fashion.

Gen. Johnson and other NRA leaders spoke at the final session of the code conference in Constitution Hall, closing a fortnight's running fire of criticism from the public and from code authorities.

President Roosevelt made known yesterday he would ask Congress to extend the licensing features of the recovery act, which expire June 16, one year in advance of the remaining provisions.

Administration Weakens.

NRA officials announced plans for further tightening down on chiseling.

Such a terrific fire of objection was set up by industry that the Administration appeared to have weakened considerably in a previously indicated intention to move immediately for a horizontal cut of 10 per cent in working hours and an equivalent boost in wages throughout the industrial structure.

Gen. Johnson's purpose now, he indicated yesterday, is to call another conference of a few industrial leaders immediately and consider what industries and business are in a position to proceed with such a new wages and hour policy.

"I hope you will get out of your minds any idea of a set rule," Gen. Johnson told code conference delegates. "No one ever dreamed of such a thing. We are not coming out with a ukase and put industry in a procrustean bed."

The final day of the code conferences was marked by a rapid-fire series of developments leading up to the big final meeting last night.

Developments of the Day.

These included the following:

Clarence Darrow's NRA review board to protect small business set up shop with instructions to report directly to the White House.

NRA, Treasury Department and Industrial Advisory Council of Department of Commerce studied many plans to finance private industry, particularly small businesses.

William H. Davis, director of NRA compliance, disclosed that a standard code provision making it a violation for any one to deal with a chiseler was under consideration.

Employers continued to protest that blanket orders cutting hours and increasing wages would be a se-

Roosevelt Ship Fixed for Cruise

President's Son Inspects Schooner at Salem.

Salem, Mass., March 7 (AP).—The possibility that President Roosevelt may again cruise New England waters next summer was seen today when it became known that James Roosevelt, the President's son, yesterday inspected the schooner Mingo, now being overhauled at a local boat yard.

Young Roosevelt, it was said, would make subh a cruise with his family and friends, even if the President was unable to go. Whether the Mingo would be used had not been definitely decided.

The schooner is in the yard of Albert Dion, who overhauled the Amberjack II, on which the President sailed to New Brunswick last summer.

Garnett Defied By Shoemaker On Fight Trial

Police Hunt Lawmaker Who Pounds Desks in Prosecutor's Office.

"No assistant district attorney is going to prosecute me."

Representative Francis Shoemaker, former convict and Farmer-Labor member of the House from Minnesota, stormed into the Police Court Building yesterday and hurled this defy at Assistant District Attorney David A. Hart. Hart's office holds a warrant charging Shoemaker with assaulting Charles Newman, of 2016 Georgia avenue, a taxicab driver.

"I won't answer the charges, and the case will be thrown out of court," Shoemaker shouted, pounding Hart's desk. He demanded the warrant against him be nolle prossed and that the district attorney's office issue warrants charging Newman and Benjamin R. Moroccan Rebels Flee Before French Troops

Rabat, Morocco, March 7 (AP).—The last of the fierce rebel Berbers were reported on the run today before advancing French troops.

Dispatches said 75,000 tribesmen have laid down arms and that the French Foreign Legion and Colonial soldiers are attaining most of their objectives in a campaign to conquer and occupy the remainder of the vast Moroccan territory.

Roosevelt Orders Mail Laws Changed, Bans Barred Lines; United Transport Pay Held Henderson Says Brown Policies Were Opposed by His Line.

By Martha Dalrymple.

Air-mail payments to United Aircraft and Transport for all of 1934, until their contracts were canceled February 9, were ordered withheld by the Attorney General, it was learned yesterday in the Senate Air-Mail Investigating Committee.

Paul Henderson, vice-president of the company, and a former Second Assistant Postmaster General, told the committee that he had had no reason assigned for the failure of the Postoffice Department to make its regular monthly payment, until a few days ago when he was informed that the Department of Justice had made the recommendation.

For two months, a special Assistant Attorney General, Col. Carl Ristine, has been attending the hearings to determine whether any criminal action should be taken against anybody involved in the revelations.

Henderson further informed the committee that young Lehr Fess, son of Senator Simeon Fess, received either $3,000 or $3,000 for two days work as lobbyist for the

Two Chicago Gangsters Slain

Frankie Pope's Murder in Hotel Reveals Parole Sale Racket.

Chicago, March 7 (AP).—Assassins' bullets blotted out two underworld characters today, and Police Capt. John Stege was quick to assert the slayings were connected.

First two gunmen, invited to the hotel room of "West Side Frankie" Pope, drug peddler, brothel keeper and general racketeer, engaged in a pistol battle with him at short range and escaped, leaving Pope huddled grotesquely in a corner of the room.

It was believed a woman companion of Pope's also was wounded, but she had fled.

A few hours later an automobile drew the car driven by Daniel L. Losce, 54, former convict, and poured a volley of bullets into him. He was dead when witnesses reached him.

Stege said both victims were closely connected with "Limpy Charley" Cleaver, mail robber, and other criminals. It was possible, he said, Losce had joined Pope in a new racket—that of paroles—uncovered by Pope's death.

Pope kept the police fairly busy He kept the police fairly busy arresting him but managed to beat various charges of conspiracy, robbery, assault and handling stolen goods until 1929. The Government caught him selling narcotics and sent him to the Winnebago County Jail for four months, along with a $5,000 fine. In 1932, he got the 18-months Leavenworth Prison sentence for prohibition law violations.

Woodring Denies Any Plane Plans Changed

Foulois' Attack Upon Post Disproved by House Records.

By Frank Getty.

The question of whether Assistant Secretary of War Woodring changed specifications on Army airplanes when he ordered competitive bidding on $7,500,000 worth of aircraft was clarified yesterday at an open hearing of the House Military Affairs sub-committee on aviation.

It was indicated the entire project will be set aside and a new start made to procure adequate airplanes for the Army through bidding open to the widest possible range of manufacturers.

Appearing at his own request, Woodring declared he had not changed the specifications, and Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, summoned after he had made public a memorandum charging The Washington Post with distorting his testimony before the House Appropriations Committee in February, explained he had been misunderstood when he testified the Assistant Secretary of War had made the changes.

The chief or Air Corps denied his testimony on February 14 referred to the specifications on planes to be purchased with PWA funds,

Reno Divorces Hit by Ruling Of D. C. Court

Scores of Decrees Held by Residents Here Are Virtually Voided.

In an opinion returned yesterday by Justice Jesse C. Adkins in the District Supreme Court, divorces secured by Washingtonians in Reno, Nev., were declared not entitled to "full faith and credit under the Constitution" when persons moving for the separation were actuated in going to the Nevada courts for the sole purpose of obtaining a divorce.

In rendering his opinion Justice Adkins ignored a divorce obtained by Laurence James Holt from his wife, Mrs. Margaret Emma Holt, and awarded Mrs. Holt a limited divorce and alimony in addition to attorney's fees for the wife.

The decision brings to a conclusion oft-repeated declarations that the easily obtained Reno divorces would not stand the strict surveillance of the District laws. It virtually abnegates scores of Nevada divorces obtained by residents of the city.

Justice's pinion.

In a memorandum opinion, Justice Adkins, after reviewing the facts which prompted Holt to journey to Reno, wrote that "defendant did not obtain a domicile in the State of Nevada, but simulated residence there; throughout the period involved his domicile was in the District of Columbia." Holt testified that he resided in Nevada six weeks, the period required by the Nevada statutes.

Further, Justice Adkins found that "the Nevada divorce is not entitled to full faith and credit under the Constitution. Plaintiff (Mrs. Holt) was not guilty of cruelty to defendant and did not desert defendant; defendantw as potg uilty of cruelty to plaintiff; defendant did desert

Couzens Calls Morgenthau's Action Tricky

Treasury Head Attacked Over Ouster of Prettyman.

By Franklyn Waltman, Jr.

In a scathing attack, Senator James Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, yesterday described Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., as "tricky, unreliable and undependable." He accused the Treasury chief of "misstating" facts to a Senate committee.

Senator Couzens made his attack during consideration of the nomination of Robert H. Jackson, of Jamestown, N. Y., to be counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau, succeeding E. Barrett Prettyman, who was ousted, but later named District of Columbia Corporation Counsel.

Jackson's appointment was confirmed by a viva voce vote when the debate started by Senator Couzens ended.

Not in recent years has any member of the Senate publicly indicted a high ranking Cabinet officer as Couzens did Morgenthau yesterday. His attack was based on the ouster of Prettyman. Several Senators followed Senator Couzens praising Prettyman, who lives in Chevy Chase, Md

Message to Congress Leaders Asks Early Reorganization.

Ready to Continue Operation by Army

"Air Trust" Definitely Banned in Move by President.

By Leon Dure, Jr.

In a move which will rebuild the entire framework of air transport, President Roosevelt yesterday proposed the speedy return of the air mail to private operators not in any way party to contracts which were annulled.

This step toward the development of "a sound, stable and permanent air-mail policy," took in letters to Congressional committee chairmen proposing new legislation to provide for contracts based on "honest payment for honest service."

In order that bidders have opportunity to prepare for carrying the mail, he suggested that a six months' period be allowed before actual operation is required. Thus it was clear the President is prepared to continue the Army in its emergency flying of at least some part of the mail for many months to come.

Proposes I. C. C. Control.

As an innovation rivaling his startling designation of the Army as emergency carrier of the air mail, he proposed the Interstate Commerce Commission have jurisdiction over the whole question of air mail, with authority to pass on routes and fix maximum rates of pay.

To assure those who saw in his wholesale cancellation of the air-mail contracts a threat to commercial aviation, he affirmed: "We must avoid the evils of the past, and at the same time encourage the sound development of the aviation industry."

To accomplish this, he recommended that new contracts be let for not more than three years, with every safeguard thrown about them to provide "full, open and fair competitive bidding," and with a maximum rate beyond which contracts will not be let.

Specifications should be strictly limited to considerations such as

Jail Plot Laid To Love; 3 Shot

Huntsville, Tex., March 7 (AP).—Three convicts were shot down and two others forced to surrender, frustrating an attempted break from the Texas Penitentiary early today, in which authorities believe the love affairs of Bonnie Parker, cigar smoking gunwoman, were important.

Warden W. W. Waid said Roy Thornton, one of the convicts, was "crazy" about Bonnie Parker, Thornton's former wife but now the sweetheart and partner in crime of Clyde Barrow, Southwestern bank robber and killer.

The warden expressed belief Thornton's love for the gunwoman prompted him to plan the break for freedom. Thornton is serving 99 years for robbery with firearms. Bonnie Parker has been the associate of Barrow for several years and has been with the desperado when he shot his way out of several police traps.

Those wounded in the escape attempt were Charles Frazier, serving two 99-year sentences for robbery with firearms, and Pete Finch and Edward McArthur, both serving ten years for burglary. Physicians said Frazier might die.

Thornton and Robert Hill, another bandit also serving 99 years, surrendered.

Afraid to Help, Neighbors Idly Watch Man Die

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Neighbors of Charles Lohman, 38, an odd-job man, of near Kincheloe, found him mortally wounded in a meadow today, but instead of calling doctors, they called an undertaker and the sheriff. Nor did they offer help, because, they told officers, they supposed it would be "against the law" to touch him.

Poor and despondent, Lohman had shot himself with an old rifle. He lay dying for nearly two hours, while rain, sleet and snow fell. Officers from Weston found Lohman was dead and called the case a suicide.

Reporter on Trial of Treasury's Gold Thief Uncovers Little—But Makes a Lot of It!

Ah, Here's Morgenthau 'Flush'—He Borrowed Two-Bit Cab Fare!

[Editor's note: Gold coins amounting to $75 and several gold-plated bars were found missing today from a display case in the Treasury Department. An intruder got past the world's best burglar alarm and 100 guards. The United Press put a private investigator on this crime of the century. His experiences are told below.]

By Harry (Philo Vance) Ferguson.

Let it be clear at the outset that yours truly had little cooperation with or from the Treasury Department or the United States Secret Service in his attempt to throw out a dragnet and go over Washington with a fine-tooth comb in search of the culprit in what we shall call "the empty Treasury case."

On the second floor of the Treasury Department there are several glass cases containing sample gold coins and bars of scrap iron plated with gold. They are for tourists to look at.

Some time between 5 p. m. on March 6 and 12:30 p. m. on March 7, a burglar, equipped with a screw driver, came slinking down the hall, unscrewed the top of one of the cases and extracted $75 worth of gold coins and 11 bars of gold-plated scrap iron, worth nothing except in a sentimental way.

He disappeared, probably in a big blue sedan. Among the things he left untouched were $20,000,000 worth of gold in the Treasury vault and a paper weight on the desk of W. H. Moran, chief of the Secret Service, who has an office 200 feet from the scene of the crime.

So much for the details. Where the 100 guards were at the time, why the burglar alarm didn't work are questions that even this detective can not answer.

Obviously, the first thing to do was to question Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau. He sent out word that he wouldn't be questioned.

"So you won't talk, huh!" we growled to his closed door.

Culprit Soon Will Find All That Glitters Can't Be Spent.

safety, speed and load capacity, he advised, in what was obvious reference to extraneous conditions of some voided contracts—such as night flying experience—which he would eliminate together with "any combinations, agreements, or understandings" intended to circumvent competitive bidding.

His eagerly awaited declaration of policy further proposed that no company be given a contract having any connection, either by holding company or indirectly by interlocking directorates, with any other concern flying the mail or engaged in manufacturing aircraft. Contracts should neither be sublet nor sold, nor should contractors be allowed to merge, he urged.

"Obviously," added the President in one sentence ruling out former contractors, "also no contract should be made with any companies, old or new, any of whose officers were party to the obtaining of former contracts under circumstances which were clearly contrary to good faith and public policy."

These stipulations presaged the development of an entirely new network of transport concerns. Since most major companies are unceremoniously removed from the possibility of airmail awards, their gradual conversion to new concerns under reorganized ownership and management was seen as the only solution to a problem which has worried Government officials as well as owners themselves.

The Interstate Commerce Commission was proposed by Mr. Roosevelt as a judicial body to pass on questions of public convenience and the necessity for air transportation routes. Six months before each contract expires, he suggested, the commission should answer these questions as well as fix premium rates for airmail.

"Such legislation," said the President, "will relieve air transport companies from paralyzing monopolistic control which has heretofore often influenced them to buy planes and other equipment from associates and affiliates."

The letter was sent to Senator Kenneth McKellar, chairman of the Senate Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads; Chairman James M. Mead, of the corresponding House committee, and to Senator Hugo L. Black, chairman of the Senate investigating committee whose disclosures led to cancellation of the airmail contracts.

The statement of policy followed a White House conference attended by Postmaster General James A. Farley, William Howes, First Assistant Postmaster General; Harllee Branch, second assistant in charge of air mail, and Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper.

It immediately drew approving statements from Senator McKellar, who said that a bill to carry out the President's purpose would probably be introduced today or tomorrow, and the others to whom the letter was addressed, committee members, already are agreed on a general policy, Senator McKellar said, but not on all the details.

Declaring that the Interstate Commerce Commission would assure the aviation industry of every consideration, Senator Black predicted the President's program would result "in a real genuine airmail system, free from the political whims that have tossed the contracts about in the past."

"I have just received the President's letter," Representative Mead said in a statement, "and will bring the matter before the Postoffice Committee tomorrow.

"While the legislative recommendations are not altogether in accord with the legislation proposed by our committee, after all they are such as to achieve the same objectives, namely the restoration of the air mail to private lines.

"The President's recommendations will give every company in the United States an even chance to receive an air-mail contract. This was not the case under the administration of former Postmaster General Brown."

Scribe Trails Thief Of Treasury Gold

Here are the facts. Yesterday Morgenthau attended a committee hearing on Capitol Hill. When he left he had to borrow 25 cents from a doorman to pay his taxi fare downtown. Later he sent the doorman 50 cents in payment. Broke one minute, flush the next.

Late yesterday Morgenthau was noticed standing at the scene of the crime ordering extra guards posted on all floors tonight.

Our next move was to attempt to interview Chief Moran, just as colleague to colleague. He wasn't in his office. One rumor around the Treasury was that he had taken his overcoat home where it would be safe, but the Secret Service wouldn't cooperate in verifying the report.

Gold, as some of my readers may remember, is a precious metal which formerly was used in primitive countries as a medium of exchange. In the United States, its chief present use is as ballast for the vaults of the United States Government and to fill teeth. No American should want gold because it's against the law to carry it. Ergo, the burglar must have been a foreigner, who probably is also a dentist.

All that remains now is to "grill" foreign-born dentists.

This report would not be complete without Congressional reaction, so we have some for you. During discussion in the Senate yesterday on the confirmation of Robert H. Jackson as counsel for the Internal Revenue Bureau, Senator James Couzens (Republican), Michigan, remarked:

"It seems the need for watching the Treasury Department now is just as great as it was under the famous Mellon."

Then he said that Couzens didn't know about the great gold robbery. Wait until he finds out.

Woodring Denies Specification Charge

change in specifications, lowering the performance requirements as to speed, range and ceiling on the new ships turned into a spirited defense of his own position by Gen. Foulois.

After hearing the chief of Air Corps explain, committee members admitted astonishment, and agreed unanimously they had put the same interpretation upon Gen. Foulois' earlier testimony as contained in newspaper accounts of the Appropriations Committee hearing.

The chief of Air Corps then was questioned regarding cooperation of his department in obtaining for the committee names of air service officers who, while on leave, had worked for manufacturers of aircraft or engines.

The general's testimony that he hadn't "the slightest idea" of what was meant by a phrase in an Air Corps radiogram, which puzzled the committee, led to quite a bit of merriment when two of Foulois' assistants testified later in the day.

The concluding phrase in the radiogram directing Air Corps posts to furnish the required information read:

"A negative report is desired if appropriate."

Committee members insisted upon knowing what this meant. Gen. Foulois explained that while the telegram bore his signature, he had not seen it. His office, he said, is handling hundreds of telegrams each day.

General Had "No Idea."

The chief of Air Corps showed signs of the tremendous strain imposed by the duties of carrying the air mail, in addition to his constant appearance before committees. He appeared tired, but went briskly before a Senate committee when the aviation group was finished with his testimony.

"Can you tell us what was meant by that language?" he was asked by Chairman Rogers (Democrat), New Hampshire.

The witness said he had no idea.

"What possible construction could you put on the expression?" Rogers asked.

The committee summoned Lieut. Col. J. E. Fickel, acting executive officer of the Air Corps, who admitted full responsibility for the radiogram and its phraseology.

Representative Kvale (Farmer-Labor) Minnesota, said the committee had suspected the "negative report" phrase as a possible hint to "cover up."

"Not at all," said Lieut. Col. Fickel. "That is a very common phrase in Army communications. It is known to every officer and merely means a reply is desired. In this case, we wanted to know if there were no officers who had worked for airplane companies, as well as if any had done so."

A Corporal Would Know.

"Well," replied the witness, "I would say that any corporal who ever had charge of a squad would understand it."

Major Arnold N. Krogstad, who wrote the radiogram at Lieut. Col. Fickel's direction, also testified the expression would be clear to any officer who had been through the Army schools.

The two Air Corps officers pointed to "negative answers" received from Fort Sill and other aviation posts as indicative of the clarity of the message. Gen. Foulois was not present when they were testifying, but Gen. William Mitchell was an interested spectator.

The committee was assured that the Air Corps was making every effort to obtain the desired information.

The hearing opened with Woodring as the committee's first witness in its inquiry into War Department procurement methods since 1926.

The Assistant Secretary of War, under oath, was questioned regarding Gen. Foulois' testimony before the Appropriations Committee, testimony which the committee understood to mean that Woodring had changed specifications on the $7,500,000 worth of new planes.

"Did you make any such change?" Chairman Rogers asked.

"No, sir," replied Woodring.

"How do you account for Gen. Foulois' testimony?"

"I can't account for it. I can hardly believe he said it."

Record Denies Distortion.

The committee immediately went to the record of the hearings of the Appropriations Committee, and read into its own record excerpts from the general's testimony, indicating such distortion had not occurred. It also sent immediately for Gen. Foulois.

Meanwhile, Woodring testified to his firm belief that "competitive bidding, in two years, will produce better planes for the Army than under the system of negotiated contracts, and will prove more economical."

"We will have real competition, and the bidding will invite progress," he said.

At the suggestion of Representative Goss (Republican), New Hampshire, it was indicated the War Department, after canceling all negotiations for the $7,500,000 worth of planes, would hold an open competition in which "every known manufacturer in the country" would be invited to compete.

It was brought out that the Judge Advocate General of the Army now regards the contracts arranged for through competitive bidding in January as illegal. Awards have not been made, and apparently will not be.

When Gen. Foulois arrived, he was sworn and questioned regarding his statement that specifications had been changed by the Assistant Secretary of War.

Gen. Foulois Explains.

"The change related to procedure, not to specifications. That's what I meant," Gen. Foulois insisted. "I want to make it clear that the only thing I had in mind was the change from negotiation to open bidding."

Chairman Rogers traced Gen. Foulois' previous testimony, pointing out the subject under discussion had been a change in specifications bringing about a reduction in the speed, range and ceiling of the new planes.

"Didn't it occur to you that there would be any misunderstanding as to what you meant?" Rogers asked.

"No," said the witness.

"Then why," asked Rogers, "didn't you speak up later on when Mr. Collins (chairman of the sub-committee on Military Appropriations) specifically stated in his question 'after the specifications had been altered in the office of the Assistant Secretary of War?'"

"I had no such thought in mind," said Gen. Foulois.

James interposed the remark that "nothing in the record contradicts the impression given by you that the specifications were altered by Mr. Woodring."

Gen. Foulois continued to insist he had been misunderstood. Asked if he had read his testimony over before it was incorporated in the record, he said he had, and had made only minor corrections in typographical errors. He admitted he had not seen fit to change any part of the stenographic report regarding specifications, and said he would not suggest any changes even now.

Rogers then produced a letter from Brig. Gen. Westover to Brig. Gen. Pratt, part of which was put into the record of the Appropriations Committee hearings by Gen. Foulois.

"Why didn't you put in the whole letter?" asked Rogers.

Gen. Foulois said he thought he had furnished the part that Collins wanted.

Read Only Part of Letter.

This part read:

"I have just received instruction from the Office of the Assistant Secretary of War by telephone to the effect that no negotiations for new airplanes would be undertaken until the program has been submitted to the Assistant Secretary of War, Mr. Woodring, and approved. Please be governed accordingly. I shall confirm those instructions direct tomorrow, but wish to make them of record in this way."

The part which Gen. Foulois failed to read into the record follows:

"The latter instructions indicate that Burdette Wright has apparently placed the entering wedge which may further complicate the plans for procurement under the PWA program, or for that matter, under any program. I believe there are other factors they are going to affect also, for I find that there is a representative of the American Eagle-Lincoln Aircraft Corporation (of Kansas City) in the city endeavoring to see me and my understanding is that he has probably been referred to this office by the Assistant Secretary's office."

Recalled to the stand, Woodring said Burdette Wright, a representative of the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Co. of Buffalo had been in his office, protesting about being unable to obtain Army business through negotiated contracts, but that he (Woodring) did not know anyone with the Kansas City firm and had not been approached by them.

It was stresed that the American Eagle-Lincoln Co. is located in Kansas City, Mo., not Kan.

Garnett Defied By Shoemaker On Fight Trial

More Shouting.

Hart turned the enraged legislator over to District Attorney Leslie C. Garnett. In Garnett's office there was more shouting and pounding on desks.

"There isn't going to be a trial," reporters and passersby outside Garnett's office heard the Representative shout.

"Oh, yes there is," replied Garnett. "There's going to be a trial if I have to prosecute you myself. There are enough policemen in the District to arrest you."

Shoemaker then threatened to make "a speech in the House" about Garnett.

Shoemaker attended the Lorton Reformatory hearing in the District Building in the afternoon, then vanished to turn up later at his office, where his defiance of the district attorney and his staff was repeated.

Claims Frame-up."

"Nobody's going to put me in jail. I am convinced this is just an attempt to get back at me for the Lorton investigation."

Immediately following Shoemaker's appearance at the Police Court Building, Garnett notified Hart to serve the warrant through the usual police channels. Police late yesterday said they were searching for Shoemaker, who spent several hours at the District Building testifying in the Lorton prison investigation.

Newman charged the Minnesota legislator struck him in the eye when he became enraged because the taxi driver did not move immediately at a traffic light.

Newman said he followed Shoemaker's car and asked for an explanation. The Representative replied with another blow, Newman said.

As Joseph S. Cooke, a policeman, came to the scene of the argument, Newman added, Shoemaker leaped in his automobile and speeded away, almost knocking the officer down.

Gen. Foulois' Charge The Post Distorted His Statements Is Disproven by House Record

Air Corps Chief Denied He Said Woodring Changed Specifications, or Pressure Was Used, But Repeats Remarks.

The following memorandum from Maj. Gen. Foulois to Assistant Secretary of War Woodring was put into the record of the hearing yesterday of the House Military Affairs subcommittee on aviation:

WAR DEPARTMENT
Washington

March 7, 1934

MEMORANDUM FOR—The Assistant Secretary of War:

SUBJECT—Misstatements in the Press.

1. I wish to invite your attention to statements in The Washington Post of March 6, 1934, to the effect that in my hearings before the Appropriations Committee I testified that the Assistant Secretary of War had "ordered the specifications changed" in connection with the proposed procurement of aircraft under the PWA allotment of $7,500,000.

The foregoing underlined statement is false, and a complete distortion by the Press of the testimony given by me before the Appropriations Committee.

2. Your attention is also invited to statements in The Washington Post of March 7, 1934, to the effect that I had testified that—

> "The Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co. and the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation had brought pressure upon the Assistant Secretary of War and that later Woodring changed the specifications."

The foregoing statements in the Press are also completely false and a thorough distortion by the Press of my testimony before the Appropriations Committee.

(Signed) B. D. FOULOIS
Major General, Air Corps,
Chief of the Air Corps.

The committee then put into the record excerpts from Gen. Fulois' testimony before the subcommittee of the House Committee on Appropriations on February 14, 1934, as follows:

(1)

Mr. COLLINS. General Foulois, you were allotted certain moneys by the Public Works Administration for the procurement of bombing, pursuit and attack planes, were you not?

General FOULOIS. Yes, sir; $7,500,000.

Mr. COLLINS. Now, in the procurement of the three types of planes you wanted to get, of course you wanted plans of each type having the largest proven accomplishments, did you not?

General FOULOIS. Yes, sir.

Mr. COLLINS. And, therefore, you specified types that you had every reason to believe would have a cruising radius of a certain amount, a ceiling of a certain amount, a speed of a certain amount, and other accomplishments; is that so?

General FOULOIS. In general, that is correct; yes, sir.

Mr. COLLINS. But before bids were invited on these three types of planes, with those particular accomplishments as the minimum, a change was made, was there not?

General FOULOIS. Yes, sir.

Mr. COLLINS. Who made that change?

General FOULOIS. The change was made by the Assistant Secretary of War.

Mr. COLLINS. General, did any other concerns outside of the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation and the Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co. protest your procurement plan?

General FOULOIS. Not to my knowledge. Those were the only two concerns I had any direct knowledge of as having been to the Assistant Secretary of War.

At the request of Chairman Rogers, Gen. Foulois stated he had read over the stenographers' report of his testimony before it was incorporated in the record of the hearings, and had made no changes in the parts quoted above. He declared he had no changes to suggest at the present time.

Couzens Calls Morgenthau's Action 'Tricky'

Treasury Head Attacked for Ouster of Prettyman.

serted Senator Couzens, "and asked him if he had discharged Prettyman, and he said he had not. I said, 'I understand you have asked for his resignation.' He said he had. I then asked what the difference was between firing a man and asking for his resignation.

"The Secretary of the Treasury said, 'Why, he does not have to grant my request for his resignation.' That seemed so frivilous to me coming from the Secretary of the Treasury that I was astounded."

Couzens said he had objection to Jackson's appointment.

"I desire to vigorously condemn the methods of the Secretary of the Treasury in this matter and further to point out that his statements were unreliable and not dependable," Senator Couzens went on.

Senator Couzens said Morgenthau had "misstated the facts as to the removal of Prettyman and he misstated the facts as to Jackson being sworn in." He said Morgenthau was "absolutely tricky and wholly unreliable."

Couzens said he was "doubtful of the ability of the Secretary of the Treasury to conduct that office in view of the methods he has pursued." He said he had hoped that under the New Deal, he could cease to keep the Treasury Department under observation.

"From the evidence which I get, however," he added, "the present Treasury Department needs watching as much as it did under the great Mellon."

Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), Mississi, in charge of the debate, said Senator Couzens had made "a fair presentation" of the facts, but that he could not agree with the conclusion that Morgenthau was "tricky or unreliable."

Mail Payment To United Air Line Held Up

Justice Department Had Requested Action, Black Probe Is Told.

Watres air-mail bill, which was passed in 1930.

Meanwhile Senator Arthur Robinson (Republican), Indiana, on the Senate floor declared that the sale by J. P. Moorgan & Co. of 4,500 shares of United stock during the two weeks preceding cancellation of contracts indicated that big "international bankers had some advance information."

"It would be interesting to know how they learned about it," he said. "Evidently the money-changers have not been driven out of the temple.

"This is certainly food for thought in connection with one of the most ruthless and high-handed actions ever taken by this or any other government."

Henderson continued his testimony with the statement that he had been so opposed to the air-mail administration plan of former Postmaster General Brown that he went to the White House to complain to President Hoover.

"President Hoover talked about the plan the Postmaster General was considering," he said. "I started to tell him I thought it would be bad policy to follow Brown's plan; that it might forever put aviation on a subsidy basis. I thought there were forces in American aviation that could make the business stand on its own feet.

"The President interrupted me by saying he wished I would become thoroughly familiar with the plan and if then I was still opposed, to come back and talk to him."

Favors Sound Business Basis.

However, before Henderson had an opportunity of returning to the White House his associates decided that there was nothing for them to do but to follow Brown's proposals and not continue their opposition.

Henderson concluded his evidence by saying that the air mails should be carried on the same basis that mail is carried by the railroads and that some bi-partisan, judicial commission like the Interstate Commerce Commission should be given control.

Young Fess' lobbying activities for the Watres bill, the piece of legislation which would be entirely changed by the recommendations made last night by President Roosevelt, was done for National Air Transport, a subsidiary of United Aircraft, said Henderson.

"Early in April, 1930, the Watres bill had passed the House and been reported out by the Senate committee," continued the witness. "But the Senate had not voted on it.

Blanket Wage Raise Not Aim, Says Johnson

Employers Assured NRA Will Not Attempt Horizontal Ruling.

rious mistake and would overload many businesses.

President Roosevelt revealed that his hours and wages appeal had brought a favorable response from all sections of the country.

Franklin S. Pollak, legal adviser of NRA Compliance Division, announced that hereafter, publicity regarding code violations would be given out at the point of origin to give greater effect in such cases.

During the continuation of the code conferences, George Sloan, head of the cotton textile code authority, said that while many industries probably could stand further shortening of hours, he thought it would be a grave mistake to make a flat rule because it would raise false hopes in the breast of every working man.

Urges Modified Cut.

John R. McGinley, of the silk code authority, urged industry "not to resist the Administration's hour-shortening plan too much." He thought the 30-hour week should be opposed, but that it was possible for many industries to cut five hours off of their working schedules.

McGinley urged that code authorities act on their own initiative to work out problems of fair competition.

Gen. Johnson, who had entered the room just about this time, interrupted.

"I think you are absolutely right," he said. "The code authorities should take the initiative and when they can't agree, come to the Government. The opportunity is theirs and the whole program is in their hands. If they fail, this whole thing is going to be the worst flop in the world."

Problems of financing small businesses occupied attention prominently. NRA officials revealed they are studying a new plan for granting loans to small businesses. Loans up to $12,500 would be made under this plan for a 3-year period with a Government guarantee covering 80 per cent of the loan.

Methods of expediting capital loans of up to $50,000 for periods of five to seven years also were before NRA officials. These credit plans were contained in a report made by Division Administrator A. D. Whiteside.

Loans for Small Businesses

The Industrial Advisory Council of the Department of Commerce also was studying the subject. One tentative suggestion was for formation of investment corporations, under entirely private auspices, to issue bonds which would cover the needs of groups of small businesses.

Members pointed out that whereas a large concern can float its own bond issues, smaller concerns are unable to do this in most instances. By going to an investment corporation, they could pledge assets and the corporation would issue bonds of its own, advancing individual loans to its clients out of the proceeds. This plan, however, does not deal with the problem of intermediate credit, which is equally pressing on many industries.

The whole problem is one which is regarded as pressing by Gen. Johnson, not alone for the small businesses but for the heavy industries which have been lagging somewhat behind producers of consumer goods.

Spain Menaced By Riot Threat

Madrid, March 7 (U.P.).—A state of alarm, the second of three steps ending in martial law, was proclaimed here today as rising unrest threatened overthrow of the government. The first, a state of prevention, has been in effect for several weeks.

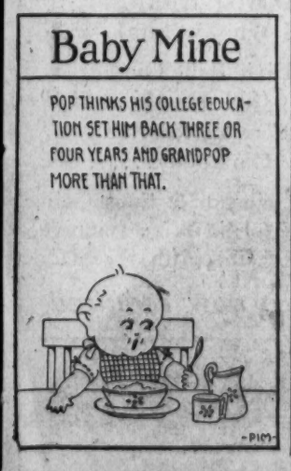
Precautions were taken to prevent violence. Public buildings were heavily guarded, and soldiery held in readiness.

The decree proclaiming the state of alarm will be made public in tomorrow's Official Gazette. The communique added that "indiscipline is reigning" in Spain's social situation.

Right Wing leaders claimed that strikes now under way or being fomented by radical labor elements were part of a Socialist plan to call a revolutionary general strike.

Premier Alejandro Lerroux went before Parliament for the first time yesterday with his new cabinet, and faced severe criticism from Left Wing benches.

A growing Fascist movement in the Spanish republic as well as labor unrest was believed responsible for the proclamation of a state of alarm in Madrid today.



The New Dealers

—The Low Down on the Higher Ups—

Swanson a Self-Made New Dealer

Easy Going, He's Happy With Navy Building Battleships.

By the Unofficial Observer.

SECRETARY Claude A Swanson's story, like the man himself, is a short but not a gay one. Like Secretary of State Cordell Hull, he comes from a border State, having been born in Swansonville, Pittsylvania County, Virginia, 71 years ago. He is largely a self-educated man, having attended school until he was 16, taught school for one year and attended the Virginia Polytechnic Institute for one session. This patchwork schooling is a grim reminder of the impoverishment of the South by the Civil War.

"Not having the means to complete his college course" (he notes in his brief biography for the Congressional Directory), he worked as a clerk in a grocery store at Danville, Va., for two years, after which he went to Randolph-Macon College and studied law at the University of Virginia, eventually hanging out his shingle in Chatham, where he also entered politics. Then he was elected to Congress, where he served seven terms, resigning his seat when he was elected Governor of Virginia in 1905, returning to Washington in 1910 to fill a vacancy in the United States Senate, where he remained until March 4, 1933.

Swanson made the Navy his specialty in the Senate, where he was war-time chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee. In this capacity, he came to know Franklin D. Roosevelt and they liked each other from the start. Always a big Navy enthusiast, Swanson looked on the navy yard at Norfolk, Va., as the most important part of our sea defense and was always successful in getting money for the yard, even when naval appropriations shrank during the post-war period.

He horned in on the New Deal by virtue of the fact that he was the one important Virginia politician who favored Roosevelt in the pre-convention period. Carter Glass, Swanson's Senatorial colleague, was strongly anti-Roosevelt and Gov. Harry F. Byrd, always a conservative, had been captured by the Wall street Democrats as one of the sworn of "favorite sons" who were supposed to split the Roosevelt vote.

Absence From Country Prevented Virginia Rift.

Swanson's absence from the country, during the Disarmament Conference at Geneva, made it possible and safe for him to favor Roosevelt without taking an active part against the other Virginia leaders, but before the campaign was over insiders knew that Claude A. Swanson would be Secretary of the Navy, provided Glass did not become Secretary of the Treasury. The Cabinet was too small to hold such diametrically opposed Virginians, Glass being irritable and intractable, a man who seldom compromised, while Swanson was amiable and willing to go along.

Another reason for his appointment was that Byrd was the real power in Virginia politics, controlling the machinery and nursing huge political ambitions. Having failed to be nominated for the Presidency or the Vice Presidency, Byrd wanted a job and launched a vigorous under-cover campaign to be made Secretary of Agriculture or special assistant to the President in charge of political affairs.

Now President Roosevelt shared the general public feeling that two Byrds at the South Pole were preferable to a Byrd in the Cabinet and did not want any self-conscious presidential candidates in his official family, least of all any determined conservatives.

On the other hand, Roosevelt knew that Byrd had ability and should have a place in the Government, and if he failed to make the Cabinet would run for the Senate in 1934. Swanson's year for reelection. The chances were that he would have beaten Swanson, who was not at all eager to leave the Senate where, had he remained, he would have been No. 1 man on the Foreign Relations Committee. Swanson thought it would be a much bettter idea for Roosevelt to put Glass in the Cabinet, allowing Byrd to take the Glass vacancy in the Senate, but when the latter turned down the Treasury, Swanson quickly took the Navy job while the going was good.

New Ships for Navy Among His Triumphs.

It was not the worst of the New Deal appointments, for Roosevelt knew that Swanson would cooperate and that he knows the Navy thoroughly.

Swanson had his triumph when the President allocated $238,000,000 from the Public Works fund to start 32 new warships. Roosevelt hit upon that way of obtaining a large naval appropriation, but it was Swanson who gave him the idea when, as is conventional with Secretaries of the Navy, he began a campaign to bring the Navy up to treaty strength, a program which would require the construction of 101 ships before 1935.

He was on the verge of another big moment when the anti-Cespedes revolution occurred in Cuba and he was headed for Havana on the historic battleship Indianapolis. Starting out from the White House with a truculent air, he gave the impression that he was assigned to "straighten out the Cuban mess." President Roosevelt thanked God and Marconi that he was able to recall the aged fire-eater to reality, but for three days the whole Administration was worried to death for fear that when Swanson reached Havana, he would insist on going ashore and "taking charge of the situation." Roosevelt's messages not only commanded Swanson to issue a reassuring statement, which he did, but gave positive orders to the commander of the Indianapolis to prevent the Secretary of the Navy from going ashore at Havana.

For, despite his years, Swanson has vigor and determination and at 71 has not yet become an elder statesman of the philosophic type, probably because he has never been a statesman in any sense of the word. He is not alarmed by the New Deal, since, unlike his fellow-Virginian, Carter Glass, he has no chronic convictions on any major economic matters. He is a party wheelhorse with a passion for the Navy and now that the Navy is building little ships, he is perfectly happy.

Sentimental Failings Lacking in Secretary.

Moreover, by putting Swanson in the Cabinet, President Roosevelt prevented him from becoming chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, mercifully reserving that post for Key Pittman, of Nevada, formerly number two Democrat on that imposing assemblage. This is no reflection on Swanson, who, despite his swashbuckling tendencies, is no sentimentalist and has no use for Wilsonian internationalism, there being not the faintest impulse toward reform within his frame. It is good to have a few cynics in the Cabinet, especially when foreign relations are on the carpet.

One of our few administrative traditions has been maintained by Swanson, in the selection of another Roosevelt—Col. Henry Latrobe Roosevelt, former marine officer—as Assistant Secretary of the Navy. Swanson took the credit for finding him, but one suspects that Mrs. Roosevelt did the picking, with the aid of the Navy higher command, for Henry is the fifth of the Roosevelt clan to hold the office, the others being Theodore Roosevelt, Franklin D., Theodore, jr., and Theodore Douglas Robinson, son of T. R.'s sister. Chunky and energetic, Henry Latrobe Roosevelt reminds one of the older T. R. in build.

Under Swanson, the Navy is one of the few completely harmonious departments in the New Deal, being happily free of the conservative-radical cleavage which has hampered other Federal agencies. Swanson knows the Navy personnel from top to bottom and has shifted it around to suit his purposes. Vice Admiral William Harrison Standley, one of the Navy's most popular men, having succeeded Admiral William V. Pratt as Chief of Naval Operations, after Pratt had lost caste with the high Navy officers by being too loyal to the Hoover Administration's belief that paper was stronger than sea-power.

The Navy felt that Pratt had failed to make the last-ditch fight for ships and men that the Navy feels is always necessary when a civilian President and Secretary of State begin angling for the pacifist vote at the expense of National defense. Swanson will never permit such a mistake to occur while he is in charge of the Navy Department. Just give him enough ships and give Norfolk Navy Yard enough money and he will be content.

Frock-Coated Statesman Of Leisurely Era.

A statesman of the nineteenth century type who often wore a frock coat and winged collar in the Senate, Swanson is an interesting survival of the leisurely garrulity of premachine age politics. He still likes to talk, and occasionally rumors escape the Cabinet room that a majority of the Cabinet is plotting to muzzle Swanson so that some of the rest of them can be heard. There is no doubt of his loyalty to Roosevelt, or of his innocence of personal political ambitions, or yet of his efficiency in the Navy Department. Doubtless the Norfolk Navy Yard will blossom like the rose during the next eight years, but the Navy itself will be strengthened, which will not be a bad thing, considering the state of the world.

Swanson's first move, after the settling-down process had been completed, was to make a tour of our naval stations in the Pacific. On his return he calmly recommended that we immediately set about building up our fleet to treaty strength. And for the first time, such a statement emanating from such a source was not greeted with the angry howls of the bloodthirsty pacifists of the United States. This in itself was no mean achievement. The Navy likes him and he likes the Navy; the Cabinet likes him, Roosevelt likes him. He is amiable, but he is also highly efficient. This in a politician is not the least of the paradoxes of the New Deal.

Secretary of War George Henry Dern, the man who might have been Vice President, is the silent member of the Cabinet, Roosevelt's "dear old George," and his acknowledgment of the existence of Democratic voters west of Mississippi.

As becomes a public monument, Dern is reserved in manner. Occasionally a little item in the middle of a newspaper reminds the public of his existence, but the only time he crashed the front page after the Cabinet was announced was when this Unknown Secretary delivered an Armistice Day speech at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Most Washington observers have written Dern down as a total loss—a nice, harmless, pleasant man—but they underestimate him. He is intelligent and he has an instinctive understanding of the American experiment. In Cabinet meetings he usually lines up on the liberal side, sometimes pretty far to the left, and the order is generally Perkins, Wallace and Ickes, with Dern next in line.

Dern Owes His Job To Geographical Luck.

He owes his job to the fact that he is a Far Western Democrat and a personal friend of F. D. R. He was no dark horse, having made his own political career in Utah long before Roosevelt ever met him. He was born in Dodge County, Nebr., in September, 1892, later attending Fremont (Nebraska) Normal College for a year and the University of Nebraska for two years. In 1891 he emigrated to Utah, where he became active in the gold-mining and utility game. He was also the joint inventor of an ore-roasting device and until 1925 his career was that of a successful mine operator and inventor, at which he made a small fortune.

In 1915 he branched out into politics, entering the Utah State Senate as a Democrat and remaining there until he was nominated and elected Governor of the State in 1924, being reelected in 1928.

Here was a Democrat who was twice elected governor of an ingrained Republican State, one of the only two States which stood by Taft in 1912, that year of Republican obliteration; a Congregationalist who was twice chosen as head of the chief Mormon principality. He was backed by the powerful mining interests and was helped by Republican squabbles, but in 1924, when Coolidge carried Utah by a big majority, Dern received more votes than "Silent Cal."

This election produced a typical bit of Dern humor. His Republican candidate was named Mabey. "Dear old George" coined the campaign slogan: "Utah needs a Dern good Governor—and I don't mean Mabey." In 1928, when Herbert Hoover carried Utah by 14,000 votes, Dern carried it by 30,000. There was more to him than wise-cracks.

He was a pretty good executive and as 1932 drew near, the Democrats of the Mountain States began to get behind this proven vote-getter. He could have had the support of several Western delegations at the Chicago Convention if he had not met Roosevelt.

D. C. Court Ruling Hits Reno Divorces

plaintiff and she is entitled to a limited divorce on that ground."

Since Holt actually complied with the Nevada laws in first securing his residence, and then securing "service.. upon his wife in Nevada, the decision is all the more important. Mrs. Holt, it was shown in her suit here, journeyed to Reno to look after her interests, and while there was served with the papers in her husband's suit, and filed an answer.

Residence Is Issue.

The Nevada suit was tried August 25, 1931, with Holt and his landlady as the only witnesses. The husband testified that he went to Nevada to live "for the purpose of making Nevada his home for an indefinite period of time." Although Holt actually was a physical resident of Washo County, Nev., Justice Adkins decided that "on the whole evidence I find that defendant's sole purpose in going to Reno was to obtain a divorce and that he had no purpose of residing there permanently or of making his domicile in Nevada.

"Plainly upon the evidence, defendant deserted plaintiff when he went to Reno to obtain his divorce. I have found as a fact that the husband did not obtain a domicile in Nevada. The question of law is whether the fact that the wife filed an answer (in Reno) gave jurisdiction to the Nevada court."

Justice Adkins then mentioned four leading cases, decided by the higher courts, which declared that "a divorce obtained by a person legally domiciled in one State, who leaves that State and goes into another solely for the purpose of obtaining a divorce and with no purpose of residing there permanently is invalid, and the State of bona fide residence may forbid the enforcement within its borders of a decree of divorce so procured."

Democratic Post Resigned By Mrs. Ross

Mint Director Says She Is Anxious to Avoid 2-Job Stigma.

Numerous other committee members hold relief jobs, collectorships and other Federal jobs in various parts of the country.

Letter to Farley.

In her letter to Farley, Mrs. Ross said:

"For several weeks I have been giving serious thought to the discussion in the newspapers, from time to time renewed, relative to Government officials holding membership in the National committees of the political parties.

"I do not know how I could, even if I chose to do so, relate my connection with the Democratic National committee to the mint service in such a way as to serve my own advantage or that of any other person. In order, however, to avoid even an appearance of conflicting interests where there are concerned my public service and my identity with the organization of my party, I tender to you my resignation from the Democratic National committee, and state for your information that I have sent to Wyoming my resignation as National committeewoman from that State.

"Permit me, my dear Mr. Chairman, in retiring, to express the pleasure I have found in association with you and the other members of the committee. Particularly do I desire to pay my tribute to your able and unselfish leadership."

Farley's Reply.

Farley's reply said:

"This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of March 6 tendering your resignation as a member of the Democratic National committee for the State of Wyoming.

"I do not know of anyone, Mrs. Ross, who has rendered any greater service to the party and to the committee than you during the time that you have served as a member of the Democratic National committee. In the different campaigns in which you were actively engaged, you performed a splendid service to the party and those of us who are familiar with your earnest efforts will always remember them. I know that in the position you now hold you will render the same efficient and loyal service which you did as a member of the Democratic National committee, I assure you it is with sincere regret that I accept your resignation, realizing full well the spirit which prompted you to submit it.

"If I can be of service to you at any time, I hope you will not hesitate to get in touch with me."

Mrs. Ross has been active in Democratic politics for many years. She became Governor of Wyoming in 1925, when her husband died, to fill his unexpired term. She served as Governor for two years. As a vice chairman of the Democratic National committee, she for a time headed the women's organization of the party, making her headquarters in Washington. She was appointed Director of the Mint early in the present Administration.

South Dakota Backs Langer

Valley City, N. Dak., March 7 (AP). Gov. William A. Langer, recently removed as Federal relief head in North Dakota, tonight had the indorsement of his party for renomination.

United States Senator Gerald P. Nye, his colleague in activities of the Nonpartisan League, State Republican faction, was sent a collect telegram, criticizing his pronouncements in connection with the Governor's ouster as "an attempt to wreck the organization that elected him."

Nye was "spanked" in connection with a Senate attack on the practice of obtaining campaign funds by assessing Government employes.

A grand jury investigation was asked by Secretary Ickes, and later welcomed by Langer in a letter to him, after the Secretary said he had information Langer had assessed Federal relief workers and State highway workers 5 per cent of their salaries for a political fund.

Liquor Is Legal As Peery Signs Virginia's Bill

Sales Likely March 22; Control Board Not Yet Named.

By Doug Warrenfels.

Richmond, March 7.—Liquor was legalized in Virginia today for the first time in 17 years, when Gov. Peery signed the Hall-Staples bill.

The measure will become law March 22. Administration spokesmen, however, declined to predict whether whisky would actually be placed on sale by that date. Final decision will be made by the control board, yet to be appointed.

Gov. Peery remained silent on the board personnel. He indicated his selections would not be announced until affer adjournment of the Legislature Saturday.

Provisions of Bill.

Present when the Governor signed the measure were Senator A. P. Staples, Senate manager of the legislation; Delegate Wilbur C. Hall, Leesburg, House manager, aand Senator John W. Eggleston, Norfolk, chairman of the preliminary rum study commission.

The outstanding provision calls for sales in the original package only from State-operated dispensaries. Private licenses will handle nothing but wine and beer. The first $1,650,000 of hard liquor profits each year will go to the State, with counties and cities to receive 50 per cent of the remainder. Eggleston termed the measure "the best liquor law in the world."

Hall predicted the bill would meet with popular approval. He stressed the fact that the State would receive no liquor excise tax, though it will exercise powers of a monopoly and fix prices.

Hunting License Change.

The Senate passed a bill sponsored by Senator John W. Rust, Fairfax, to permit sale of three-day hunting licenses to nonresidents for $5. Present laws require sportsmen from other States to buy full season licenses costing $15.50. They will continue to have the option of obtaining unlimited permits.

With Republicans objecting the measure designed to "save the skin" of Senator Aubrey G. Weaver, Front Royal, Democrat, the House concurred in Senate passage of a bill reapportioning certain senatorial districts. Weaver was given Rappahannock County from the adjoining district of Senator Cecil Conner, Leesburg.

Delegate John W. Morrison, Harrisonburg, defeated by 50 votes when he ran against Weaver for the Senate at the last election, charged the transfer would make Weaver's position secure.

Roanoke Awaits State D.A.R. Meet

Reception and Tea Already Arranged for Visitors.

Roanoke, Va., March 7 (Spl.). Roanoke and Salem chapters of Daughters of the American Revolution are planning for the thirty-eighth State Conference of the D. A. R. here March 20-22. Mrs. Felix K. Parker is chairman of the committee.

Following the opening program the evening of March 20, a reception for visitors will be held by the American Legion Auxiliary, and the William Watts Chapter, U. D. C.

Swindler of Bank By Check Sought

Martinsburg Police Hunt Man Getting $47.50.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Officers here today were seeking "J. H. Gray," who swindled a bank out of $47.50 by a savings deposit ruse and then disappeared. From descriptions given police he is believed to be the man wanted in a dozen other States for a similar offense.

Last Friday the man deposited a $70 check on a Baltimore bank. The following morning he presented the pass book to another clerk in the bank and was permitted to withdraw $47.50 of the amount.

The check was returned unhonored Monday.

Purcellville Couple Wed.

Purcellville, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—A quiet wedding was solemnized yesterday in the parsonage at Warrenton, when Miss Hazel Dean Gaver, of Purcellville, daughter of Mrs. Grace O. Gaver, became the bride of Samuel Carroll Hirst, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Hirst, of Purcellville. The couple will live here.

A Break

'Good' Virginia Bootleggers to Go Scot Free.

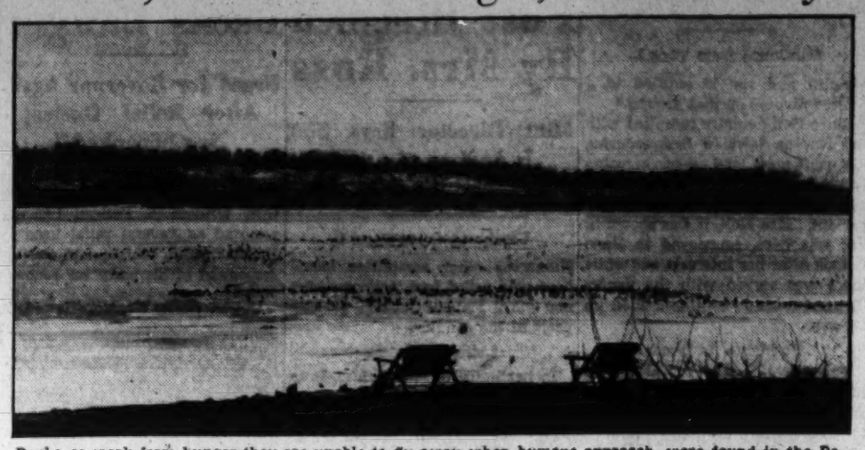
Norfolk, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Judge James U. Goode, of Corporation Court No. 2, announced that March 22 would be "Emancipation Day" for "good" bootleggers now in jail. Gov. Peery today signed the liquor control bill, which becomes effective that date.

He said bootleggers known to have been frequent violators will have to serve their terms. In the meantime, trial of the approximately 60 whisky indictments pending is proceeding as usual.

"In those cases of ordinary possession and transportation, the court will release the defendant from jail when the new law goes into effect," Judge Goode said. "Those in such cases who are being held for the nonpayment of costs will also be released.

"Where there has been a vicious disregard for the law, however, the court will have to review each case carefully and use its discretion."

Ducks, Weak From Hunger, Unable to Fly



Ducks, so weak from hunger they are unable to fly away when humans approach, were found in the Potomac along the Mount Vernon highway Sunday when this picture was taken by H. H. Talbot Pierce Dies at Home In Waterford

Church Vestryman, Native Here, Will Be Buried at Sharon, Pa.

Waterford, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Funeral services for Talbot Pierce, 59, prominent churchman, who died today at his home, will be held from the residence Friday at 3 p. m., conducted by the Rev. G. Peyton Craighill, rector of St. James' Episcopal Church.

Mr. Pierce was a native of Washington, son of the late Perry Benjamin Pierce and Susan Walker. He was a graduate of the Friends School at Washington and of Princeton University.

For several years he lived in Cleveland, Ohio. In 1924 he came to Loudoun County, where he became a vestryman of the St. James' Episcopal Church.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Clara Filer Pierce; and one sister, Miss Mary Walker Pierce. Burial will be Saturday at Sharon, Pa.

Levin W. Lane Dies At Williamsburg

W. & M. College Treasurer 30 Years Was 72.

Williamsburg, Va., March 7 (AP). Col. Levin Winder Lane, jr., 72, died at his home here today following an illness of nearly a year.

For many years a merchant here, he served as treasurer of the College of William and Mary 30 years, retiring several years ago.

Charles Newland Rites Held at Mount Jackson

Mount Jackson, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Funeral rites were conducted from the Union Church here for Charles Newland, 67, of Mount Jackson, former deputy sheriff and game warden for Shenandoah County. Burial was in the local cemetery.

Surviving are one son, Lester, and seven daughters, Mrs. Cecil Litton, Mrs. Wilkins and Mrs. Mark Hepner, of Hepner, Va.; Mrs. Claude Hepner and Mrs. Brinker, of Hamburg, Va., and Misses Ella and Nella Newland, of Shenandoah County.

$4,000,000 Federal Aid Loss Menaces Virginia Relief Plan

Legislative Committee Will Study Problem Caused by Auto Tax Cut.

Richmond, March 7 (AP).—Gov. Peery has been warned that Virginia definitely will lose $4,000,000 in Federal Relief funds for the coming year unless the State contributes $2,000,000 to relief.

"I don't know yet what the policy will be in this matter," the Governor said, "but it is a serious situation we face. To continue this program, the Federal authorities tell us, the State not only will be asked for two millions, but the localities would be expected to provide materials for relief projects."

Meanwhile the State Senate finance committee became alarmed over the situation, and on a motion by Senator John Lesner, of Norfolk, appointed a committee to work with a commitee from the House finance committee and the Lieutenant-Governor, the Speaker and the Governor in devising a way to meet the difficulty. The Senators named to serve on the committee were John Lesner, of Norfolk; Henry T. Wickham, of Hanover, Aubrey G. Weaver, of Front Royal; C. E. Burks, of Lynchburg, and W. O. Rogers, of Waverly.

The situation reached its climax with the passage of the administration bill reducing automobile license taxes nearly 50 per cent and thereby reducing by nearly $2,000,000 funds for the highway department, which has been used as the State's relief agency.

Discussion of the problem disclosed a tentative plan to absorb CWA workers, to be disbanded this month, into a rural rehabilitation and Civil Works program to be tried out first in the South.

Auto Privilege Tax Test Set

City License Is Opposed in Virginia Court as Dual Levy.

W. D. Selden, jr., of Richmond, summoned to appear in police court Friday for failure to procure his 1933 city automobile license, said he will contest the law. He charges that the city participates in the State automobile tax fund for the construction of streets lying along State highways, and also receives funds from the gasoline tax. He contends that the city license duplicates the State license and is illegal.

He plans to appeal his case to the hustings court, or to institute proceedings to have a test made of the validity of the law under the declaratory judgment act.

Convicted Car Thieves Face Burglary Charge

Danville, Va., March 7 (Spl.). With four years in the penitentiary facing them for the theft of an automobile in Halifax County, Robert Adams and George Lamb have been brought here to face another charge.

They are alleged to have entered a sporting goods store here and stolen guns and hunting clothes.

Husband Acquitted In Killing of Wife

King George Courthouse, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—J. Conway Grigsby was acquitted of shooting his wife to death last autumn, in a Circuit Court verdict today.

Judge Frederick W. Coleman, after hearing Mrs. Grigsby, only defense witness, instructed the jury to find Grigsby not guilty.

More Scrap Iron Sold To Japan at Norfolk

Norfolk, Va., March 7 (AP). Japanese purchases of scrap iron in this port have been resumed, a shipment of 9,200 tons on the Norwegian steamer Ortwo being reported today. The Ortwo picked up 2,200 tons of scrap iron at Newport News and 7,000 tons at Norfolk.

Jury Indicts Six in Bristol

Two Named in Ring Theft; Various Charges Hold Other Suspects.

Bristol, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Six persons were indicted at yesterday's opening session of corporation court here.

Two men, Burley Brown and Lester Ewing, both colored, were indicted for grand larceny in the alleged theft of 35 or more diamond rings from the S. C Phelps jewelry store last November.

Ennie Huntley, colored, was indicted for attempted housebreaking. Police said they caught him after an attempt to enter the home of R. C. Horner on Lee Heights.

Accused of swindling a visiting cattleman of $300.65, Minnie Harless Rosenbaum was indicted on a charge of grand larcency. H. C. Gibson was indicted for allegedly obtaining $300 under false pretenses. Mary Lee Bartee, colored, was indicted for felonious assault upon Lena Madison, also colored.

Trial of criminal cases will begin tomorrow morning, with Judge Floyd H. Roberts on the bench. Members of the grand jury are R. C. Stoots, S. C. McChesney, C. J. Kingsolving, W. W. Fillinger and Paul Cocke

Song Copyright Suit Filed Against WRDX

Richmond, March 7 (AP). — The Richmond Development Co., operator of Radio Station WRDX, at Roanoke, has been sued in United States District Court here by Gene Buck, president of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, alleging the broadcasting of 20 songs the afternoon of December 20, 1933, without permission of the copyright owners.

Damages of not less than $2,000 are asked.

Bustard Changes Bill For Danville Justice

Danville, Va., March 7 Spl.).—State Delegate Maitland H. Bustard has altered his charter amendment bill for Danville so as not to restrict the appointment of the proposed civil justice to local lawyers.

In original form the judge of the corporation court would have nominated an attorney of the local bar and he would have been elected by the council. The amendment does not restrict the selection.

Hillsville Vocational Teacher Has Best Record in Virginia

Fred R. Kirby's Work Last Year Makes Him Honor Man for State.

Richmond, March 7 (AP).—The designation of Fred R. Kirby, teacher of vocational agriculture in the Hillsville High School, Carroll County, as the outstanding teacher in this field for 1932-33, was announced here today.

Mr. Kirby's record will be submitted in the Southern regional contest in which the outstanding agricultural teachers from the 12 Southern States will be reviewed and the master teacher of the South selected.

In point of service Mr. Kirby is one of the oldest of the 118 teachers of vocational agriculture in Virginia. He was appointed soon after the passage of the Smith-Hughes act establishing the work in 1917.

During 1932-33 Mr. Kirby instructed 67 boys enrolled in his all-day classes in the local high school and his evening classes in the county were attended by 124 farmers. In addition, there was in operation a part-time class composed of 55 former students who are now farming. The farming program embraced the production of 579 acres of crops, 4,690 head of livestock and 3,820 fowl. The total project income for his all-day students averaged $209 for each person. The farmers attending evening classes have figured their increased earnings at $325 for the year. The total earnings amounted to $27,320.

The outstanding cooperative effort among farmers has been an outgrowth of Mr. Kirby's instruction. The Cooperative Livestock Shipping Association of Carroll County, of which Mr. Kirby is sponsor, last year shipped cooperatively 16 carloads of lambs at a net saving to the farmers of $800 over and above local prices.

County Brands PWA Pay Scale WorkHandicap

Shenandoah Boards Want Right to Seek Bids Ignoring Schedule.

Woodstock, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Resolutions declaring that the existing wage schedule for projects under grants from the PWA is a drawback to Shenandoah County school improvements have been signed by the Shenandoah County supervisors and the county school board.

The resolutions were drafted at a joint meeting at which Supt. of Schools C. V. Shoemaker claimed PWA wages were out of proportion with wages being paid in this section by private contractors.

The resolution said that the board can not proceed with the project under the existing high wage schedule. The declarations also asked power for the board to advertise for private bids for school construction, the bidders setting their own wage schedule, independent of PWA scales. Finally, the resolution requested that more latitude be given in dealing with the school situation in the State as regards wage scales.

The resolutions will be sent to Senators Carter Glass and Harry F. Byrd and Representative A. F. Robertson to be presented to PWA authorities.

24 Cases Pending As Court Opens

Richmond Judge Decrees April, May Trials.

Richmond, March 7 (AP).—Twenty-four cases were set for April and May dates by Judge Luther B. Way when he called the Richmond docket yesterday for the April term of United States District Court here.

The case of the Rosslyn Gas Co. against William Meade Fletcher et al. was set for April 11, with a three-judge court.

Other April cases included Michael L. Hillman vs. The R. F. & P. Transportation Co., April 10; United States of America vs. The R. F. & P. Railroad Co., April 12; P. Lester Hawks vs. The Southern Home Insurance Co. of the Carolinas, April 23; S. David Straiton vs. Equitable Life Assurance Society, April 24; Anna O'Sika vs. A. W. Daniels et al., April 25; William Braxton vs. W. L. Wimmons and James Whitlow, April 26; Aetna Life Insurance Co. vs. A. C. L. Railroad Co., April 30.

May cases docketed included Duplex Envelope Co. vs. The Denominational Envelope Co. et al., May 2; Sanitary Grocery Co. vs. The City of Fredericksburg et al., May 3; W. B. Gilmer, receiver of the First National Bank of Louisa, vs. C. L. Perkins et al., May 4; Eddie Walker vs. The A. C. L. Railroad Co., May 28, and the Tazewell Electric Light & Power Co. vs. A. P. Strother, collector of internal revenue, May 29.

Highway Economy Program Started

Purchase of Machinery Is Banned in Anne Arundel.

Annapolis, Md., March 7 (Spl.).—Anne Arundel County commissioners today took preliminary steps for a rigid economy program in road maintenance. They placed a ban on the purchase of any more road machinery this year, and announced that the advisability of turning the county roads system over to the State Roads Commission for maintenance will be given serious consideration.

Placing roads under State jurisdiction has been urged by the Taxpayers League for several months, as one of a group of economy proposals.

The county board also is considering another plan for curtailment of road expenses by placing all workers on a four-day week basis. A resolution embracing this proposal will be acted upon next week.

Larceny Suspect Jailed.

Bristol, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Alex Hayes, colored, of Chilhowie, Va., was taken from an eastbound bus and jailed here yesterday afternoon on a charge of embezzling $1,000.

Hen House Empty After Two Visits

Last night there was another visitor. This time the robber made a clean sweep.

County officers have been unable to locate the missing chickens.

T. B. Gay Flays Securities Act

Richmond, March 7 (AP).—Thomas B. Gay, Richmond attorney, declared here yesterday that the National securities act, now before Congress, tends to "extend the principle of governmental right to all private business."

He urged more than 200 local business executives to appear before the Virginia delegation in Congress in opposition to the measure. Mr. Gay represented the New York Stock Exchange in hearings on the bill before committees of both House and Senate.

"The revelations of the Pecora investigating committee, startling as they were, do not warrant the placing of the Nation's credit in the hands of the Federal Trade Commission," he said, adding:

"We do not believe that our liberalism—and we have it under the present Administration—requires the Federal Government to control the security exchanges, banks and corporations. The bill is an unwise restriction upon individual initiative.

"It goes far beyond the power to regulate the stock exchanges. The penalty for violation of the act is a fine of not more than $25,000 or imprisonment for not more than ten years, or both, excepting that when such person is an exchange member, a fine not exceeding $500,000 may be imposed."

Mr. Gay called the bill "dangerous" and said it contained a clause which was an "incubator for blackmail litigation."

Patrons Score School Change At Middleburg

Emeryeck Defends Plan to End Upper Grades at Meeting.

Middleburg, Va., March 7 (Spl.). Strong opposition to the proposed abolition of the high school department of the Middleburg School was voiced at a meeting of the Community League here last night. Superintendent of Schools O. L. Emeryeck and members of the school board were present.

Superintendent Emeryeck, called to the stand to answer questions from the patrons, declared he was acting only in the interest of the boys and girls of Middleburg.

He said he saw no hope of the Middleburg School becoming an accredited high school within ten years and pointed out the disadvantages of pupils graduating from a non-accredited high school. He stated that a school needs an average attendance of 50 to become accredited, and Middleburg has only 30 on the roster.

Closing of the high school would necessitate hauling Middleburg pupils to Aldie High School. The final decision will be made by the school board Tuesday.

Chief among those who expressed deep feeling against the proposition were T. U. Dudley, president of the Middleburg National Bank, who pointed out the rapid growth of Middleburg, and the community's interest evidenced by the financial support given the high school; and Mrs. William Mitchell, who declared parents would rather see their children attend a nonaccredited high school in Middleburg than to be taken in buses to an accredited high school elsewhere.

A resolution proposed by Dudley and seconded by Gen. William Mitchell asking the school board for a continuance of the high school animously adopted.

Area Boy Scouts To Elect Tonight

Shenandoah Group to Meet at Winchester.

Winchester, W. Va., March 8 (Spl.). — Representatives of Boy Scout troops from ten counties of northern Virginia and adjacent West Virginia will meet here tomorrow night to elect officers of the Shenandoah Area Council. Frank R. Horton, Winchester, is executive Scout leader for the Area.

The Shenandoah Area Council, with one representative from each troop, was organized in 1928. The membership of the area has risen from 170 to 1,000 Scouts during the past seven years. Twice the Shenandoah area has led the Nation in reforestation work and twice in rural scouting. Forty lives have been saved by Scouts during the past seven years.

Present officers include Eugene B. Cooper, Winchester, president; Dr. H. M. Porterfield, Martinsburg, W. Va., vice president; S. D. McFadden, Winchester, treasurer; Frank R. Horton, Winchester, secretary; B. J. Hilliidge, Front Royal, National Council member.

Fredericksburg C. of C. Picks 4 New Directors

Fredericksburg, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Four new directors of the Chamber of Commerce were elected last night.

Chester Goolrick, C. A. Abbey, W. F. Liebenow, and Julian J. Garner will serve until April 1, 1936, succeeding Roger Clarke, Josiah P. Rowe, jr., George Everhart, and E. G. Heflin, whose terms expire April 1.

Church Benefit Dinner To Prove Men Can Cook

Berryville, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—The men of Duncan Memorial Southern Methodist Church here will serve supper to the public tomorrow, to raise funds to pay the church fuel bill and to prove their mastery of the culinary art to their wives.

The surprise of the menu will be the dessert, details of which are being kept a secret.

Postoffice Work Starts.

Westminster, Md., March 7 (Spl.). Following numerous delays, work on the new postoffice building here is under way and will be completed withing 150 days, according to the contract recently let.

'Slayer' Just Lovesick After Marine Won Girl, Say Police

Norfolk, Va., March 7 (Spl.). Venzen Charles Chambers, who for four days has kept police searching the harbor for the body of a man Chambers claimed he killed, is the victim of a disappointed love affair, Detective L. G. Ellis, of Portsmouth, declares.

He says Chambers lost his sweetheart and concocted the murder story hoping the girl would come back to him with sympathetic love and all "that sort of thing."

Ellis was in court when Chambers was arraigned and he said he recognized him as a sailor who had a love affair in Portsmouth. His sweetheart bestowed most of her affections on a marine—so much so that even when Chambers appeared with an automobile to take her riding, she preferred to go walking with the rival suitor.

Chambers telephoned the girl and told her he had been arrested on a charge of manslaughter. He requested that she come down to the jail to see him. She did not come.

Chambers will be arraigned again next Tuesday and Ellis is to appear in court to identify him. Chambers claims the detective is mistaken, but the Portsmouth officer says he knows his man.

Chambers is being held by the naval authorities.

Roanoke to Get Cattle Auctions

Stockyards Expected to Increase Prices.

Roanoke, Va., March 7 (Spl.). The city council has permitted P. F. Campbell to build an auction stockyard here.

Campbell will begin construction at once. He said the venture will result in better prices and that the auctions will bring to Roanoke 300 to 500 farmers and stock raisers each week.

The council also appropriated $1,200 to the Roanoke Social Service Bureau to provide food and fuel for 163 families, turned over to the city February 26 by the Family Welfare Society.

Church Rallies Slated In Rappahannock Area

Tappahannock, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Six Southern Methodist Sunday School rallies in the Rappahannock district have been announced by Miss Elizabeth A. Jarrett, conference director of the children's division, and the Rev. R. W. Vanderberry, conference extension secretary.

The rallies are planned for March 13 at Hope Church; March 14 at Central Church, Matthews; March 15, Henderson's Rally; March 16, Trinity Church, King George Courthouse, and Essex and Lancaster rallies, to be held the fifth Sunday in April.

Day New Manager Of Henrico County

Staunton Executive Will Change Posts at Once.

Richmond, March 7 (AP).—Henrico County's first county manager will be Willard F. Day, now city manager of Staunton, Va., the supervisors have announced. His salary will be $5,000.

The appointment fills a post, the status of which long has been in dispute. The Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals more than a week ago directed the old board to retire in favor of new supervisors who were elected after a county-wide vote. This cleared the situation and permitted the appointment.

Mr. Day, a native of Baltimore, is president of the International City Manager's Association and a member of the Virginia Emergency Relief Committee. He has served several Virginia municipalities. He will begin his Henrico duties immediately, but will hold his Staunton post until a successor is chosen.

Senator Smith's Suit Against Judge Waits

Richmond, March 7 (AP).—The $50,000 damage suit brought by State Senator W. Worth Smith against Judge John Hart, of Roanoke, has been put over until the Legislature adjourns.

A letter, alleged to have been written by Judge Hart during Senator Smith's campaign for the governorship last summer, is the basis for the suit.

Colored Girl Shoots Self.

Covington, Va, March 7 (Spl.).—Florence Daniels, 20, colored, who came here some time ago from Gallipolis, Ohio, shot herself to death in a rooming house. The coroner's verdict was suicide.

We Like The Conventions..

But We Also Like to Break Them

—particularly when time and circumstance outgrow them.

You may say, "What has this to do with The Men's Store?" Well, just this. It has been considered the conventionally correct thing to have men's stores on the street floor.

A few years ago we decided to break away from convention, and establish a finer Men's Store on our Second Floor.

Why? For the one compelling reason—to give men a BETTER Men's Store—all on one floor, the Second.

If you like to select clothes, hats, haberdashery, and shoes—in a store that is essentially a men's store—you will like to select them here.

Kump Requests Senate to Pass Financial Bill

Executive Makes Surprise Appearance Before Committee.

Charleston, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Gov. H. G. Kump appeared unexpectedly before the Senate finance committee today and pleaded for approval of his $10,000,000 emergency revenue bill.

"The revenue bill as passed by the House," the Governor said after leaving the committee room, "reflects my judgment as to what should be done in the matter. The bill should be passed, possibly with some few minor amendments, but the principles it represents should be retained."

Meanwhile the committee sought to reach an agreement on a revenue measure to report for action. It has two plans before it, one recommended by the Governor and the other drafted by a special sub-committee.

The former calls for a 2 per cent sales tax, a 20 per cent luxury tax and an increase of 60 per cent in present rates affecting corporations. The other includes a 3 per cent consumers' sales tax an an increase of 20 per cent upon corporations.

Final action was taken by the House on a bill increasing annual appropriation of the State public service commission from $90,000 to $150,000. The fund for the commission is raised through special taxes on utilities.

State Art Contest Attracts Many Painters

The State art contest of the General Federation of Women's Clubs has drawn many paintings to the eight public library branches of the city. Four paintings will be selected from each branch for final judging. Above are two of the entries. Upper—Winter at Burnt Mills, Maryland, by Garnett W. Jex; lower—Nancy T., by Gladys Nelson Smith.

Noise Banned

High Court's Ruling Bars Women's Noisy Dances.

Charleston, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—The State Supreme Court has ruled that "noise alone may create a nuisance, depending on time, locality and degree."

The ruling affirmed a decision of the Kanawha County Circuit Court, halting dances at the Charleston Woman's Club after 9 p. m. The clubhouse is in the residential section, and neighbors complained of the dances as a nuisance.

"Where an unusual and recurring noise is introduced in a residential district," the court ruled, "and the noise prevents sleep or otherwise disturbs materially the rest and comfort of residents, the noise may be prohibited by a court of equity."

Road Funds Go To Relief Work

Charleston, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Gov. H. G. Kump has signed three bills which transfer $250,000 from State roads commission funds to emergency relief purposes.

After the bills were passed, the National Relief Administration at Washington immediately allotted to the State $300,000. This allowance has been stopped by the Federal Government until West Virginia could contribute $250,000 a month for the same purpose.

The Governor also signed a bill amending the new State tax collection law so that cities not needing the 30-cent allocation for bonded or contractual debts may utilize the money for current expenses.

Other bills now effective include one defining the owner of property for taxation and one relieving Earl L. Davis, Doddridge County Circuit Court clerk, of liability for funds deposited in a closed bank.

All State CWA Officials To Meet in Charleston

Charleston, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—All CWA officials in West Virginia have been summoned to meet here Monday by William N. Beehler, CWA State administrator, to discuss the rehabilitation of the State relief program and make plans for the new one that is to supplant it.

Attending will be county administrators, county welfare boards, disbursing officers and project officers.

Hagerstown, Md., March 7 (Spl.).—Dr. Crown O. Diehl has been reelected president of the Washington County Public Health Association. Other officers are Dr. W. A. Gordon, secretary; C. Harry Keller, treasurer; Dr. P. L. Russell, Frank L. Bennett and Mrs. W. A. McCune, executive committee.

Prison Terms Awarded For Theft of Turkeys

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—A circuit court jury here yesterday convicted Frank Miller and his brother, George, of stealing five turkeys from Ransom Snyder, Back Creek Valley.

Frank Miller, a second offender, was given a term of from six to ten years in the penitentiary, and his brother a sentence of from one to ten years.

Arrest Expected Soon In Killing of 3 Deer

Fairmont, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Authorities probing the killing of an 8-prong buck near Kingmont yesterday stated that at least three deer have been killed recently in this section.

Additional evidence has been uncovered and an arrest is expected soon.

Juries Omitted at Romney.

Romney, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Both grand and petit juries have been omitted for the March term of Circuit Court due to lack of cases requiring jury consideration. Judge C. H. Kump ordered the dismissal.

Legislators of West Virginia Still Seeking Expense Funds

Attorney General Rules Down Latest Effort in Long Session.

Charleston, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—A strategic move of members of the West Virginia Legislature to obtain some extra pay for their long attendance at regular and special sessions has struck another snag.

Attorney General Homer A. Holt has advised Edgar B. Sims, State auditor, not to honor any requisitions for extra compensation, however designated. He took this action after the House of Delegates refused to reconsider a resolution it passed ordering payment of $150 each to members as expenses of a special investigating committee of the whole house. The reconsideration was sought by Delegate J. P. Beacom (Democrat), Cabell, who argued that by the adoption of "such a subterfuge we would be selling the Democratic party short in West Virginia."

Auditor Sims previously had announced his intention of not honoring a second mileage allowance ordered by the House on the ground that such would be unconstitutional. The State constitution forbids payment of more than $500 a year to each member of the Legislature as salary and one mileage allowance for one session for any other purpose either directly or indirectly.

The Senate also sought to pay its members $500 each for expense money, but a resolution ordering that payment was finally withdrawn. That branch also has ordered the payment of a second mileage allowance.

Up until today members of the Legislature had been on duty at the Capitol 228 days since they first gathered there in January, 1933.

County to Appeal Assessment Ruling

Wheeling Steel Concern Wins First Round.

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Ohio County Commissioners at Wheeling today authorized Don McKee, prosecuting attorney, to take an appeal to the Supreme Court from a decision by Judge Harold Brennan, of the Ohio County Circuit Court, reducing a property assessment of the Wheeling Steel Corporation from $4,491,328 to $496,095.

The suit is regarded as a test suit involving $31,000,000 in assessments in four similar suits.

It was contended by the steel company that its assessment should only be $380,000, but Brennan raised the sum. He ruled that the corporation should pay taxes in West Virginia only on business originating in the State, while the county holds it should be taxed on all business. Part of the concern's operations are in Ohio.

Man, 24, Gets 4 Years For Abduction of Girl

Annapolis, Md., March 7 (Spl.).—Edward R. Colins, 24, convicted of abducting Lois Vogel, 15, from her home at Gambrills, Anne Arundel County, and taking her to Baltimore, was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary by Judge Nicholas H. Green in Circuit court late yesterday.

The couple were found missing several weeks ago. When apprehended they denied the abduction charge, claiming they had eloped and planned to marry.

Ground Is Broken For Records Hall

New Building Going Up on St. John's Campus.

Annapolis, Md., March 7 (Spl.).—Ground was broken today for the Memorial Hall of Records, to be erected at the south end of the front campus of St. John's College, in connection with the State's tercentenary celebration. State Senator Ridgely P. Melvin, of Annapolis, who sponsored the bill for the structure at the 1931 legislative session, spaded the first sod.

The building will be of Colonial design and in addition to housing old records it will contain quarters for the State Land Commissioner, now in the Court of Appeals building.

Following passage of the Melvin bill, Gov. Ritchie set aside $200,000 in his budget for the building. The Public Works Administration has agreed to finance 30 per cent of the cost of labor and material.

West Virginia Capitol May Get Own Cafeteria

In ordinary times nearly 1,000 persons work in the capitol and during legislative sessions this number is more than doubled.

Chanters at Martinsburg.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Christian Endeavor members of Martinsburg and Berkeley County tomorrow night will hear a group of 50 chanters from Winchester, Va.

Senator Hyre, West Virginia, Succumbs at 45

Charleston, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—State Senator Kenna K. Hyre, 45 (Democrat), Jackson County, died today in a Parkersburg hospital of appendicitis. Both Houses of the State Legislature adjourned until tomorrow as a token of respect.

Hyre was a lawyer at Ripley, where he served as city councilman and member of the board of education. A law graduate of the State University and a World War veteran, he was serving his first term in the Senate for the Fourth District, comprising Jackson, Mason and Roan Counties. His widow, formerly Miss Hazel E. Yeager, survives. His father, J. A. Hyre, died a few weeks ago.

Before adjournment, each House adopted a resolution of sympathy. The Senate directed that its entire membership attend the funeral, which will be held at the home in Ripley Friday, and the House named a committee comprising Delegates Robert B. Goodwin and John H. Noll, of Jackson; H. D. Wells, Roane, and Charles C. Tallman and George A. Rairdon, Mason, to represent it at the funeral.

Bill Would Shift State Districts

16 in West Virginia Asked in Plan Submitted.

Charleston, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—A new set-up of 16 State senatorial districts is provided in a bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Lee J. Sandridge (Democrat), of Barbour County.

For many years the State has been divided into 15 senatorial districts. As planned by Sandridge, the bill would have the following alignment:

First District, Hancock, Brooke and Ohio Counties; Second, Marshall, Wetzel, Pleasants and Tyler; Third, Ritchie, Wood, Wirt and Jackson; Fourth, Wayne and Cabell; Fifth, Mason, Putnam, Linsoln and Logan; Sixth, Mingo and McDowell; Seventh, Mercer, Summers and Monroe; Eighth, Boone, Raleigh and Wyoming; Ninth, Kanawha; Tenth, Nicholas, Fayette and Greenbrier; Eleventh, Roane, Clay, Braxton, Webster, Calhoun, Lewis and Upshur; Twelfth, Doddridge, Harrison and Gilmer; Thirteenth, Monongalia, Marion and Taylor; Fourteenth, Barbour, Randolph, Pendleton and Pocahontas; Fifteenth, Preston, Tucker, Grant, Hardy and Mineral, and Sixteenth, Hampshire, Morgan, Berkeley and Jefferson.

J. F. Dietrich Buried; Had 44 Grandchildren

Moore's Run, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Military burial rites were held yesterday for John Francis Dietrich, 91, last surviving Civil War veteran of the West Wheeling district. Burial was in Linwood Cemetery.

Mr. Dietrich served with Company A, First West Virginia Infantry. His father, Francis Dietrich, and three brothers also were Union soldiers. He is survived by seven children, 44 grandchildren and 25 great grandchildren.

Mrs. Linda W. Swimley.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Mrs. Linda Willett Swimley, wife of John Swimley, native and former resident of Berkeley County, died in Urbana, Ohio, relatives here learned. Surviving are her husband; one daughter, Mrs. Bessie Baker, and a granddaughter, Miss Virginia Baker, at home; and two sisters, Mrs. Lydia Brathwaite and Mrs. Gold Cockrell, of Inwood. Burial was in Urbana.

State Tax Case Appealed.

Charleston, W. Va., March 7.—The State Supreme Court has agreed to rule on the constitutionality of the State gross income tax. An appeal was granted John Laing, Charleston coal operator, who attacked the tax in a test case in the Kanawha County Circuit Court.

Food Truck Spills Forage for Mountaineers.

Winchester, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Inhabitants of the mountainous section of Frederick County, about 12 miles west of here, today continued to search the mountainside for cans of pork and beans scattered for a quarter of a mile Monday when a truck loaded with 250 cases of the food plunged down an embankment on a curve on U. S. Route 50, near Gore.

The truck, driven by William Lake, with Finley Greenlee as companion, was en route from Circleville, Ohio, to Hagerstown, Md., with supplies for a wholesale house.

Hijackers' Victim Free in Rum Raid

Albert Huntzberry Wins Acquittal on Count.

Hagerstown, Md., March 7 (Spl.).—Albert Huntzberry, who was kidnaped by hijackers and several hours later released near Washington, and later was arrested with Waverly C. Clark in a liquor raid here, was dismissed when arraigned today before United States Commissioner D. A. Wolfinger. Clark's hearing was continued until Saturday.

Federal raiding officials testified that Huntzberry lived at the Clark home, and that Clark admitted it was his liquor which was seized. Clark is a brother of Russel Clark, whose home was hijacked recently by alleged Washington bootleggers, who abducted Clark and Huntzberry.

Both Clark and Huntzberry are under bond for Federal court action on similar charges growing out of the hijacking.

Hagerstown Furloughs On Tuesday Afternoons

Hagerstown, Md., March 7 (Spl.).—Mail deliveries here will be discontinued Tuesday afternoons as a result of an order from the Postmaster General for a four-day furlough for postal employes between now and the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

Since Tuesday is a light day for mail, Postmaster Edward M. Tenney will furlough employes eight half-days.

Students Note Ills in County

New Plan Being Tried Out in Rural Sections Through Schools.

Hagerstown, Md., March 7 (Spl.).—Health departments are being set up in all rural schools in Washington County by Dr. W. Ross Cameron, health officer, a system believed the first of its kind in Maryland.

A boy in each school will be named health officer and a girl, health nurse. Their duties will be to check on sanitary conditions at the school, and report to their teacher any contagious disease in their community.

Physicians are required to report all contagious diseases which they attend, but often it is from 24 to 48 hours before the report reaches the health department. Under the new arrangement, an immediate report will be received.

The school health department will be operated along the same lines as the school safety patrols, now several years old.

Man Bites His Knee In Fall From Roof

Leonardtown, Md., March 7 (Spl.).—If a dog bites a man—no news; if a man bites a dog—news. And when a man bites himself?

That is what happened to Philip Cusic, of Oakville, when he fell from a roof in Mechanicsville yesterday. Crashing through the roof of a shed, Cusic landed doubled up with his teeth fastened in his knee, inflicting a deep cut. Two upper front teeth were knocked out.

Barn Fire Causes Loss to Cumberland Y. M. C. A.

Romney, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—About $1,500 worth of camping equipment, belonging to the Y. M. C. A. of Cumberland, Md., was lost Monday in a blaze that destroyed a barn on the Charles Blue Farm near Springfield, this county.

The farm owner, W. H. Lewis, lost $1,500 in hay and farming implements. For 25 years the Cumberland "Y" has operated a camp on the Potomac there, and the equipment had been stored in the barn.

Flier Attacks Ocker's Ability In Army Trial

Major Was 'Unqualified' to Command Air Unit, Says Capt. Maitland.

San Antonio, Tex., March 7 (AP).—Capt. Lester J. Maitland, famed for a nonstop flight from California to Hawaii several years ago, testified today at the court martial of Maj. William C. Ocker that he found Ocker unqualified to command a tactical unit in the air.

Capt. Maitland said he had checked the defendant as to his ability as a pilot.

Maj. Ocker, veteran Army pilot, is being tied on charges of having made improper remarks about Lieut. Col. H. B. Clagett, his superior officer. He is accused of having stated there was "collusion" between Clagett and Maj. Clyde C. Johnson, senior flight surgeon at Kelly Field, to deprive him of flying status.

Maj. R. K. Simpson, of the School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph Field, quoted Capt. H. E. Schneider, junior Kelly Field flight surgeon under Maj. Johnston, as having said he had been directed to disqualify Maj. Ocker for physical deficiencies.

Lieut. Col. B. B. Warriner, medical officer at Fort Clark, told the court it was Maj. Ocker's duty to report collusion in his medical examination if he was of that opinion. The statement was in response to a question by Brig. Gen. Charles R. Howland, president of the court.

Col. Warriner said he considered Maj. Ocker a "very careful and conservative pilot."

'Social Gathering' Of Big Democrats Here on March 31

A "social gathering" of Democrats is planned for March 31 at a downtown hotel here, but members of the invitation committee insist "no politics" are involved, the AssociatedPress said.

Probably 100 Democrats in and out of official life will be invited by Vice President Garner, Speaker Rainey and Senators Robinson (Arkansas), Pittman (Nevada), and Tydings (Maryland).

"Friends of the President and friends of ours will be invited," Pittman said.

In other quarters it was said it might be the occasion for expanding membership in the senatorial Hunt and Fish Club on Jefferson Island, in Chesapeake Bay.

Former Presidential Candidates Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis and James M. Cox have been invited. Smith is understood to have accepted.

Pittman, in charge, would not say whether President Roosevelt would be present or whether it was in the President's honor.

Pitts' Car Trips Revealed

Many Names Secret.

Most of Shoemaker's testimony was a reiteration of former charges he had made on the House floor. In many cases, despite the committee's insistence, he refused to give names, although the committee had promised immunity to those who he mentioned.

At his side in frequent whispered consultation were Edward Bedell, former inmate, who appeared before the committee last week, and Dr. L. C. Edwards, of Baltimore, who Shoemaker declares will testify as to prison drug conditions.

The Representative did not confine his remarks to Lorton, but also attacked the administration of Gallinger Hospital and the Home for the Aged at Blue Plains. He gave instances of unclean conditions at Gallinger and of bad food at the home.

Dope Charge Repeated.

Again Shoemaker declared Lorton was "reeking with dope." Last Friday, a prisoner named Ferguson, employed as the prison librarian, "almost tore off a door to get to a telephone to call a taxi," he said.

"Ferguson, who is now in solitary confinement," Shoemaker said, "wanted to see his wife. He wanted a white taxi, not a yellow one—the color of the snow he was getting."

Chairman W. W. Millan of the committee asked Shoemaker for the names of prisoners who could give evidence about the drug situation. At first the Representative demurred, but later said they could get it from men he named as "Joyner, Downey and Mike Roberts at Gallinger Hospital."

"Bankers" Privileged.

Saying that when a banker was sent to Lorton, Capt. Barnard personally escorted him there in his official car, Shoemaker added:

"I am not interested in tearing down Pitts' or Rheems' bed on the 'bankers' porch. I want to see everyone there get as good treatment."

The committee had previously heard testimony that Pitts and other wealthy inmates paid from $50 to $100 a month for special quarters on a porch. There they were accorded privileges not allowed other prisoners, it had been said.

"Why when a lifer arrives at Lorton," the Congressman asserted, "he gets one towel which has to last him the rest of his life. He gets no toothbrush or washcloth."

Stealing of money in letters from convicts' relatives—money meant to be used for canteen purchase of tobacco and other things was frequent, Shoemaker charged. He gave the committee three names of prisoners who could substantiate this.

Numerous Lorton inmates have been shipped to St. Elizabeths Hospital as insane "because they knew too much" about official activities, the committee was told. Shoemaker refused names of these.

He said last year $1,700 supposed to be used for prison food went for the purchase of shrubs and bulbs, many of which were planted about the house of J. E. C. Bischoff, business manager, who earlier in the investigation admitted being employed at certain times with concerns which did business with the institution.

Bookkeeping Complicated.

Charges that reformatory accounts were carried in a "bookkeeping system so complicated that even a certified public accountant could not understand it," to cover ficticious balances, was another claim of Shoemaker's.

"Bischoff," Shoemaker declared, "is interested in a company which is using Lorton as a sales and exhibition room for all the other penitentiaries in the United States."

Further charges by Shoemaker repeated that the institution was $885,000 short in accounting for bricks made there, that a $331 shortage in the canteen funds was balanced by juggling of funds and that Barnard broke his promise that prisoners would be allowed to write him uncensored letters.

Charges Escape Plot.

Shoemaker intimated broadly that in a recent escape Capt. Barnard had left his car, with the key in it, containing shotguns, rifles, revolvers and ammunition, in readiness for use of certain prisoners to escape.

His intimation was that Barnard actually had left the car for these prisoners. He closed this claim with the statement that "the wrong men found the car and used it."

Shoemaker repeated his allegations that a fire of February 12 in the clothing shop was used to destroy damaging records. He said it occurred after orders had been given to all at the reformatory to attend chapel exercises.

He concluded by telling the committee that if it would give him written evidence of its promise of protection and immunity, he would be able to get guards, prisoners and former prisoners to testify to the truth of his charges. He promised to appear before the committee again.

Smith for Walls.

Representative Smith did not criticize the prison, but he said that residents in the area were afraid now that it had become a penitentiary for all sorts of criminals rather than a reformatory for first offenders. He said he believed it should be walled.

Dr. Hornbaker told the committee the customary practice in vogue for limiting the work of inmates with infectious disease. He said none were employed where it was thought they constituted a danger to others.

Former Inmates at Odds About Treatment at Reformatory.

Peter Darrow, of 311 D street northwest, told of bad treatment at Occoquan when he did 20 days for trespassing on railway property. Asked if he had been drinking when he was arrested, he said:

"A man needs to be a little snorted up to sleep in a box car."

Doctor Submits Record.

Dr. Hornbaker later took the stand to refute Darrow's statement. He produced the report on the case which described Darrow as being mad with everyone and trying to commit suicide. Darrow, who said he was starved at the institution, gained seven pounds during his stay, according to the physician's card.

Samuel T. Tetlow, 25, of 207 E street northwest, who said he did 20 months for housebreaking, said guards beat prisoners. He said that he saw Capt. Barnard's son-in-law, wearing a suit of clothes of the kind issued to prisoners on discharge.

A directly opposite opinion was expressed by two former prisoners. One, Max Miller, of 4408 Georgia avenue northwest, who said he was paroled after serving 14 months on a check charge, praised the prison as saving his life.

He said the Lorton physicians had successfully operated upon him for cancer; that he was well taken care of, that he could say "nothing but good" about every phase of his treatment as a prisoner.

Enemy Backs Barnard.

A like opinion came from Charles Skinner, a colored newspaperman. He said that although there was personal feeling between he and Capt. Barnard, the present charges were "unkind to Capt. Barnard."

The rumored retirement of Capt. Barnard, who has made Lorton a prison known throughout the country as a model wall-less establishment, is not the result of the recent investigation, it was said.

He is past the retirement age and only a special dispensation has kept him on the job. He has been considering retirement for several months, it was said, and probably will step out after the investigation is closed. Barnard, a Republican appointee, will probably have a Democratic successor.

The committee will resume its hearing tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. One of the important witnesses to be heard will be Col. William L. Peak, superintendent of the reformatory.

Ford Blames Wars on Few Munition Men

'Nations Don't Buy Cannon for Playthings,' Says Auto Magnate.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 7 (AP).—Charging that a small group of men were responsible for war through manufacture of munitions and by fostering international distrust, Henry Ford thinks Senator Borah "had the right idea" in his attack on the half-billion-dollar Navy program and other Army and Navy construction. Ford said:

"The people in general don't want war. Outlawing war depends upon the people. In the past they have followed the war makers. It we could get rid of the approximately 100 men responsible for wars in this world the people would enjoy peace.

"But as long as greed for profits accentuates the makers of munitions, and as long as countries maintain their race for the strongest armaments, just so long will we be in danger of being pushed into another war. It could have been avoided.

"A man who buys a knife, acquires it for the purpose of attack. He doesn't buy the knife to carry as a souvenir. Nations purchasing cannons and battleships purchase them for the purpose of attack, not for playthings. I have been pleased to notice a Nation-wide religious revival. President Roosevelt has made this religious revival a keynote in his recovery measures. This is a hopeful sign.

"I believe that religion should be taught in our schools as well as reading, writing and arithmetic. It is the fourth 'R' in education. The Bible is the best textbook ever written."

U. S. Starts Refund Of $460,099,000

BLACKIE BEAR

By D. SAM COX

Blackie Catches Bunny

THE next day after Sallie Cat scratched Blackie up so badly, he felt so sore that he decided to try to get himself an easy dinner. Mr. Man lived not very far from Blackie's house, and Jay Bird had told Blackie that there were a lot of little lambs over there in the field. Blackie knew that a lamb couldn't fight, and besides, he liked lamb almost as well as kittie meat, and so he started out for Mr. Man's field. When he got most to the field, he hid behind some bushes and peeped out to see if he could see the flock of sheep.

Just then a great big rabbit jumped up and went scooting toward the field. A rabbit can run lots faster than a bear, but that rabbit caught his foot in a wild potato vine and turned a somersault, and before he could get on his feet again Blackie caught him. He was a big fat rabbit, and when Blackie had eaten him all up he was so full that he didn't want any lamb, so he scratched up a pile of straw and leaves for a bed and laid down for a nap.

Blackie's sore nose had bothered him so last night that he hadn't slept much, and, besides, he had been too hungry to sleep.

Dr. Coon Arrives.

But Dr. Coon had come over again that morning and put a new plaster on his nose, and so, now that he had had a good dinner, he felt very much like sleeping, and he slept mighty hard. I don't know how long he had been asleep, but when he woke up the first thing he saw scared him most to death. There stood looking down at him Ram Sheep, the daddy of the little lambs out in the field, and he had long horns that curled all around like a corkscrew, and were so sharp at the points that they could stick in a tree. Blackie knew that there was trouble for him, and he didn't know how to get away from it. A sheep can't climb a tree, but a bear can, and Blackie thought if he just could get to a tree he could get away from those terrible horns. Just then Ram Sheep heard one of his baby sheep cry, "Ba-a-a-a, Ba-a-a-a," and he turned to see what was the matter.

When he turned his head Blackie jumped for a tree, and before Ram Sheep could move Blackie was away up the tree and out of reach of the horns. But he really needn't to have hurried for when Ram Sheep looked to see what the trouble was with his baby, he saw a big bird on his back, and so he ran to his baby and forgot all about Blackie. While Ram Sheep was running to his baby, Blackie was getting down from the tree and running for his own house. When he got home Jay Bird was just sitting down on his step, and he said: "Hello, Blackie; how do you like Mr. Ram Sheep?"

A Close Call.

"What do you know about Ram Sheep?" asked Blackie.

"I know that he came mighty near sticking his sharp horns in a friend of mine just now, and that if I hadn't jumped down on the back of one of his babies and pulled his wool to make him call for daddy, those horns would have made some mighty bad holes in the coat of my friend Blackie," said Jay Bird.

"Well," said Blackie, "you are the best old scout in the world. Come on in and eat some of the peanuts that Doctor Coon brought me this morning." And you may know that after this Blackie was a mighty good friend to Jay Bird.

Pendergast Machine Shows Primary Power

Kansas City, March 7 (AP).—Kansas City's primary left the T. J. Pendergast Democratic organization confident and the Citizens' party hopeful as they prepared today for the election March 27.

The primary, in which a "straight" Republican slate was eliminated, was featured by a show of strength by Mayor Bryce B. Smith, seeking re-election under the Pendergast banner. He finished 38,000 votes ahead of Dr. A. Ross Hill, former University of Missouri president and Fusionist candidate.

Jury Finds Airplane Deaths Unavoidable

Petersburg, Ill., March 7 (AP).—The death of four men in an airplane crash near here during last night's heavy snow was held unavoidable by a coroner's jury today.

The jury returned its verdict after hearing three witnesses, who said blinding snow apparently forced down the St. Louis-to-Chicago plane.

RADIO ADDRESS of DR. J. E. POPE, President NATIONAL OLD AGE PENSION ASSOCIATION

Delivered March 7th, 7:45, from WOL in Washington, and over a network of 24 stations extending from Maine to the Rio Grande. Hear our programs each Wednesday Night at 7:45.

For Contributory Old Age Pensions

With the realization that tonight it is possible I am speaking to more than one million people, to people along the Canadian border, to people along the fringe of Mexico, from the land of the Putnams and the Reveres in New England to the sacred plains about the Alamo with its Bowies and its Crocketts. And as my voice, far flung across the continent, echoing around Bunker Hill, thundering into the gay night-life of Broadway up there in the mad busy rush of New York, speaking to thousands here in the great Capital City of Washington, heard in the whispering winds coming over the Potomac lush lands, across the low hung islands which dot historic Chesapeake Bay, dashing over the snow clad peaks of the majestic Rockies, mingling with crooning from the cabins of the Southland and with the now stilled axe of the lumberman of the North woods, my voice travels far and wide. May the message I bring find lodgement in your hearts!

This is the voice of the National Old Age Pension Association. Our only battle is the battle for human rights and this Nation can not remain the champion of human rights until some adequate national system of old age relief is made effective thru National legislation. Our only doctrine is the doctrine of human rights above capitalistic rights. Ours is the doctrine of revolution—not a revolution of blood or violence, but a revolution of ballots. Oh! I feel the tremendous responsibility that is mine as I face this unseen audience, but having accepted the sacred trust of leadership in this great Cause, I should dishonor myself if I betray that trust by uttering one insincere word, or by withholding one essential element of the truth.

The Disney Old Age Compensation Bill is now before the Congress, and it, along with others, is being given consideration by the Honorable Committee on Labor. The Disney Bill, known as House Bill No. 7019, was the first contributory form of definite old age pension relief of universal application ever introduced in the Congress. There have been some introduced since the appearance of the Disney Bill, and a few days prior to the filing of the Disney Bill there was introduced in the Congress a Resolution asking the expenditure of $15,000 by the Government for the mere purpose of ASCERTAINING the need for and the ADVISABILITY of old age pension legislation under the contributory form. This resoution, sponsored by Representative Ellenbogen, of Pennsylvania, followed almost word for word the recomendations set forth in my address over the radio late in November, 1933, and as contained in my letter to the President of the United States prior to the convening of the Seventy-third Congress. Each Congressman was sent a copy of this bill early in December, 1933. I offer the foregoing remarks merely in order to keep the record straight, and for no other reason. This Association regards Representative Ellenbogen as an earnest champion of the rights of old people, and tonight, a million people sincerely thank him for his sincerity in behalf of this great Cause. If a majority in our Congress were as sincere about this as is Mr. Ellenbogen we would have the right kind of old age pension law in effect without delay.

Our National history has been a constant expanding miracles from Plymouth Rock and Jamestown—all the way. As we seek greater miracles, as we feast amid our gathered pleasures, let us resolve to crown the miracle of the past with still greater achievement. A mighty duty and a mighty inspiration impels everyone of us tonight to lose in humane and patriotic consecration every selfish estrangement from this great and noble cause. Instead of counting the cost let us here and now resolve from the depths of our souls that no longer shall this great land of ours be guilty of the superinhuman neglect of our starving and helpless old people, that this monstrous and cruel neglect of them, which cries like the blood of Abel from the dust, shall vanish forever from our fair shores, and its gaunt skeleton cease its eternal vigil thru our Congressional Halls.

Let's seek to arouse our own beloved America to a full consciousness of this sad condition, let's strive to arouse the nation to a fuller sense of her obligation to the old folks, to awaken and see ourselves as we are, in our detestible and exalted wickedness, leaving the aged and starving naught save their tears to fall like a winter's rain, going on, and ON, in our mad search for material things, forgetting to unite in the bonds of love and mercy, so that the wounds of depression may be healed in every heart and on every hill * * *. Let us no longer close our eyes and refuse to behold the broken and neglected old forms as they are all over this enlightened nation, some of them ghastly thin and piteously frail, beset, in their infirmities, by mental confusion, as a child beset by a storm at sea, pursued by hunger and illness, their talons like unto some great beast-like bird, cawing deeply into their very hearts.

Oh, I wish that I might break YOUR hearts—break your hearts that they might heal again, bearing therein the flower and beauty of a resurrected humanity, supreme and resplendent at the summit of human achievement and earthly glory, triumphant that we no longer are driving into the hands of Jesus anew the nails of the Cross of Calvary.

Tonight I am appealing to your heart of love and to your sense of justice and fair play. At another time I may be in more of a fighting mood. But, largely, this is a message of love, an appeal, if you please, to the nobler and finer instincts of the nation's heart. It is unseemly that bitterness and political sharpshooting should creep into such a work as this. I have been criticized, deeply wounded, were I to permit myself to feel wounds. Our motives have been questioned, not by reliable and competent authority, but by insincere publicity hounds and headline hunters—by those who seek, as political buffoons do always seek, to capitalize any national movement to the end that they may get their names in print, that they may strut their stuff and air their respective individual greatness. Some are willing to get this even at the price of bartering their souls to the interests of greed and corruption. They always start out with the loud exclamation that they FAVOR old age pensions, that they have even INTRODUCED some make-shift old age pension bill (which they purposely let die for want of attention). I will not answer such unjust and insincere critics, I will leave them to the capricious fates so often dealt out by voters who think for themselves. I do agree, however, that I am not wholly fit for the heavy tasks and duties which seem at times to almost overwhelm me in this work. Many persons are more competent, and many persons are more able. The matter of National leadership does not appeal, nor has ever appealed to me, because I am not a candidate for any office under the sun. I accepted this peculiar leadership because I have not been able to find any other person who would take it without pay for services. Perhaps the certain knowledge that no great crusade was ever carried on for and in behalf of a downtrodden people without some of its pioneers being the victims of the gibbet and the chain, the inevitable crucifixion, if you please, deterred some otherwise earnest persons from accepting these responsibilities. The world will always have its Pontius Pilates. Be that as it may, your speaker is in no sense tempted to surrender until the victory comes. Being truly conscious of my own short-coming will not discourage me from doing the best I know how to do, and the fact that I am truly unworthy of the tremendous sacrifice required will make no difference in my honest effort. My private life, my faults and failings of character, whatever they may have been, belong in no sense to the world. They are for the judgment of God, whose merciful forgiveness is necessary for what we do and are. Even those who stab the rusty knife into my back must realize that the pomps and ceremonies of earthly grandeur, along with earthly faults, must fade into insignificance when our soul shall leave its mortal dwelling. It is then that the story of one fair and virtuous action stands above all the minor stains on our escutcheons. Therefore, I shall remain serene and content to continue in my humble work, inviting anyone who feels fully qualified to cast the first stone.

This is the voice of the country boy, if you please, the obscure foot-doctor, the nobody who prefers to remain just a nobody—just so a real, constructive and humane old age pension law is put thru this session of the Congress. No make-shift, no pretense, no whitewash in the form of a bill will suffice. You may think I have my nerve, in DEMANDING of the Congress NOW the thing they have CONSIDERED in vain for a dozen years. Mere "consideration" will not satisfy the voters in the forthcoming primaries—and you, gentlemen of the Congress, are face to face with your constituency now. This happens to be election year, and we are not going to overlook the early primaries. For some of you good fellows in the National legislature—well-fed, robust, sleek, and living on the cream of what is rich and good and joyful and exhilarating—the coming primaries and Fall elections will hold nothing but tragedy. SOME OF YOU ARE NOT COMING BACK. Unless you jump into leadership for a well defined contributory form of old age pension NOW, unless such a measure becomes a law at this session, and does so because of YOUR unceasing effort, then this Association, with its upward of one million members will work against you for re-election. I am forced to make this declaration, because it is true. Merely your saying that you are IN FAVOR of old age pensions, no matter how many crocodile tears you shed over the condition of the DEAR OLD "PEEPUL" will not satisfy—the objective of this Association is to get ACTION, and unless such a law is enacted at this session, whether you are to blame or not to blame, the folks back home MIGHT feel that you are not of much force in Washington, and they MAY vote against you. In this I am speaking to every member of both Houses of the Seventy-third Congress. Just in order that I may not later be accused of hedging the issue, permit me to make it more clear and more to the point. Just any kind of so-called old age pension bill will not stop us—it will not even slow us down. A measly, inadequate offer of federal aid to the States in paying pensions will serve only to help those States that already have old age pension laws. A law calling for an appropriation from the government, if that appropriation is of sufficient size to give full and comprehensive old age relief, would work a hardship on our Government, and is, therefore, untenable. Any old age pension bill which leaves the age limit above sixty-five will, at best, be only a heart-breaking bluff, and the pension drawing age should start at sixty. The universally applicable form of compulsory contributory old age pensions is the only answer. This plan is self-liquidating and will work hardships on no one. If the Congress is sincere, it WILL give them a sincere old age pension law, NOW. However, we will support any constructive old age pension law, PROVIDED THAT MEASURE WILL FULLY ANSWER THE DESPERATE NEEDS OF A STARVING PEOPLE. To fall short of this will mean that we must remain in Washington, as a Congressional gad-fly, until the next session. We promise, however, if this becomes necessary we will, at the next session, be looking into many new faces, and be dealing with a more chastened set of National legislators. In passing let me say this to you—and I know you are listening in—this feeble voice will not be stilled, I will not be bluffed, I will NOT be intimidated, I will NOT be humiliated, I will NOT sell out. This worthless body is ready for any persecution, even for the fire if necessary, but never will there be any let-up until deliverance for the old people shall come, never will there be craven acceptance of personal safety or personal gain at the price of betraying this cause, of deserting those suffering gray headed ones with their unfed and withered bodies—and may God have mercy on your soul.

I have before me a wonderful poem, a poem sent me by an old man. It is crudely written, but, oh, the soul appeal and heart anguish there is in it. I do not know where he got it, but, here it is, and may the Creator bless the reading of this to you.

The title is OLD MEN.

In savage tribes where skulls are thick
And primal passions rage,
They have a system, sure and quick,
To cure the blight of age.
For when a native's youth has fled
And years have sapped his vim
They simply knock him on the head
And bring an end to him.

But we, in this enlightened age
Are built of nobler stuff,
And so we look with righteous rage
On deeds so harsh and rough.
For when a man grows old and gray
And weak and short of breath
——We simply take his job away
And let him starve to death.

In closing I am forced to refer to the abortive attempt on the part of a mere handful of politicians to "STOP POPE—AT ANY COST." Mine is a work of love and sacrifice, in which I receive absolutely no financial reward. I am ready for them to proceed with their persecutions against me personally. However, were I asking favors of them I would ask that they do not pursue their wicked and unfair fight against this Association and its members, and the Cause for which we stand—at least not until after we have succeeded in getting some definite old age relief measure thru the Sixty-third Congress. For myself I ask nothing.

A School For Senators.

Compulsory senatorial attendance at university courses in monetary science is suggested by Senator Thomas of Oklahoma. There is perhaps an implication that State senators should attend high school instruction in the same field. Anyway, the thought is not to be facetiously dismissed. But there are difficulties.

High among these ranks the selection of the professor. The instruction, Mr. Thomas intimated, should be compulsory and in his case it probably would have to be if Prof. Sprague were on the rostrum. Dissimilarly, Senator Glass, it is to be feared, would have to be dragged into a class conducted by Prof. Warren. Somewhere, however, there must exist the ideal academician to whom all schools of senatorial thought would listen passively, if not attentively.

Lacking the ideal mentor, rotation of instructors, as practiced in certain European universities, could be applied. Radical and orthodox professors might follow each other, like March winds and April showers, with the hope that germination in legislative minds would benefit from both. Alternatively, Senators from the open spaces might be trained in the Harvard school of financial thought, while Coin Harvey would be drafted for the New England solons. In this way a perfect balance could, theoretically, be achieved.

Not the least of the advantages of the idea, lest we seem to lose sight of fine impartiality, would be its benefit to the professorial mind, often more prone to exude than to imbibe. As a class, our academicians have recently shown a strong leaning for the executive arm of government. It would redress the balance for them to mingle more with the legislative branch. And, in some cases, they could profit from being more in touch with the judicial outlook.

The Price Of Progress.

That aviation is still in its infancy has been brought home most painfully to the country of late by a succession of fatal accidents. The casualty list has been lengthened by the disasters that have overtaken Army fliers hastily recruited for the air-mail service when weather conditions were exceptionally adverse. But private companies have not been spared. Planes, presumably adequately equipped to withstand midwinter flying hazards, with experienced pilots at the controls, have carried both pilots and passengers to destruction.

It is evident that aviation has not developed a standard of safety comparable to that afforded by railroads, ships and automobiles. Accident statistics throw little light on the subject, since the conditions are entirely dissimilar. The people who ride in airplanes are a mere handful compared with the millions who use trains and automobiles at all times and under all conditions of weather. The thousands of automobile fatalities that occur yearly, moreover, are not due, except rarely, to a failure of the transport agency itself.

The American people, however, have always been willing to take serious risks in their zeal to force the pace of progress. We paid for that eagerness in numerous accidents in the pioneer days of railroading and we are still paying heavily for our rush to put an automobile into every home in the land. If drivers had to submit to the rigorous and costly examinations to which they are subjected in some countries before being permitted to drive a car, fatal accidents would be fewer, but so would the number of automobiles. Mass buying and mass patronage of new transport agencies have made possible improvements in automobiles that would have been long deferred under a slow and cautious development.

Similarly, progress in air transport to date has been bought at a sacrifice of human life, sometimes avoidable, but often inevitable. We are shocked by the recurrent tragedies, but the risks taken mean progress. Disaster is the price paid for experience and out of experience knowledge and safety are born.

Mrs. Rockefeller, Socialist.

The revelation that Mrs. John D. Rockefeller 3d has aligned herself with the Socialist party, as a registered member if not as an active party worker, will probably occasion some lifted eyebrows. They may be lowered again on recollecting that, during the exceptionally hard times of recent years, she has been in an excellent position to see the hardships suffered by the pauperized, despite the well-meaning efforts of the wealthy to aid the less fortunate. She has been actively interested in social and welfare projects.

Mrs. Rockefeller's alignment with the Socialists is an interesting manifestation, often encountered in families of great means. It may be merely an indication of wishful thinking on her part; we do not pretend to know. But in any case hats should be doffed to this woman who has thought out her own social problems quietly and has signified the tenor of her beliefs, without publicity, through the polling lists of New York City.

It must have taken courage on her part. Now we should like to hear her contributions to the family discussion on the Rivera mural that once was in Radio City.

Time To Reconsider.

John Dickinson, the Assistant Secretary of Commerce, qualifies without question as a constructive and expert critic of the Fletcher-Rayburn Stock Exchange bill. He was chairman of the interdepartmental committee which recently issued a report recommending Federal licensing of the exchanges. "The thing to be avoided," that report stated, "is the placing of this complex and important mechanism in a straitjacket."

It is the irrelevant and "strait-jacket" features of the bill under consideration, not its basic purpose, that has drawn the fire of Mr. Dickinson in his testimony before the House Interstate Commerce Committee. Like most students of the measure, he disapproves the proposal to give the Federal Trade Commission dictatorial powers over the accounting and financial methods of companies listed on the stock exchanges. He thinks, too, that effective regulation calls for the creation of a special Federal agency not burdened with other duties. He notes that the proposed law would permit the Federal Trade Commission to invade the field of credit regulation—the province of the Reserve System and the banks—and that it might supersede in many respects the work of State public utility commissions.

In his role of supporter of Administration policies, Mr. Dickinson refers to the incongruity between the rigid margin requirements of the Fletcher-Rayburn bill, which would necessitate extensive liquidation of securities, and the Government's efforts to maintain values and raise prices. Under the proposed measure, unlisted securities would be ineligible as collateral against loans and would have to be liquidated or replaced. New York brokerage accounts alone are estimated to include about $350,000,000 of such unlisted securities. In addition an estimated $550,000,000 of accounts might have to be liquidated because of inability to meet margin requirements. The cumulatively deflationary effects of such wholesale readjustments are obvious.

Mr. Dickinson's testimony was followed yesterday by that of Samuel Reyburn, formerly of Little Rock, Ark., now president of the Associated Dry Goods Corporation of New York. As a warm supporter of President Roosevelt during the campaign and as a business man of nation-wide repute, Mr. Reyburn's similar criticisms can not be discredited as those of a disgruntled "money changer."

No reflection upon the high purpose of the framers of the proposed act is involved in pointing out that few, if any, responsible people have supported the measure in its present form. While pretending to reform the stock exchange, it goes much beyond that admitted objective and authorizes far-reaching interference with business and private affairs. It changes the responsibilities and the relations of corporate managements in ways that may deprive industrial concerns of the services of the best, or even of good, managerial talent. The time has come for business men to emulate the example set by Mr. Reyburn by coming forward to protest against part of the substance of the present proposal, and most of the method which would enact legislation of such far-reaching character with indecent haste.

Judge Allen.

By appointing Judge Florence E. Allen of Ohio to fill a vacancy in the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, President Roosevelt has given the country its first woman Federal judge. Both Secretary Perkins, the first woman Cabinet member, and Judge Allen have won their appointments strictly on the basis of merit. Their training, experience and demonstrated ability would have singled them out for preferment if they had been men. For that reason those who wish to see sex prejudices eliminated as a factor in determining the acceptance or rejection of a candidate for public office will heartily indorse President Roosevelt's outstanding women appointees.

The practice of selecting or voting for women because they are women, or because they are wives, widows, mothers, or aunts of men of prominence, has been one of the most amazing and socially undesirable developments that followed the entry of women into public life. Self-seeking politicians have used untrained women to further their own sinister ends. Sentimental voters have registered their regard for dead or retired men (in at least one case for a man in the penitentiary) by casting votes for the girls they left behind them. The result has been costly to the country and extremely detrimental to the political advancement of able women with independent views.

President Roosevelt is especially to be commended for the discrimination shown in selecting for high office two women who easily qualify on the basis of their own records.

Weather Or Not.

Our farsighted Government is preparing to spend over $700,000 on equipping Federal buildings with air-conditioning facilities. Nothing could more heavily underscore the variability of Washingon weather.

One week ago, department heads were sneezing, departmental bodies shivering under triple blankets; a few hours later and overcoats became a burden. On a Friday clerks freeze in Commerce corridors; on the following Wednesday enter engineers to plan a cooling system.

We well know that the afternoons are not distant when an egg can be cooked on the steps of the Capitol; we well know that preparations for protection against such temperatures should be made right now. But why shouldn't they be made quietly? Is it quite good taste to parade them just as we are welcoming the end—if it is the end—of the worst winter since '88?

Life is indeed merely one thing after another. You have scarcely paid for your valentines before you must make out your income tax return. Must authority remind us of all this:

With an auspicious and a dropping eye,
With mirth in funeral and dirge in marriage?

A Real Clean-Up?

Arthur R. Mullen, of Omaha, is the fifth member of the Democratic National Committee to resign since President Roosevelt denounced any connection which savors of lobbying on the part of influential political leaders. One by one National committeemen are coming to realize the embarrassment they are inflicting upon the President and his Cabinet by representing clients before the Government departments. The surprising thing is not that resignations of this kind continue, but that so many officials, as well as practicing attorneys here, still cling to their political offices. White House warnings on this subject, for instance, have not yet brought the resignation of Mr. Farley as National chairman of the Democratic party.

Mr. Mullen's letter of resignation reveals that "the propriety of National committeemen practicing law in Washington" was discussed at the White House as early as last October. President Roosevelt acknowledges that fact in his reply to Mr. Mullen. Nevertheless, no attempt was made to end such relationships until the press took up the matter a few weeks ago. It appears, however, that the President is now happy to receive further resignations from State committee leaders who are in a position to mix politics and government. Criticism leveled against this practice is evidently deemed constructive.

While the Vandenberg bill against political lobbyists is under consideration, attention might well be given to party officials who hold jobs with patronage power, and to the plight of the independent commissions under their new status. Several committeemen are collectors of internal revenue or customs. One is a member of the Board of Tax Appeals; another is Director of the Mint. The undesirability of these dual connections is obvious. Important positions of this kind can not be held above suspicion of political favoritism so long as they are occupied by party officials whose business it is to distribute plums.

Since it was shown that members of bipartisan commissions who disagree with the Administration are subject to removal, these bodies have become particularly vulnerable to political influence. Not only National committeemen, but members of Congress and relatives of high officials, importune such bodies as the Radio Commission for special favors. Congress often complains about the "insidious influence" of the lobbyists, but some of its members make a practice of intimidating other Governmental bodies that are supposed to render independent judgment. Commissioners who ignore political "suggestions" from high sources are not infrequently reminded that their tenure of office depends upon the good will of the Administration. What is to be done about lobbying of this sort?

The Symphony's Needs.

The second season of the National Symphony Orchestra will end this month after a series of concerts for young and old that were as successful as even its most sanguine supporters had the right to expect. Those who watched the orchestra's progress with critical eye have seen Mr. Hans Kindler, its conductor, establish in its ranks the semblance of an esprit de corps, despite certain unavoidable obstacles. Such difficulties go hand in hand with every new venture of this kind, and are essential to the vital development of the organization.

The orchestra has grown artistically during its second year, despite the inability of Mr. Kindler to obtain all the musicians whom he, as father of the orchestra, felt belonged in his musical family. Attendance has increased encouragingly and the public has shown an intelligent understanding of the programs offered. Conductor Kindler, too, has grown with his orchestra, and has shown a fine aptitude for reading the more modern compositions which have made his programs interesting and colorful.

The National Symphony should understand, as the New York Philharmonic is sadly realizing, that the day of the benefactor is long past. No orchestra of today can depend upon the miraculous appearance of a Maj. Henry Lee Higginson to keep it in existence. Only an orchestra which can obtain the merited support of the community can exist, or deserves to exist. Orchestras must be the wish of the city and not the plaything of a small group of enthusiasts.

Veterans' Legislation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Congress is again muddling pension legislation and attempting to favor the veterans without trying to study their real needs and what is best for the country at large.

All needy veterans and the needy widows and minor children of deceased veterans should receive a pension during the period of such need. This could easily be accomplished by wise legislation without raiding the Treasury or putting an unbearable drain upon it.

In the first place, no veteran who is financially able to care for himself and family should ask for a pension merely because he did his duty over there, or here, and received disabilities by reason of such duty.

The idea that men owe their country their lives seems too ancient to be remembered. May we not revive that idea and persuade the veterans who have incomes of $3,500 or more per annum, derived from sources other than pension, to agree to legislation barring them from pensions while they are in receipt of such incomes? May we not persuade them to agree to legislation barring them from receipt of free hospitalization while they are in receipt of incomes from sources other than pension totaling $5,000 or more? Single veterans without dependents should be willing to be more liberal with the Government. This would release funds to care for the needy veterans and their dependents. However, if such a law were passed, care would have to be taken to enable the veteran to establish service connection of disabilities so that in event the veteran's income should cease, he would be entitled to receive the relief to which his faithful service should entitle him.

Patriotic representatives of the people ought to be able to prepare a bill that would embody all the best economy features of the so-called economy act and provide relief for all needy veterans and dependents of deceased veterans. Not only the political fortunes of these representatives depend on the solution of this problem, but the safety of the Nation.

Negro Spurns Communism.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Mr. Ford, the Negro Vice Presidential candidate on the Communist ticket in the last campaign, and Mr. Ades, a prominent I. L. D. attorney, of Baltimore, recently appeared before the Senate committee on the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill, and immediately entered upon Communistic harangues which the chairman courteously cut short on the ground that such propaganda had no relevancy to the bill. Senator Deitrich declared that Communistic propaganda was mischievous in its effect upon the colored race.

The Communists have volunteered their good offices in behalf of the Negro and have undoubtedly been of great service in the Scottsboro case. But they exact too great a price for their service when they expect the Negro to desert his country and flag. The American Negro labors under many serious and heavy grievances. But the remedy lies in resort to constituted agencies of relief, and not in repudiation of existing institutions or revolt against them. The counsel of Communism for the Negro is the counsel of death.

There is absolutely no hope in Communism which preaches the gospel of revolt and advocates a new and untried economic and political order at variance with the tradition, spirit and genius of American institutions.

I would somewhat revise the epigrammatic advice given to the Negro by Fred Douglass during the Greely campaign of 1872 in order to bring it up to date: "The Constitution is the ship; all else is the sea." KELLY MILLER.

A Matter of Politics.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Mr. Tumulty's letter in The Post of February 27 in which he strives so earnestly to show that former Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride is a Republican and therefore, presumably, unfit to hold office is just another manifestation of the shockingly bad table manners being exhibited in present-day Washington. Just because one happens to be the host at a dinner party is no reason why one should disregard all the rules of etiquette and common decency by gathering all the food around one's own plate and trying to devour every crumb of it. This is especially true if some one else has paid for the food anyhow.

The old axiom, "to the victors belong the spoils," may be true, and it may not be. Whether true or not, the people of the entire country, Republicans and Democrats alike, are getting rather sick of seeing conscientious and efficient public officials being deprived of their means of livelihood and vociferously damned on the floor of Congress merely on the suspicion that they may have leanings toward the Republican party. If it has to be done, then let it be done at least with a semblance of good manners.

I will close by saying that I am not a Republican. In view of the fact that I have no political job and am not trying to get one, I have no fear of being compelled to prove that statement.

On Press Censorship.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Editors of certain newspapers are worrying over press censorship. We need not fear a press censorship in America. After having just escaped from the frying-pan of prohibition, it is not likely that we will deliberately jump into the fire of press censorship, which is a far worse tyranny than prohibition ever was or ever could be.

America and England are the only great nations that have a free press. They are also the only great nations free from major disturbances.

If I were to write this letter in foreign languages and send it to papers in European and other countries, probably not one copy in 100 would be published; because only in English-speaking countries is truth regarded as no respecter of persons. Only in these English-speaking countries a free man, no matter how poor and obscure he may be, can lift his head to the free heavens and secure publication for those inspirations of truth that he receives from the heavens.

We have no press censorship in America. But let no American newspaper censor its own columns by suppressing any salutary truth in the interests of the paper's circulation and advertising.

CHARLES HOOPER.
Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, Feb. 22.

A Matter of Opinion.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial this morning on "Winter Dog Days" urges me to depart from habit and join the ranks of Pro Bono Publico—the estate of amateur idiots who think they are inventors of weighty ideas that, if expressed and published, will save the Republic.

To recur to the winter dog days, it does seem that the course of canine events is pointing with the index finger of fate, so to say, to the fact that it is time for the dog to join the horse, the mule and the jackass and get off the earth, where he is an infernal nuisance to everybody except the person that owns him.

I am reminded of the remark attributed to President Lincoln when an interested party pressed him for an opinion upon the book entitled "A Summer in a Garden," written, I believe, by Charles Dudley Warner. The great Lincoln answered, whimsically and with apparent reluctance:

"If a person likes that sort of a thing, it is about what he would like."

Constantinople in the palmiest days of its canine supremacy had nothing on the U. S. A. As a Nation, as communities and as individuals we have literally gone dogmad. In thought and practice, and in police court, the dog is of more account than a human being any day. If you do not believe it ask the Humane Society, after its many years of effort to humanize, socialize and glorify the dog. Of course, the Humane Society, the animal rescue leagues, and the lobby on Capitol Hill to indite law for the protection of the dog result in the perpetuation of a public nuisance, but none of them seem to know it.

Inequities of Social Life.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Now that the dollar has been put on a sound basis, Dr. Sprague to the contrary notwithstanding, how about a little social slant at the wage system?

Consider three individuals, all of whom do work of equal "sales" value, for which they receive the same wage or salary, say, $3,000 per annum. The first is the head of a family all depending on his wage. The second is married but has no children. The third is single, perhaps an old maid, mayhaps an old bachelor, without dependents.

Their wages are nominally equal, but the first gets but $600 per capita, the second $1,500 per capita and the third $3,000 per capita measured by terms of social responsibility. The standards of living they can maintain are not as their abilities, which are assumed equal, but inversely as their social responsibilities.

A high premium is placed on being and continuing single, the next reward going to the sterile, and the penalty—in dollars, mind you—to those who are rearing the next generation. As we all know, this is the occasion of much child labor, minors being put to work to help pay their way, particularly in families where adults earn subsistence wages or worse.

Some young men and women do not marry today because they can not afford to have children. If they do marry, they just do not have children. The financial handicap is too great.

Why then, relatively speaking, do we place a bar of gold upon the palm of a spinster, and a crown of thorns upon the brow of a mother? The equities of social life demand the opposite. J. F. M.

D. C. Street Car Service.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The citizens of Washington are more than indignant—they are furious—because of the policy which the Washington Street Car Co. is exhibiting toward the people who have to use the street cars whether they want to or not.

The most amazing fact, revealed at the recent Congressional hearing, was the admission by the president of the street car company that it was unable to render satisfactory service because of the snow and ice. The company, he said, is on the lookout for a type of car which would enable it to satisfy the public, but as yet has been unable to find any. He stated that when such a type of car is found the company would order some of them.

The Post Impressionist

Postoffice, Thursday.

Quite some time before we return to the gold standard, Wallace Beery will be moving over this country and Europe as the wicked Premier of a mythical realm, with Kay Francis for his Ruiner of Reputations and John Barrymore for the lithe U. S. attache whose reputation she could not ruin because he comes so near to ruining hers. There will be a spy-revival in the motion pictures because of those recent arrests of Japanese "technicians" in New Jersey and the mysterious death of World-Wartime Spy Marjorie Bartasky in a Kentish bungalow.

For most of us, the movie-makers know, the spy is compacted of romance. When we were very young, the glamorous spies of very young E. Phillips Oppenheim convinced us.

• • • •

Ourselves used to have a pleasantly disingenuous acquaintance with several peacetime-spies. But a friend who was long espionage paymaster for a Great Power tells us:

"No peacetime spy is useful to his nominal employer, or even to that country's enemies, after three years' service. Then, or before then, he—or she—begins to double-cross. Either they reach a point where, beginning to be suspected, they have to give the opposing side a little information in order to get any, or else they go mad over intrigue for its own sake.

So we recalled another friend, an Englishman who served the British M. I. in the Big Show.

• • • •

"I made three stays inside the enemy's lines," said he. "Then the brass-hats had to put me at a desk." He produced the picture of a man in a blazer and cricket cap; handsome, hopeful, self-sufficient. "Me," he explained, "just before my first trip. I haven't changed much since my third."

I don't know his real age: 45 perhaps. He has the face of 60, white, the cheeks sunken—has the haunted eyes of a palsied four-score.

"There were lots better men at the job than me," he said. "Our War Office had two chaps in the German railways' central bureau three weeks before the war started. They were still there, absolutely unsuspected and getting out their reports, two months after the Armistice. But, of course, they were professionals . . .

• • • •

"One night, at the listening post, I heard a Heine complain because his outfit was beerless. His N. C. told him such-and-such a number of barrels were due next day for each company, so that'd be so many tin steins for every man in their company. I'd been brought up in Munich, and Tubingen was my university; I knew the German beer barrel's capacity and the German military stein's. So it was easy to figure those chaps' company-strength, which our people were anxious to get. Jolly clever: it sent me into the M. I."

• • • •

"Weren't you eternally afraid you'd make some fatal slip?"

"That came later. At first I was sharp enough not to think I was anybody but the person I was pretending to be. If you were in a field when you learned to ride a bicycle, and if there was a tree there, and if you looked at that tree, why, nothing human could stop your colliding with the tree, could it? Spy-work—it's the same. But whatever part of Germany I visited, I had papers proving I belonged to another part, except when I was in Cologne, six months of '16: there I had an American passport as a native of your Pittsburgh and wasn't supposed to speak German."

• • • •

We didn't ask whether in Cologne, he met any German who knew Pittsburghese. If he had, this spy, speaking only the English of Oxford, would not have lived to be speaking anything to us.

• • • •

"The worst thing that happened to me," he mused, "really happened to somebody else. I was safe on a train, clearing out—that was when they gave any spy they caught an immediate on-the-spot courtmartial of five minutes and executed him at the end of it. We pulled into the last German station before the frontier—well, of a certain neutral country: a place where no end of us used to cross. There was a German in mufti opposite me, reading a newspaper, and, on my right, beside the window, was a man—a boy, rather—that I couldn't be sure of.

"The regular military 'Control' had stamped our papers, and the train was going to start, when there was a clatter of army-boots and a rebanging of doors. Next instant, the squad that was after him had our door open, and that boy, my right-hand neighbor, out.

"From the coach, the German and I couldn't see anything more; but the train didn't start till we heard the shots of the firing squad. The man with the newspaper caught my eye and shrugged. I shrugged too. Then I went into the lavatory and was sick."

• • • •

Duty, of course: on both sides. But—glamour?

We think more of Nathan Hale today than we used to when we passed his pretty statue on our way to certain Harvard-Yale football games.

Along the Potomac

With

Carlisle Bargeron

THE question of just how much good or harm the codes have done to recovery may be moot, but there is one thing on which there should be a unanimity of opinion. And that is, for some industries they have provided a whale of a lot of fun.

BARGERON.

Take the paper manufacturers, for instance. Those fellows must be doubling up in laughter at the dilemma they have just placed Congress in. It seems to be a sort of perverted sense of humor, too, because this Congress has tried to be so good, it has done its very best to please. For the paper manufacturers to take advantage of their bewilderment to ridicule the lawmakers seems to be going too far. Already we have laughed at them so much that they are getting an inferiority complex, otherwise how can one explain the outbreak of Representative Shoemaker. Unless we want them to grow up to be timid and afraid, we should begin petting them, not doing what the paper manufacturers did.

* * * *

The Joint Committee on Printing of the Congress wanted to buy some more paper on which the Congress could write bills and the Congressional Record and so on. Therefore, it called for bids. When the bids showed up they were all one and the same or so nearly the same as not to be distinguishable. They had been prepared by the competing companies under the open price provisions of the NRA. That, of course, has been going on ever since the NRA was established, though it is something the NRA has been reluctant to admit. Congress has heard rumors of it and various Government departments have been up against the practice, but any criticism has been greeted by the denunciation with which the NRA usually greets its critics. Neanderthaler men and corporals of disaster, that is what those who have spoken ill about the NRA have been called.

* * * *

The Congress, though is now up against an actual fact. It has before it the definite case of the open price provision eliminating competition.

What is more, it can't laugh the matter off as the Government departments have been doing. There is a story going the rounds that when one department received a set of bids, all the same, it put them all in a hat and awarded the contract to the company whose bid was drawn out.

Congress, however, can not get out of it quite so easily. It so happens that it has passed a law requiring that the contract go to the lowest bidder. It also passed the law creating the NRA. In short, it has got caught between two of its laws.

* * * *

It has done, or rather the joint committee has, the only thing it could do under the circumstances. Ever since it convened it has been taking its leadership from the executive branch, not only its leadership but its orders.

The Joint Committee has now called upon the executive branch to give it some leadership on this. In effect, it has said to the uptown branch: "If you have ever shown leadership, show it now."

And quite fairly, I think. It was the executive branch that got it into its dilemma. It should be the one to get it out. It isn't as if the Congress had had an opportunity to wrestle with a problem heretofore, as if it was experienced in wrestling with problems. It hasn't had any experience at all. It has simply been doing what it was told to do. Now to expect it to be able to extricate itself from two conflicting laws it has passed would be expecting too much.

Wouldn't it be cruel if instead of helping it out the executive branch should simply tell it to fold up and go on home, that it really doesn't need any paper at all?

Banghart Tried In Factor Case

Touhy Gangster Pleads Not Guilty in Kidnaping.

Chicago, March 7 (AP).—Another of the Touhygang's "board of directors" went on trial today for the gang's most unlucky deal—the kidnaping of John "Jake" Factor.

This time it was Basil "(The wl") Banghart, captured in Baltimore the day before Roger Touhy and two others went on trial for the kidnaping. Found too late to be tried then, Banghart was used as a people's exhibit and was a witness for the Touhy defense.

Banghart was brought before Judge Walter P. Steffen, charged with the abduction, and selection of a jury was begun. The gangster did not answer when asked to plead, but his attorney, William Scott Stewart, who defended the other Touhy gangsters, put in a "not guilty" plea for him.

The attorney asked for a change of venue which would take the trial outside of Cook County, but this was overruled along with other defense motions.

Survivors of Sandino Band Fleeing to Border

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, March 7 (AP).—Followers of the late Nicaraguan rebel leader, Augusto Sandino, were said to be fleeing toward the Honduras border today, after 30 were reported killed in a clash with guardsmen.

A source believed reliable, reported the losses in an encounter near the Wiwili cooperative farming colony on the River Coco in Nicaragua.

Oil and Water Just Can't Be Mixed

By Robert Quillen

It takes something more than a legal or religious ceremony to make a marriage.

The failure of marriage begins, as a rule, before the ceremony.

It is destined to fail, whether it ends in separation or continues in strife and boredom, because the "contracting parties" are not qualified, by temperament, capacity or understanding, to become one in spirit and in fact.

Young people very much in love make a success of marriage without knowing how they do it. Their great affection and the pliability of youth solve all problems until habit makes them "no longer twain but one flesh."

There is ample evidence to show that two people can live as mates and yet retain their individuality.

Some artists do it. And some more prosaic couples make a success of it when the wife goes ahead with her career and the husband does some other kind of work or none at all.

But these are exceptions and make their own rules.

Ordinary people can not hope for a happy marriage if they remain individualists. At the best they will be good friends boarding at the same place—nothing more.

Marriage and individualism are contradictory terms. To speak of "married individualists" would be much the same as saying "the mated unmated."

People who have outgrown the trusting idealism of youth begin their marriage with a secret determination to remain spiritually free. They are selfish and suspicious. They are determined not to give an inch—not to be bossed. They will take but they will not give.

Merely to think of these matters is to invite failure. Such a state of mind makes true marriage impossible.

Make no mistake about it, to marry is to become one—by love or reason to purge the heart of all selfishness and serve one another as loyally and naturally as the right hand serves the left.

That is marriage. Anything else is merely living together.

The Tender-Minded Johnson.

In reading Boswell's "Life of Johnson," we become well acquainted with his bad manners—both at the table and in other human relations. We observe his courage in adversity, his rudeness, his obstinacy, his sturdy prejudices, his violences of expression, his harsh stubbornness, his dogmatic assertiveness, his delight in contradiction.

Why is it that we love him so? Some would answer, we don't. He had many enemies in his lifetime, and there are today those whom he repels. But the majority of readers of Boswell love Johnson. I use the word love advisedly. Even those who dislike him respect him for his courage, his independence, his sturdy honesty and integrity; but these qualities, however admirable, are not necessarily lovable. There are many scamps whom we do not respect, but whom we love.

Thomas Gray did not love Johnson. When he saw him rolling along a London street, Gray said to his companion, "There goes Ursa Major, the Great Bear!" But Gray did not know the real Johnson.

I think we love Dr. Johnson because underneath his uncouth exterior, underneath the anfractuosities of his speech, he had a tender mind. The old fellow was soft-hearted. I like to think of the tender-minded Johnson. He used to go out himself and buy oysters for his cat Hodge, because he was afraid that if he left that chore for his servant, the cat might not receive proper attention. Boswell wrote:

". . . I recollect him one day scrambling up Dr. Johnson's breast, apparently with much satisfaction, while my friend smiling and half-whistling, rubbed down his back, and pulled him by the tail; and when I observed he was a fine cat, saying, 'Why yes, sir, but I have had cats whom I liked better than this;' and then as if perceiving Hodge to be out of countenance, adding, 'but he is a very fine cat, a very fine cat indeed.'"

There was a passage in the hymn "Dies Irae" that he never could read without crying:

Jesu, me, sedisti lassus (O Jesus, in weariness thou hast sought me) —he was always overwhelmed by its appeal.

When he was a boy, his father asked him one day to take care of the bookstall in his absence. With the sensitive pride of adolescence, Johnson refused. Years after his father was dead, Johnson would go there and stand uncovered in the rain.

There is a charming whimsical side to Johnson, which could not have come from any but a tender mind. When in the country with Boswell, he saw a hill, and to Boswell's amazement, the burly doctor rolled helter-skelter from the top of the hill to the bottom. When Boswell inquired why he had done such a thing, Johnson said, "Well, it is a long time since I have had a roll."

Whale's Sick, So Town Is Reaping Fortune.

San Francisco, March 7 (AP).—Because a whale didn't feel so well, residents of Bolinas, a little town north of here, hoped today to receive a modest fortune. If they do the money will go toward a wedding, doctors' bills, and a mortgage.

A chemist's report showed a sample of waxy substance found on the beach there was ambergris, expelled by sick whales and used as a base for expensive perfumes. Nearly a score of needy residents of Bolinas Bay had collected a great quantity of the substance.

Norfolk Prepares For Fleet's Return

Norfolk, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Naval authorities today planned to dredge a channel 500 feet wide and 2,000 feet long at the Norfolk naval operating base to accommodate the large airplane carriers and other vessels that will return from the West Coast in June.

No End of Books

THE 6:45 from Keokuk might be ten minutes or an hour late in getting into the little Iowa town of Brunswick—nee New Cosmopolis. But whatever that lag, the quarter-hour before the Kaydee snorted up found the train-meeters gathered on the station platform.

If you asked a Brunswicker, he could not have told you how he knew. But it was very simple. The station agent understood no Morse, yet when the telegraph set began to rattle with Keosauqua telling Ottumwa that the train had gone through, he had a vague sense that he should move the egg cases out on the platform. When, from across the road, the storekeeper-postmaster saw the agent doing this, as though he might as well seal up the mail and get it over. And when the idlers around the stove became conscious of this latter activity, they began to stretch and look at their watches, and finally they went out to watch the Kaydee in.

I liked it, as I am inclined to like anything quiet and true with a grin in it, but I started to wonder if anything could happen in this tiny town of two dozen householders. Well, there certainly could! By the time I had come to the last page I'd read of a shotgun blasting away up a church aisle, a couple of pretty thorough knock-'em-down horse-whippings, an attempted reverse - English seduction, a shivaree broken up by the use of a stout club, an adultery, the memory of two or three ancient murders, and a suicide. And on the last page itself another old murder was more than hinted at. Certainly there were no flies on the good people of Brunswick, Iowa.

PHIL STONG.

* * * *

"Village Tale" is the story of Slaughter Somerville, 30-year-old scion of the family which owned the town. He was earnest, he felt his responsibility, but he loved and coveted a neighbor's wife. Stirred up by Drury Stevensen, a gaunt and adequate villain, the town took sides and the ripples from this central crisis affected a dozen characters.

When Slaughter could no longer ignore what the town thought, or what he himself deeply wanted, he took sudden action. Fate helped him nicely. In the end he said to his love: "Three times in my life I've done something that was wrong—that I'd been taught was wrong—I kissed you, I kicked Drury, I lied about Drury. I got more out of those things than I got out of all the rest of my life."

* * * *

Phil Stong's first two novels, "State Fair" and "Stranger's Return," were pure folk humor, very hearty and satisfying. That laughter is still present, but sharp, dramatic conflict now occupies the center of the stage. All the people in town are wound into a complex knot—there is a constant straining and breaking. More than once Stong touches a deep nerve.

At one climax, when Bolly Hootman has had his body and heart broken, Slaughter tells this friend and tenant-farmer that he is "gallant."

"'Slaughter, what does "gallon," mean—the way you said it?'

And Bolly, his world at an end, walked down into the river clutching that thought—"I'm brave and I'm gallon."

With exactly that same overtone of semihumorous little error and half-pathetic, half-sentimental virtue, I think "Village Tale" a very "gallon" novel.

Nonfiction for All Tastes.

"Roman Round-About," by Amelia Posse-Brazdova. (Dutton, $3.) Gossip and anecdotes of the international set in Rome, told with infinite gusto and contagious humor by the author of "Sardinian Sideshow." "Whither Latin America?" by Frank Tannenbaum. (Crowell, $2). A pithy and important book which suggests more questions than it gives answers. Dr. Tannenbaum notes all the problems of our Southern neighbors, and leaves us with at least the knowledge that we must not use our own foot-rule upon them.

Federal Land Problem Has 6 Major Factors

Needy Families on Farms and Crop Surplus Are Imported.

[Editor's note: This is the second of a series by the Associated Press on plans of the Government to use land to be bought and retired from agricultural production.]

In attacking the problem of land use, the Government faces difficulties which have been accumulating for more than 100 years, for land abandonment began in the East when Western lands were thrown open to settlement.

At least six considerations must be kept in mind as the program is mapped out. First of all, the impoverished condition of thousands of farm families must be improved.

After that comes the necessity of eliminating farm surpluses permanently, which will involve purchasing some productive as well as submarginal land; controlling floods; renewing the Nation's timber supply; restoring wild game life, and providing natural parks and nature-study areas.

Separate Plans Studied.

To date, the Department of Agriculture, the subsistence homestead division of the Interior Department, and the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation have been at work on separate plans and ideas. And to the question, "What do you intend to do with this land?" the answer until recently has been: "We don't know."

However, with selection of areas in which $25,000,000 now available will be spent, the necessity for a program is apparent.

They have set up the requirements for a coordinated land program, these are: Bettering the living conditions of the people on areas bought; guaranteeing more efficient use of schools and churches; assuring the people of a steady, even though small, income; provision of constructive work in small industries which have a ready market, and self-supporting and self-liquidating use of the land vacated.

Some of these ideas "may sound radical," says L. C. Gray, land economist of the Department of Agriculture, "but the radicalism of yesterday has become the liberalism of today and may appear as the conservatism of tomorrow."

Most Meant for Game.

Certain areas will be used primarily as parks and sanctuaries for birds and rare game. The remainder, and the largest number of tracts acquired, will be run on a paying basis. Their chief crops will be timber and game birds and animals.

The two would be produced together under the only comprehensive plan thus far suggested—a study made by President Roosevelt's committee on wild life restoration and chiefly by J. N. Darling, of Des Moines, a member of the committee.

This combination of reforestation on selected parts of the acreage and game management on the remainder "gives a more immediate and higher rate of economic return, and an equally efficient if not more rapid basis for remedial treatment of the soil," the committee declares.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips.

Dr. Roosevelt Examines the Patient Again.

Dr. Roosevelt—Now, Sam, after all, you don't have that old tired feeling any more, do you?

Uncle Sam—Only when I try to read an economic expert's explanation of a financial policy.

Dr. Roosevelt—How about shortness of breath? Do you have that any more when you run upstairs?

Uncle Sam—They don't let me run upstairs any more. They say stairs are being done away with and that the Democrats are to give everybody individual elevators.

* * * *

Dr. Roosevelt—How do you sleep?

Uncle Sam—All right, except when Gen. Johnson is shouting. Say, doc, does he believe all he says?

Dr. Roosevelt—Yes, and we're all safe as long as he doesn't try to say all he believes. How about your appetite these days? Is it good?

Uncle Sam—Yes, I'm hungry all the time but I don't like the food.

Dr. Roosevelt—What's the trouble?

Uncle Sam—Too many cooks.

Dr. Roosevelt—How about those terrible nightmares you were having when I was called in? Do you still have 'em?

Uncle Sam—Once in a while. I have a recurring dream that I am a flagpole sitter on top of a skyscraper and that you and the Brain Trust are sawing the pole in half. Below me I see a rescue squad holding a net with a hole in it.

Dr. Roosevelt—That's no nightmare; you've just been reading those newspaper editorials.

Uncle Sam—Maybe so.

* * * *

Dr. Roosevelt—Do you get tired when you're on your feet long?

Uncle Sam—I haven't been on my feet long enough to be certain.

Dr. Roosevelt—Is your eyesight normal again?

Dr. Roosevelt—You're telling me!

Uncle Sam—I suppose you notice that I'm still a little jumpy?

Dr. Roosevelt—Yes, and I don't know why. We've been giving you plenty of treatment.

Uncle Sam—Say, you have so many first-aid men looking after me now that I feel like a drowning man.

Dr. Roosevelt—When I took over your case you were a drowning man.

Uncle Sam—Yes, but now that I have been pumped out I don't see why I should be rolled on a barrel by the resuscitation squad the rest of my life.

Dr. Roosevelt—You don't seem to get the point. Your case was a very serious one, and we're not satisfied to just cure you. We want to make sure that nothing ever happens to you again.

Uncle Sam—After all, I don't want to be so healthy—it's monotonous . . .

Mr. Roosevelt—Now stop complaining, Sam. You're getting better fast and I'll soon make a new man of you.

Uncle Sam—I know, but will either of us recognize me?

Looking Backward.

After a winter like this, the winter of '33, when all we had to endure was frozen assets, seems pretty fine.

Just in case of another winter like this, how about a pledge to plow under every third snowflake?

Elmer Twitchell says it's all right with him if President Roosevelt takes over the Government communications system but he hopes he won't put the Navy in the telephone switchboard rooms.

A Fervent Wish.

A Denver judge has ruled that a back-seat driver who sees danger ahead and does not warn the driver is equally liable for an accident. All we hope is that the wife overlooked the item when she read the newspaper.

Rulings Point To Liberalized Supreme Court

Moratorium and Milk Law Decisions Predicated on Need for Change.

[Editor's note: Recent decisions of the United States Supreme Court have indicated an historic change in the attitude of that powerful branch of the Government which may prove of utmost importance to State and National recovery legislation. The following article by the United Press, first of a series, attempt to analyze that change, and future articles will seek to develop its meaning as to current problems.]

Those shaping the course of the New Deal are no longer steering a blind course in their voyage seeking National recovery, but have at least two judicial beacons to aid them through uncharted economic and judicial seas.

These have been furnished by the Supreme Court in the Minnesota mortgage moratorium case, and in the more recent New York milk-control law case.

In these instances the court has given sympathetic ear to drastic laws, which has revealed that members are well aware of present economic and political crises.

Public Interest Paramount.

The position of the majority in both cases discloses more clearly, perhaps, than anything else that the court recognizes there can be no government which does not act primarily in the public interest.

In neither interest has the court definitely established the precise point at which it will cease to uphold drastic laws which have been established over industry.

So far, the court has not been called on to pass on the validity of Federal regulation, directly. Both the Minnesota and New York laws involved only State police powers invoked for unusual purposes under unusual circumstances.

So far, the right of the Federal Government to fix prices, an esential element of NRA, in the opinion of many, has apparently been sustained.

Great Change in Court.

The much debated fourteenth amendment was raised in the milk case and, if no other sign were evident, the emotional context of the dissenting opinion would make it clear that a great change had taken place in the court. The dissent was written by the four members of the bench who, until in most recent years, have been consistently of the majority, particularly upon economic questions.

Close students of the opinion see in it a change in the course of reasoning pursued by the court for many years and a tendency to reexamine the Constitution in the light of present-day events.

Husband Sues Wife's Doctor as Love Thief

Los Angeles, March 7 (AP).—Thomas J. Seccombe today filed a $75,000 heart balm suit against Dr. Henry Holm, charging the doctor stole his wife while she was a patient in Hancock, Mich., and caused her to obtain a divorce in Houghton County, Mich., July 10, 1932.

Seccombe charges the physician financed the divorce case, provided transportation for Mrs. Seccombe to Los Angeles and joined her there for a trip to the South Seas.

New Conservation Secretary.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Gilbert H. Overholt, of Elkins, has been named secretary of the West Virginia Conservation Commission by Gov. H. G. Kump and Maj. H. W. Shawhan, new conservation commissioner. He has been associated with the State Compensation Commission for the past year.

8-Foot Wall of Ice Balks Rescue of Ship

Grand Haven, Mich., March 7 (AP). Ice floes, piled up by a strong wind to a depth of eight feet, balked efforts of the Coast Guard cutter Escanaba to go to the assistance of the ice-bound fishing tug Grace H. today. The Escanaba progressed less than a mile in 36 hours of battling with the ice.

The Grace H., with four men aboard, is drifting helplessly in the ice field south of Frankfort, but apparently is in no danger of breaking up.

Fulmer Backs His NRA Stand

"Common Sense" Notes Not Meant to Sanction Violations, Claim.

Representative Fulmer (Democrat), South Carolina, who wrote two letters to South Carolina sawmill operators advising "common sense" compliance with their NRA code, said yesterday, "I'm not backing up from a single word or a single line," according to the Associated Press.

He made this statement at an NRA hearing before which the letters were read yesterday by C. C. Sheppard of the Lumber Code Authority.

Saying that Congressmen whose "common sense" views did not coincide with NRA's were said to be "not with the President," Fulmer insisted he was 100 per cent for Mr. Roosevelt.

He repeated, however, that sawmill operators could not pay NRA code wages.

Denying he was advising code violation, the South Carolina Representative said instead he was councilling operators to continue operation until NRA could investigate.

Six Young Screen Beauties Chosen for Future Favor—Mail Orders for Jeritza

Paramount Has Own List That Ousts Wampas

(Reprinted from Yesterday's Last Edition.)

By Nelson B. Bell.

An honored custom, it seems, will not be summarily relegated to the limbo of negation by Hollywood's deliberate abandonment of the annual practice of selecting "Baby WAMPAS stars" from among the ranks of rising screen actresses.

This is borne in upon me from several simultaneous directions, as one might say. First comes Mr. Eddie Corcoran, one of Paramount's veteran exploiteers, whom I have known now, man and boy, nigh onto thutty years, who plops himself down at my desk fortified with vast wordages concerning a group of young women of high endowment nominated by his company for preferment before the cameras and microphones.

Mr. Corcoran bequeaths to the archives of this department many alluring photographs of the accomplished beauties in question, which, by the grace of the art department and an adequate supply of pulp paper, in time, no doubt, will find their way before your enraptured—and that is what by all right it should be—gaze.

Hardly has Master Corcoran taken himself hence than arrives an important missive from one Lou Smith, attached to the professional entourage of Prof. Al Wilkie, who is by way of being Paramount's head man in the matter of publicity in the effete East, in which the natural and acquired gifts of these fabulous young women are further extolled in the extravagant or press-agent manner.

What! No Mr. Barnum?

Not content with that, Mr. Paramount, himself, evidently distrustful of the complete reliability of any single agency of his staff of stentors—and I could have told him better of the utterly conscientious Mr. Corcoran, at least—has his Mr. Tom Bailey bombard the dramatic desk with still further encomiums of the gals singled out for favor, from the far distant West Coast, where, goodness knows, the boys and girls in the publicity departments must have enough to do keeping autograph hunters out of their hair without being bothered with works of supererogation such as this!

The upshot of all this to-do, as you may well imagine, is that the dramatic department is gradually becoming aware that Paramount thinks it has something in the persons of six personable and precocious young players.

Who They Are.

To get to the nub of the matter, the six Paramount proteges are:

Evelyn Venable, born in Cincinnati, who came to the screen following several seasons as Walter Hampden's leading woman in Shakespearean repertoire. She has appeared in "Cradle Song," "Death Takes a Holiday" and "David Harum." She is a brunette.

Frances Drake, born in New York City, former dancer and star of English films. Strikingly dark and brown-eyed, she is a descendant of Sir Henry Morgan, pirate nobleman of the seventeenth century. Her first picture was "Bolero" and her current one, "The Trumpet Blows."

Dorothy Dell, born on a Mississippi plantation near Hattiesburg. She was "Miss Universe of 1930" and das featured in Ziegfeld's Follies." A blonde, she makes her screen debut in the title role of "Wharf Angel." Next she will do "Little Miss Marker" and "The Great Magoo."

Helen Mack, native of Rock Island, Ill., featured on the screen in "Melody Cruise," "Son of Kong," and "All of Me." She has brown hair and brown eyes.

Was Nervous With Garbo.

Elizabeth Young, only daughter of Judge William Young, of the Children's Court of New York. She speaks five languages, was educated in exclusive schools and gave up a society career for the stage and screen. Her brunette beauty has been seen in "Big Executive" and "Queen Christiana," in which Greta Garbo awed her somewhat.

Ida Lupino, daughter of Stanley Lupino, one of England's most popular comedians and producers, descendant of five generations of stage stars. She was brought to the United States to be tested for "Alice in Wonderland," but instead of getting that role she was placed in "Search for Beauty" and has just completed "Come On, Marines." The blonde English girl has just left Hollywood for a three weeks' vacation in Vancouver.

Which, of course, is all very well, as far as it goes, but wait until you see their pictures. You will never miss the WAMPAS babies!

So much interest has been manifested in this column's recent suggestion that the wealth of talent now being put to such diversified uses might well be coordinated and concentrated in the establishment of a real Little Theater movement, looking to an ultimate goal of recognized and worthy professionalism, that some further expatiation upon the subject may be expected in the reasonably near future. We are moved to this fear by many fruitful ideas that rather naturally evolved yesterday afternoon from an extremely pleasant and profitable visit from Elizabeth K. Peeples, director of the Comunity Center Department, under whose auspices the recent eighth annual one-act play tournament of the District was so successfully run off. There are, needless to say, a great many obstacles to be overcome, but there are also—which seems much more important—tremendous advantages to be derived from their successful encompassment. A Washington Little Theater of no mean commercial importance is not at all an impossibility.

Something of the speculation as to her future in films, inspired by her National tour preceding her appearance in the title role of "Alice in Wonderland," has been dispelled by the announcement that Charlotte Henry has been borrowed from Paramount by Twentieth Century to play a romantic role in "Head of the Family," George Arliss' next picture for Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl Zanuck.

Zanuck selected Miss Henry from a list of more than a dozen ingenues he had been considering for the roles. She will play the granddaughter of Arliss in the comedy of a shrewd millionaire trying to find the most deserving relative to make chief heir.

Zanuch also announced that Hardie Albright has been signed to share the romantic interest with Miss Henry.

"Head of the Family" has a New England background, and is a modern story in a comedy vein. In contrast to "The House of Rothschild" which has Europe as its background and, consequently, an English cast Mr. Arliss will be surrounded in this new picture with an American cast that will include Edna May Oliver, Janet Beecher, Ralph Morgan and others.

With Joe Cook and his genial cohorts convulsing audiences at the National this week, it may be well to direct attention to the fact that those with a predilection toward musical entertainment of a slightly more staid nature will find their tastes served in the same theater, come the end of the month. Mme. Maria Jeritza is definitely booked for the National in her new operetta by Rudolf Friml, now in preparation in New York. So definitely is this glamorous star of the operatic and concert stages articled for the National, as a matter of fact, that mail orders are now being accepted for the entire week of her prospective engagement.

This engagement will be for the week beginning Monday, March 26. The title of the new piece by the composer of "Katinka," "The Firefly," "Rose Marie," "The Vagabond King" and numerous other works of the first rank, is "Annina." In Mme. Jeritza's supporting casts will be such artists as Allan Jones, Andrew Tombes, Louise Mele, Jack Good, Harry Mestayer and "a hundred other operetta personalities." The prices will range to a $3.30 top for evening performances, $2.75 for Saturday matinee and $2.20 for Wednesday matinee.

Not That It Matters.

Not even the most hard-bitten realist expects musical comedy to adhere rigidly and with unassailable chronological fidelity to fact. It is one of the prerogatives of this form of entertainment to twist dates and events to suit the exigencies of plot—if any.

It is, nevertheless, a little hard to take for some of the old-timers that "Hold Your Horses," the Joe Cook frolic currently at the National, has John L. Sullivan still in his prime when "Floradora" was the smash hit at the Casino Theater on Broadway and attempts to make Irving Berlin, as a singing waiter in Nigger Mike's on the Bowery, turning out the tune of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" as early as 1900.

It happens that we attended "Floradora" at the Casino on a balmy June night in the year so-and-so before embarking for a three-month sojourn in the West Indies and South America, that stretched itself into three years before we even got back to the States on a visit, and John L. had been knocked out by our old friend Jim Corbett a good nine years before that. And as for "Alexander's Ragtime Band," we had resumed life amid the comforts and gayeties of the comparatively Temperate Zone years before that Berlin hit took the country by what is generally described as storm.

And even at that, lest we be accused of quibbling about nonessentials, "Hold Your Horses" is a swell evening's fun.

Father Goose Note.

But, Grandpa, what long years you have!

Simple Pleasures of the Gay 90s

Miss Dorothy Dare, in the excess of her prim Victorianism, is coyly explaining to Mr. Tom Patricola, an attentive and obviously enthusiastic listener, a few of the more palpable advantages of "High Shoes." This would be in the lively song number of that name which constitutes one of the gayer interludes in "Hold Your Horses," the whimsy of the so-called "turn of the century," in which the devastating and diverse Mr. Joe Cook is currently starring at the National.

"Mistake," Says Dr. Wynekoop

Aged Physician Begs for Quiet in Cell After Guilty Verdict.

Chicago, March 7 (AP).—Shocked by the verdict which branded her a murdress and consigned her to 25 years in prison, Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop today lay in a half stupor on her county jail cot and begged to be left alone.

The enigmatic physician, however, found strength to maintain her innocence of the death of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, and to assert that the jury which yesterday convicted her had made a grievous error.

Her son and daughter, Walker and Dr. Catherine, maintained a stoical calm, but were reported to be near a collapse. They had been at every session of both trials. Her other son, Earle, husband of the slain Rheta, was not here. He was last reported in Kansas City.

Attorney Smith visited his client later in the day and reaffirmed his intention of carrying on the fight for a new trial. When the motion comes up for hearing March 24 before Judge Harry B. Miller.

Count's Illness Unites Queen With His Wife

Paries, March 7 (AP).—The illness of the Count of Covadonga—who once was the Prince of the Asturias and heir to the Spanish throne—today brought together his mother, former Queen Victoria, and his wife, for whom he renounced his royal rights.

The meeting, the first between the two women since the marriage last June of the Count and the daughter of a Cuban merchant, took place in a San Hedro hotel room bseide the bed where the young man lay ill with grippe.

N. Y. Evacuates Many Families From Firetraps

LaGuardia Takes Action, Using City Employes to Cheat Flames.

New York, March 7 (AP).—Tenement fire tragedies that reaped 15 lives in two weeks today caused the administration of Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia to move many families from condemned firetraps, an unprecedented step in the city's history.

Cooperating in the evacuation of the tenements, after the mayor directed they be emptied without waste of time, were the Tenement Hous Commission, the Police Department, the Department of Public Welfare and CWA workers.

Meanwhile, Langdon W. Post, youthful Fusion Tenement Commissioner, was in Washington seeking to expedite release of the $25,000,000 earmarked by the Public Works Administration for erection of model dwellings for the city's poor.

Indications were that the funds would be released in small amounts as projects are outlined by the Municipal Housing Authority, created in the past few weeks by the State Legislature at the Fusion Administration's request.

LaGuardia "cracked down" on the tenement owners last week, abandoning the moratorium on the enforcement of sanitary regulations and the laws against multiple dwellings. The owners responded by threatening to lay the whole problem in the Administration's "lap" by abandoning the tenements and throwing more than half a million families on the streets.

The families were moved today to nearby buildings, regarded by authorities as free from danger and suitable for comfortable living.

Congress Holds Sugar Pact Fate

London Delegates Observe American Reaction as Key to Problem.

London, March 7 (AP).—Fate of a proposed world sugar pact depends on reaction in the American Congress to the Roosevelt Administration's new sugar bill, delegates attending a 10-power conference said tonight. The prevailing view was the United States will show the world what can be done to help the sugar situation.

Private talks in the last three days have convinced observers there should be no hasty action on a suggestion to summon a conference of all important exporting and importing nations to draw up a new agreement to raise and stabilize sugar prices.

It was considered to be advisable to wait and see what Congress does with a bill aiming to curtail American domestic production and open American, Cuban, Philippine, and Hawaiian markets.

It was believed current sessions here will end without decision on the world pact.

Gassaway Chamber Elects.

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—The Gassaway Chamber of Commerce has chosen Dr. Clayton C. Carson as president. Other officers include W. P. Bartlett, vice president; L. M. Bartlett, secretary, and J. B. Fisher, treasurer.

Vasa Lodge Dance Tomorrow.

Drott Lodge, Vasa Order of America, a Swedish society, will give a supper dance at the Roosevelt Hotel at 8:30 p. m. tomorrow in celebration of the lodge's twenty-fourth anniversary. Scandinavians in the District and others interested have been invited.

Foolish Question No. 789654: Is a 50-lb. Pig Good to Eat?

The Answer, of Course, Was in the Bag, as the Jury Consisted of Hungry Reporters; Wallace's Dry. Diet Loses to Carey's Yum-Yum Yams.

It became a patriotic duty yesterday for a reporter to sit as arbitrator in a controversy between Senator Robert D. Carey (Republican), Wyoming, and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace over the question of whether a pig weighing less than 80 pounds is good to eat.

Carey said yes, Wallace no. After two helpings of a 50-pound roast pig supplied by Carey, the reporter felt constrained to decide in favor of the Senator. We wish it clearly understood by Mr. Wallace, however, that we are still open to bribery.

The issues were joined when Carey posted a manifesto on the Senate press gallery bulletin board yesterday, announcing that the Department of Agriculture had spent $21,000,000 in its hog program to destroy pigs which it considered too small to use as food.

"I have been presented with two handsome pigs," Carey's proclamation continued, "each weighing less than 50 pounds. They have been roasted and will be served with trimmings at 1 o'clock today. I cordially invite members of the Senate press gallery to partake."

Wallace came into court under a terrific handicap. The only thing he has ever fed is statistics. Let 'em eat cotton production figures for the State of Georgia in the first quarter of 1932 has been his icy-hearted edict to the hungry Senate press gallery.

The jury reported promptly at 1 p. m. in a room across from the Senate restaurant. Waiters brought in two pigs and big platters of baked sweet potatoes and cooked apples.

As soon as the jurors saw the pigs, some of them cried:

"Who's afraid if big, bad Wallace?"

Those newspaper writers certainly are cards, aren't they?

The more serious-minded grabbed a knife and a fork and started deliberating. It was necessary, of course, to eat portions from both of the pigs so there wouldn't be any danger of a snap judgment. Most every one had two helpings of the sweet potatoes and apples, too, because you can't tell when Wallace is going to start throwing away little yams and apples.

"But, Senator," said one juror, "I don't want to make a pig out of myself."

Everybody caught on to what he meant, all right, and nearly split their sides laughing. Along about 2 p. m., Carey produced coffee and ice cream.

That made the verdict against Wallace unanimous.

Those who attended the luncheon pronounced the pork delicious and the "trimmings" extremely enjoyable.

No statistics were available regarding the cost of processing the pigs, which was the chief Department of Agriculture argument against putting the smaller porkers on the market.

Carey, commenting on this, said that even if the cost of processing were too high to make it commercially profitable to market 50-pound pigs, he felt that many unemployed would welcome the opportunity to proces them themselves, rather than have them destroyed.

The Federal Diary

By Morgan Baker
(Trade-mark Applied For)

(Reprinted from Yesterday's Last Edition.)

WITH more than 125,000 Federal employes receiving less than $1,000 a year, part-time jobs outside of the service are declared necessary by E. Claude Babcock president of the American Federation of Government Employes.

BAKER.

"If it were true that the Government paid acceptable wages, then there might be much more force to the proposition that duplicate employment should not be permitted. However, no one can assert that $1,000 is even a living wage," Mr. Babcock says.

The issue has been brought to a crisis by the plan of Representative Jennings Randolph, of West Virginia, to restrict part-time employment of Federal employes outside the Government.

"Literally hundreds of employes," Mr. Babcock stated in appealing to Mr. Randolph, "are at present forced to follow part-time outside occupations, such as waiting on tables in restaurants and other similar jobs.

"It is strongly urged that you transfer your activities for the time being from the question of dual employment to the question of setting up a respectable minimum standard of wages for the Government."

The West Virginian declares that his only interest is to try to help the largest number of people. He is preparing an amendment which he believes will merit the wholehearted support of the A. F. G. E.

THE many friends of Mrs. Lillian A. Shepley (*), chief of Record Division, Copyright Office, Library of Congress, will congratulate her Friday in celebration of completing 33 years in Government service.

Mrs. Shepley, a native of New York, entered Federal Service in the Copyright Office and worked her way up to the position of chief. She is an active worker in the American Federation of Government Employes Lodge No. 18, at the Library of Congress. Mrs. Shepley is chairman of publicity for the lodge.

David Samirin (*), War, has obtained a patent on a fluid segregator which is regarded as very valuable to American military equipment.

WITH more than 30 years Government service to his credit, William E. Buffington, comptroller, Bureau of Accounts, Postoffice, has just retired. A native of Elizabethville, Pa., Mr. Buffington entered Federal service after working with the Southern Railway several years.

His first Government work was with the War and later the Interior Department. During his long career in Postoffice he was frequently assigned, because of his knowledge of the postal service and unusual ability as an accountant, to committees studying suggestions for improvement of the service.

Mr. Buffington is a graduate of George Washington University Law School and has been admitted to the bar of the District Supreme Court. He is spending his first leisure in years on a tour of the South.

President's Air Mail Letter

"My dear Mr. Chairman:

"Our domestic air-mail contracts have been canceled. The Army Air Corps is temporarily carrying the air mail. I believe we should make new contracts with commercial air carriers as soon as possible to carry the greater part of our air mail.

"To protect the public interest and to provide for new contracts on a basis of honest payment for honest service, I suggest new legislation on this subject.

"We must avoid the evils of the past, and at the same time encourage the sound development of the aviation industry.

Award Up to Three Years.

"I suggest that new air-mail contracts be let for a period not exceeding three years on full, open and fair competitive bidding, with a limitation of the rate of compensation above which no contract will be awarded.

"Any combinations, agreements, or understandings, intended to prevent free competitive bidding should be prevented and such action should be a basis for cancellation of contracts.

"In order that the bidding shall be really competitive, I suggest that in determining the specifications for proper equipment, only speed, useful load capacity and safety factors and safety devices should be considered.

"So that all companies desiring to qualify and bid may have an opportunity fully to prepare themselves for actual services, I suggest that after the contract is awarded a period of not longer than six months shall be allowed the successful bidder to qualify under the terms of the law and the bid.

Should Determine Necessity.

"It is my judgment that six months before expiration of the contracts made under competitive bidding the Interstate Commerce Commission should pass upon the question of public convenience and necessity of air-mail routes, and thereafter fix a maximum rate of air-mail pay on the routes designated, subject of course to equipment specifications to be laid down.

"I suggest that the proposed law prohibit the award of an air-mail contract to any company having connections with subsidiaries, affiliates, associates or holding companies, directly or indirectly, by stock ownership, interlocking directorates, interlocking officers, or otherwise, if said subsidiaries, affiliates, associates or holding companies are engaged, directly or indirectly, in the operation of competitive routes or in the manufacturing of aircraft or other materials or accessories used generally in the aviation industry.

Subletting Frowned Upon.

"No air-mail contract should be sublet or sold to any other contracting company, nor should a mail contractor be allowed to merge or consolidate with another company holding an air-mail contract. Obviously also no contract should be made with any companies, old or new, any of whose officers were party to the obtaining of former contracts under circumstances which were clearly contrary to good faith and public policy.

"Such safeguards should be provided as will prevent the evil practices of excessive salaries, unearned bonuses, and illegitimate personal expense accounts detrimental to the interests of legitimate stockholders and the public.

"Public safety calls for pilots of high character and great skill. The occupation is a hazardous one. Therefore, the law should provide for a method to fix maximum flying hours, minimum pay and a system for retirement or annuity benefits.

Seeks Sound Policy.

"Enactment of legislation along the lines suggested will establish a sound, stable and permanent air-mail policy. The knowledge that the Interstate Commerce Commission, a judicial body, will hereafter regulate air transportation routes and air-mail pay will remove uncertainty as to routes and mail pay.

"Such legislation will relieve air transport companies from paralyzing monopolistic control which has heretofore often influenced them to buy planes and other equipment from associates and affiliates.

"Real competition between the manufacturing companies will stimulate inventive genius, and should give to our people safer and better equipment both for commercial and military purposes."

Hard Liquor for Navy Is Being Considered.

Serving of wine and hard liquor aboard ship and in naval yards and stations is being considered by the Navy Department, Secretary Swanson said yesterday.

Beer has been authorized for sale both at sea and on shore, the Secretary said.

Authority for serving stronger beverages would have to come from the White House, Secretary Swanson declared, and a recommendation on this point is being prepared.

Austria Watching Fey's Next Move

Dollfuss' Visit to Rome Golden Opportunity.

Vienna, March 7 (AP).—Those who wondered a few weeks ago what Austria's Vice Chancellor Emil Fey would do while Chancellor Dollfuss was absent in Budapest wondered today what Fey will do when Dollfuss soon goes to Rome for conferences with Premier Mussolini and Julius Goemboes, premier of Hungary.

During Dollfus' absence in Budapest, where he talked with Goemboes, the vice chancellor started a vigorous anti-Socialist action, that culminated a few days later in a sanguinary civil war.

This time there seems little reason to suspect another campaign against the defeated Socialists, but the status of Catholic storm troops and other smaller patriotic and and army organizations, in a situation outwardly dominated by the Heimwehr, was far from clear.

Identity of Body In Marsh Sought

Coast Guard Discovers Heavily Clad Corpse.

Norfolk, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Coast Guard authorities tonight were endeavoring to identify a man whose body was found today on the edge of a marsh at Cobb Island. The body was overloaded with personal belongings, but there was nothing by which the name of the dead man might be learned.

A letter found on the body was so wet the writing, except two words, had been obliterated. The visible words were "Dear Brother." The body apparently had been in the water for more than a week, but was perfectly preserved.

The man was described as being about 50 years old; 5 feet 2 inches tall; weight about 150 pounds. His complexion was dark and his mustache and hair were dark, streaked with gray.

Culbertsons Give Dinner For De Withs

Senora de Alfaro to Be Luncheon Guest of Mrs. Culbertson.

By Evelyn Peyton Gordon.

The former United States Ambassador to Chile and Mrs. William S. Culbertson entertained at dinner last evening in honor of the Minister of the Netherlands and Mme. Van Haersma de With, when there were 14 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Culbertson have been making their home in Washington since the former's retirement from his last post in Chile.

Although the Culbertsons were not acquainted with the new Minister of the Netherlands and his charming wife, who is considered one of the great beauties of the Dutch foreign service, until the arrival of the de Withs in Washington, they have mutual friends in Europe.

Party for Envoy's Wife.

Mrs. Culbertson will entertain at a large luncheon at the Mayflower on March 17, when Senora de Alfaro, wife of the Minister of Panama, will be the ranking guest, and on March 23, Miss Junia Culbertson and Miss Jane Culbertson will arrive from their studies in Bryn Mawr for the spring vacation, and will give a series of smaller parties for their young friends.

Miss Jane Culbertson was among this season's debutantes, and Miss Junia was presented to society here several years ago. Her father was the United States Ambassador to Chile at the time, and she later made her bow to Chilean society in the embassy in Santiago.

All three of the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Culbertson have handsome "hope chests," gifts from their parents, but instead of being ready for a collection of linens, as are most hope chests, these cases of handsomely carved South American wood, are being filled with silver.

Each girl is now the possessor of service plates, candelabra and several other fine pieces, gifts which their parents have collected for them in several countries of the world.

Mr. Cohen in Paraguay.

Reference to Chile recalls the name of Mr. Benjamin Cohen, Counselor of the Chilean Embassy. Mr. Cohen has been absent from Washington since last November, when he left to act as Chilean delegate to the Pan-American conference in Montevideo.

He had expected to return to the Capital this month, but now word has been received that he is at Ascuncion, Paraguay, where he is Charge d'Affaires of the Chilean Legation in the absence of the Minister.

Mr. Cohen has been in Paraguay for several weeks and will probably remain at that post for another month, when he will return to Santiago to attend a financial conference to be held in April. He will not return to Washington until early in June.

Wadsteds Entertain For Retiring Aid

Danish Counselor Is Also Feted by Shouses.

The Minister of Denmark and Mme. Wadsted will entertain at dinner on Thursday evening, March 15, in honor of the retiring Counselor of the Legation and Mme. de Wichfeld, who expect to leave Washington the end of March for the former's new post in Rome.

Also entertaining in honor of Mr. and Mme. de Wichfeld are Mr. and Mrs. Jouett Shouse, who will give a dinner on Tuesday evening, March 20, in their home in Georgetown.

Mme. de Wichfeld was among those lunching at the Mayflower yesterday with a party of friends including Commander and Mrs. William D. Thomas, Mrs. John A. Hinckley and Mr. Emons Smith.

Mr. Carl W. Brown Dinner Party Host

Missouri Road Official's Guests Attend Dance.

Mr. Carl W. Brown, assistant chief engineer of the State highway commission of Missouri, entertained a party last evening at dinner at the Madrillon, the group remaining later for the supper dance.

His guests included Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Hannah, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Powers, Mrs. Floyd Hanly, Mrs. Grace Williams, Miss Gwen Geach, Miss Constance Roach, Miss Mary Williams, Mr. T. K. Smith, of St. Louis, and Mr. Samuel Rudder, Mr. Claude Stuckey and Mr. John Mather, all of Jefferson City, Mo.

Notes of the Capital's Official and Resident Society

President Roosevelt has as his guests in the Executive Mansion, Mrs. Louis McHenry Howe and her son, Mr. Hartley Howe, who came to the Capital to attend a dinner given Sunday evening in honor of President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Mrs. Howe and her son will remain in Washington with Mr. Howe for several days longer before returning to their home at Fall River, Mass.

Mrs. John Nance Garner, wife of the Vice President, will be the guest of honor at a luncheon to be given today by Mrs. Henry Wilder Keyes, wife of Senator Keyes, and Mrs. Fred H. Browne, wife of the junior Senator from New Hampshire, in the attractive Alexandria home of Mrs. Keyes.

The Ambassador of Poland, Mr. Stanislaw Patek, will entertain at dinner this evening in the Embassy on Sixteenth street.

The Ambassador of Japan and Mme. Saito entertained informally at dinner last evening in the Embassy in honor of the newly appointed Japanese Consul General in New York, Mr. Renzo Sawada, who arrived in the Capital yesterday afternoon, accompanied by the Japanese Commercial Secretary, Mr. Toyoji Inouye. They are stopping at the Carlton Hotel while in Washington. The guests at the dinner numbered 15 and they included the members of the staff and few close friends.

Minister of Greece To Attend Funeral.

The Minister of Greece, Mr. Charafambos Simopoulos, left Washington yesterday for Chicago to attend the funeral of the late Consul General of Greece, Mr. P. Paraskevopoulos. The Minister will return to the Capital tomorrow.

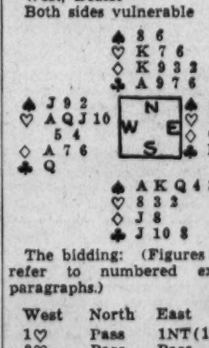
Match Point Bidding.

When a Duplicate tournament is scored on a Match Point basis, the expert players naturally do not bid exactly as they would in a Rubber game. They fight harder to protect part-scores, and accordingly overbid slightly in so doing. Furthermore, the possession of 100 honors is of far more importance to the holder than it is in Rubber Bridge, where 100 points can be disregarded when a possible loss of 300 or more is involved.

On today's hand, North and South scored a 900-point penalty against an expert combination playing East and West, purely and simply because the West player tried to prevent the opponents' making a part-score, and, at the same time, make one of his own with 100 honors accompanying it. Frankly, I do not think that West should be severely criticized.

West, Dealer
Both sides vulnerable



The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

West	North	East	South
1♡	Pass	1NT(1)	Pass
2♡	Pass	Pass	2♠(2)
3♡(3)	Dbl.(4)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1—East's only possible response outside of a pass.

2—This would be a distinctly bad bid when vulnerable in money Bridge, but with Match Point scoring, South quite correctly decides that an effort to push the opponents up a trick is in order.

3—An overbid, but excusable in Match Point play. On his partner's one-notrump bid West assumes that there is some sort of fit for the heart suit and that he will not go down more than one or two tricks, which, with his honor score, will not be a greater loss than he will sustain if he permits the opponents to make two spades with a part-score bonus. West naturally hopes not to be doubled.

4—North has what looks to him like three certain tricks, and the vulnerable bid at the level of two by his partner is additional encouragement. He also correctly surmises that the West player is overbidding slightly.

In the play of the hand North opened his top spade, and on the third round of the suit he signalled with his diamond 9. North knew that his King of hearts was a sure trick anyway and therefore did not wish to use it to over-ruff Dummy on a fourth round of spades, giving the Declarer at the same time a discard. At trick 4, South shifted to his diamond 8, which Declarer was forced to pass. North won with the King and returned a diamond, which Declarer won with the Queen in Dummy.

North subsequently made his Ace of clubs and King of hearts and was, in addition, able to give South a ruff on the third round of diamonds, as the latter's three trumps could not be drawn out without letting North in. Thus the unfortunate West player was set three tricks doubled and vulnerable (900 points) less 100 honors, for a cold bottom.

Tomorrow's Hand.

South, Dealer
North and South vulnerable

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

New Garments Teach Children Self-Dressing

Store Offers Togs to Be Put Off and On With No Adult Help.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

If a father and mother were to mount a mile-high pinnacle and take an all-seeing view of the world beneath today, the man might exclaim over examples of scientific endeavor, streamlined engines, air liners, glass towers; but the woman most probably would focus her eyes on a new line of goods appearing on the market, a line of goods which marks a real advancement in material aids to child culture. This line is composed of garments designed especially for children, even tiny tots, to put on and take off without assistance from their elders.

For years papers, magazines, and books have been crowded with child psychology theories helpful to anxious parents. Now here at last is something practical. Both theories and hard common sense tell us that children should be taught independence and self-reliance as early as possible.

Story books, and A B C lectures might possibly instill the germ of an idea, but nothing will take so with their childish minds as example. These small garments, wonderfully simplified, offer a splendid means of teaching. They are made without hooks or buttons, closed with side fasteners which even the smartest little fingers can maneuver.

In nine out of ten cases, children simply adore being "grown-up" and showing some independence. This lesson in dressing appears one of the best to foster such tendencies.

Call and we'll tell you the name of the store carrying this line of goods. You'll find beautifully styled suits and dresses at $1.95, sleepers for $1.45 and $1.65, and play suits for $1.50 and $1.75.

Concerning the Hair.

Necessity, invention's mother, has in this age an amazing progeny. Barely does the thought occur to us that such an such a thing would be nice to have, than it appears in the shops.

There was a time when a woman rushed home from work, dressed hurriedly for the evening, perhaps deploring the fact that her hair was coarse and oily, and lamenting she had no time for a shampoo. Or if she did have the leisure she realized that the washing removed all traces of wave.

There's a different story now. In a medium-sized bottle comes a colorless fluid, enough for 25 applications. A bit of this on a piece of cotton, rubbed on to the scalp, combed through the hair, is the equivalent of a shampoo.

It removes dust, dirt and oil, and leaves the hair fluffy, and glossy. And—it does not disturb the wave!

For Men Only.

Although men are not given to make-up and cosmetics there are many of them, no doubt, who wish they could pay a little more attention to their skin without losing their masculine prestige. Because custom forbids a man to carry a compact, or use a flattering powder base, the large pores on his nose often detract from his appearance.

He will find that by using a certain cleanser every night before retiring and first thing in the morning he will after a short time find that these blemishes have been noticeably minimized

Now would be an ideal time to buy the cleanser, for it's on sale in a local store for an amazingly low price. Together with a box of powder and a dry skin cream, it sells for 79 cents.

The thoughtful wife might see in this an excellent opportunity for securing powder and cream for herself, and cleanser for her husband. However, the cleanser can be used mutually as it's equally good for any skin.

Cocktail Gadgets.

There are so many attractive cocktail accessories in the shops now that it's difficult to reach any decision concerning them.

However, the John Held, jr. cocktail towels, recent arrivals in an F street shop, are among the most intriguing.

On the Revivifying of Eyes.

Em. D. asks what to do about puffiness under the eyes. Dampen cotton pads with witch hazel and place them over the closed eyes for five or ten minutes. Then rub with ice. There are some especially prepared eye pads for tired eyes on the market. These might help you.

For eye strain a salt water or boracic acid wash is very good, but this does not relieve the puffiness.

Be careful when you are reading or sewing to have proper lighting facilities. Try and get a good eight hours' sleep, and see if the trouble does not go away. If it remains, you should see a physician.

Suits Swagger Through Spring Days

Several Costumes Evolved From Four-Piece Outfits.

By Amos Parrish.

New York, March 7.—Women have brushed up on arithmetic these last few seasons since the three-piece swagger suit came in, with such results that this fashion has risen to the honor of being just about the most fashionable spring suit.

For what woman wouldn't be thrilled to put one and one together and find, not two, but three or four . . . when the three and four are costumes. And that's exactly what you have when you add a three-piece swagger suit to your wardrobe.

One costume as is . . . full-length or three-quarter-length swagger topcoat over a two-piece tailored suit. (The sketch shows the full-length coat.) Another costume in the suit alone. A third in the topcoat worn with the suit skirt. A fourth when the topcoat is used over dresses.

There's even a fifth idea if you want to buy a second skirt, which should be a check or plaid featuring the color of the suit. Then you wear the suit jacket with either skirt.

New Color Ideas.

There are new things about this popular combination this spring. One is in color. Last year all three pieces had to be the same color. This year often the topcoat is one color and the suit another . . . such as a blue topcoat and red or rose suit. And then there's usually a scarf going along, too, combining both the colors.

Another new thought is to have the suit jacket unlined. (The topcoat would be lined.) This keeps the outfit from being too warm in spring when all three pieces are worn, and makes it possible to wear the suit alone further into the warm weather.

Also it makes the suit fit better under your winter coat, as you may want to wear it before real suit weather arrives.

Tweed Good Choice.

Tweeds . . . more than ever in fashion this spring . . . are particularly appropriate for this type suit. And those new soft-surfaced Bermuda or Monroe tweeds are favorites.

Rabbits' haircloths are fine in-between fabrics . . . neither too dressy nor too sportsy, but a little of each.

Harris tweeds, harder-surfaced and with little hairs poking out of them, are another excellent fabric for this suit in one color or two and three color combinations.

But almost any semisports or sports fabric is suitable, since this suit is one of those practical half-way-between types which go to sports events just as smartly as they trot the streets of town.

Swagger suits of the types described are available in Washington in all the better shops and department stores.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Nervous People and Drugs.

The specialists in insanity are beginning to write about the harmful effects on the mind of bromides and the related synthetic sleep-producing remedies, the barbiturates. The increasing use of a method for testing the blood for the amount of bromides it contains is adding to the information on the subject.

A study of the use of drugs has shown that the people do more prescribing than the physician. Of every 100 pounds of drugs sold for human use far less than 50 pounds is prescribed by physicians. Far more than that is bought by the people themselves and taken on their own responsibility.

There is no way of knowing, but there is strong reason for suspecting that the so-called drugless healing cults now use more drugs than are used by people who take medicines their physicians prescribe.

Physicians see cases of mental disturbance for which bromide is being taken and sometimes suspect that the drug is causing part if not most of the symptoms. Until the bromide blood test came into use they could not go much farther than suspect. Now a laboratory can throw positive light on the case.

Dr. M. Levin reported to a meeting of medical attendants at insane hospitals a number of cases of delirium caused by taking bromides. One of the cases had hallucinations as well as delirium. For the time these people were mentally incompetent.

Among the symptoms of semi-insanity due to barbiturates and bromides are radical changes in personaltiy, muscle incoordination, tendency to fall, poor control over bladder and bowels, and interference with special senses such as smell (complaining of nonexistent odors), sight (seeing animals, seeing colors that are not present and numbers of things not in evidence), hearing (hearing imaginary sounds). Some cases are paranoid as well as have delirium and hallucinations.

If a laboratory blood test can not be made, one way of proving or disproving the suspicion is to withdraw all bromides and barbiturates. In about six weeks after withdrawal the delirium and hallucinations (seeing and hearing things) caused by the drugs will have disappeared. About that length of time is required to get the drug out of the nerve cells and to get them back on keel. It was suspected for a while that the withdrawal of bromides from a person who has been accustomed to them causes cell hunger or withdrawal symptoms, as is the case with opium and alcohol addiction. This opinion is not accepted now.

In the discussion of Dr. Levin's communication every physician participating except one had had experiences similar to those of Dr. Levin.

Capital Kitchen

By Susan Mills.

Among the other things the housewife may have given up for Lent is the attempt to find new meatless dishes. Considering that there is almost another month to go, a few suggestions may be welcome now.

Advertisements tell us that macaroni and noodles are excellent Lenten dishes, but for many persons these foods lack interest when served plainly. However, this delightful recipe comes from the Congressional Cook Book to save the day. It is from the kitchen of Mrs. John H Burke, wife of Congressman Burke, of California, and it is defined as being "very dainty and delicious."

Macaroni Mousse.

1 cup cooked macaroni, cut small
1 cup American cheese, cut small
1 cup soft bread crumbs
¼ cup melted butter
1 cup scalded milk
1 chopped pimento
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
1 teaspoon chopped onion
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash cayenne
3 eggs

Scald milk; add bread crumbs and other ingredients, adding well-beaten eggs last. Pour into well-greased pan; bake in moderate oven 45 minutes; serve with cream sauce to which has been added chopped parsley, pimiento, hard-boiled eggs and mushrooms.

Again the Congressional ladies come to the rescue with interesting dishes. One for baked mushrooms is from Mrs. Henry Riggs Rathbone, wife of former Congressman Rathbone, of Illinois.

Baked Mushrooms.

Wash and clean 12 large mushrooms, remove stems and peel caps. Place in buttered pan, cap side up; sprinkle with salt and pepper, dot over with butter, and add 2-3 cup cream. Bake in hot oven 10 minutes; arrange on dry toast, add sauce in which mushrooms have been cooked. Serve hot.

The next recipe deserves a word of explanation. It is an old European convent recipe—a fasting dish. Because of the rigorous limitations of the ingredients that could be used during the fasting season, the monks had to prepare something excellent from the permitted things. This they managed to do—there is a certain perfection in simplicity.

Fish Pie.

Remove the skin and bone from a 2-pound fish and cut it into nice pieces. Season with salt and pepper and the juice of a lemon and let stand from 1 to 2 hours. Then stew in butter till half done. Take those parts of fish unfit to make nice pieces and mix well with a piece of bread previously soaked in milk and squezed out, a small stewed onion, the yolks of hard-boiled eggs minced, nutmeg and some anchovy paste. Butter a pie dish and spread the mixture 1 inch thick. On this place the pieces of fish and pour the remainder of the mixture over them, cover with a pastry made of flour and butter and brushed over with an egg. Bake in oven about an hour and serve.

Like Music.

By Katherine Smith.

Like music singing in my mind
When tunes are still, a breath-soft word
Of yours has failed to reach my lips—
Forever sounding, never heard.

Like music, half forgotten lines
Have tried to find escape; they cling
To consciousness, and now the words
That once were soundless, ever sing.

If March 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:25 to 8:25 a. m., from 3:30 to 4:30 p. m. and from 5:30 to 6:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m., from 1 to 2 p. m. and from 7 to 8 p. m.

If March 8 is your birthday, do not let the fear of possibly lacking money make you miserable. Our actual daily needs are always met, so be grateful for your daily supply. Your future wants will be taken care of when they arise. Profligacy in spending always brings want, but being penurious is almost as bad and usually results in unhappiness. It is a wise man and woman who understand the art of spending discreetly and saving judiciously.

The child born on March 8, as it becomes old enough to understand, must be taught the actual meaning of the word moderation. Children born on this date will show a tendency to overdo everything, but this fault can easily be corrected. Make a child learn that there is a time to play and a time to work, as well as a time to relax, and you will be surprised to discover how regular it will become in its habits.

The woman born on March 8 must never allow herself to become a puppet, her actions being motivated by the strings held in some one's firmer hands. Be self-assertive and indepedent. Think only in kindly terms of your associates. Bitter thoughts only are so much poison to your system. If we allow hatred or its twin jealousy, to taint our meditations, we suffer for it physically. A happy mind is conducive to good health.

The man born on March 8 will be happier if he does not make a god out of money. Learn that there is much more in life than the acquiring of "filthy lucre." Avoid being small or "picayunish" in business. If you expect to receive, do not be afraid to give. It is also a good rule to remove the mote from your own eye before trying to do so from the other fellow's. Be charitable, not only in the bestowing of gifts, but in your thoughts. We should remember we all have our faults, so it is only right that allowances should be made for our fellow beings' weakness. The real proof of a man's bigness is his ability to forgive a wrong done, and forget the incident.

People born on March 8 are very economical, as a rule, and make excellent managers. They possibly may find it advisable to realize that there is such a thing as "false economy," and should guard against being "penny wise and pound foolish." In buying, one should carefully consider quality first. Price should receive the final consideration.

Alvin Clark, optician.
Christopher P. Cranch, artist and poet.
Edwin P. Whipple, critic and essayist.
Oliver Wendell Holmes, justice of the U. S. Supreme Court.
Homer C. Davenport, cartoonist.

Al Smith Asks For State Rule On Child Labor

Pending Amendment Gives Government Too Much Control, He Says.

New York, March 7 (U.P.).—Alfred E. Smith today offered a substitute for the proposed child labor amendment, believing the latter is patterned too closely in principle to the eighteenth amendment.

"The transportation or importation into any State, Territory, or possession of the United States for delivery or use therein of articles manufactured by the labor of persons under 16 years of age, in violation of the laws thereof, is hereby prohibited."

"The purpose of the new amendment will be to leave the question of child labor to the States, just as the question of prohibition is now left to each state by the twenty-first amendment, but to prevent any State from sending into another State the products of child labor, just as the twenty-first amendment protects dry States from importations from wet ones," Smith said.

"I have also suggested reducing the age mentioned in the pending amendment from 18 to 16, because I consider the 18-year provision unreasonable and unworkable.

"If there is anything in history and experience, let us adopt a child labor amendment, if we must have one at all, patterned after the twenty-first, rather than the eighteenth amendment. Otherwise we shall be in for another long and bitter repeal campaign.

"The pending child labor amendment gives the Federal Government complete control over the lives and daily habits of every person in this country below the age of 18.

Beggars All

By Katharine Newlin Burt

The Story Thus Far.

Rafe Courvoisier, last heir of an impoverished Southern family, is released from a secret outlaw rendezvous by Madrone, on his promise to obey Madrone's orders. He becomes a boatman at Candle Island, his old home, now owned by Hortense Kendall. She is vaguely in love with him, but he gives her no encouragement, because he considers himself Madrone's slave. With the encouragement of Harmon Jay, her guardian, who is in Madrone's power, she becomes engaged to Randal Crewe. Rafe finds that all of Hortense's servants are also in the power of the outlaw. Madrone has enemies on the island—Strego, a rival, and Torkwist, leader of a mutiny against the gang chieftain. Madrone visits Rafe.

Rafe saw then that she loved him. He shut his eyes, threw back his head, and laughed. It was for him the laughter of the damned. What it was to her he could imagine, for she sprang away from him as though he had struck her face, beat the table with her hands, sat down, and putting her head beside the book that lay there, wept.

He stopped his laughter, stood beside her, touched her head. He was shaking.

"Don't," he whispered. "Don't—please!"

"I won't. It's foolish to cry. You made me cry before and I told myself I'd never let anyone do that to me again. I know you are hard and cold. They say the Courvoisier men are always cruel; that your father was so cruel your mother died of fright. I will marry Randal Crewe. He's gentle. He wouldn't hurt anyone. And then——". At that instant she saw the book on the table top beside her, and lifted from it a changed and startled face. "Where did you get that?".

"Monte Cristo? It was always a favorite of mine."

"But this copy—this little old shabby volume. It once belonged to my mother. It was stolen from me when I was a child by a tramp who frightened me. One day I was reading in a garden under a wall in Italy. The man came in through a break in the wall." Her eyes were distended. "Rafe, where did it come from?"

He shrugged. "I found it here."

Tries to Bar Way.

"You're lying!" She stood up, angry and excited. "Someone has been here. Someone is here now—in your room. I'm going in there to see."

He stood before her. "You are not. You're going back to your own house."

She was gripping his arms. "This house is mine. This whole island is mine. I put you down here to keep trespassers and tramps away. Oh, what a fool I was to let you come here! What do I know about you? You've been everywhere, You've done everything that's horrible. I was crazy to trust you. You must go away from the island. Tonight. You have a partner in there. Rafe! There's a gun in your pocket. I feel it. A gun."

Abruptly she was very pale. She stood away slowly and looked at him. "Let me go," she whispered.

He went beside her to the door, feeling in every nerve her horror of him and her courage that controlled the horror. So she went out, not hurrying, until she had gained a few steps beyond the porch when she began to run. She reached the bend and, still running, not daring to look back, she disappeared.

Rafe moved into his haunted house and sat down, limp and still. After an instant he took out the gun and turned it over and over slowly. When Madrone came in, he looked up. His face was rigid, his eyes cold and stern.

Madrone's Face Twitches.

"No, no, no," said Madrone, "you will not shoot me."

He looked down at Rafe and his eyes had the excited and enlarged pupils of a child that wants to cry. His face was deeply flushed and his mouth trembled. Rafe met the changed, warm eyes and they told him something. The gun slid from his fingers. Madrone laughed and picked it up. "It isn't loaded, as I suppose you've seen or guessed for yourself. And I have another in here,"—he slapped his pocket—"that is loaded."

Rafe was looking up at him as though he did not understand a word. In fact, he had not been listening. He had not guessed that the gun was not loaded. He had dropped it because he was afraid to think he might have shot Madrone. He had found himself suddenly in the open heart of a labyrinth and the Minotaur secret of Candle Island was his own.

"Torkwist," he said presently, "is out there waiting to get you. If he's not here by your orders, he's here against them, and that means he will want to get you. That's why he rescued me from Strego and brought me back here. Bait. It's important for you, and for me, too, to get away from this end of the island. I'll tell you how. Torkwist won't shoot me, alone. He wants to get you. I think he's hiding in that swamp. There's a canoe out there. I'll go out and bring it round the end. I'll whistle to you. You leave by the back door quietly, duck under the brush there. We ought to be able to get out of range before anyone can see us. I can get in pretty far—far enough for you to wade out to meet me safely. Can you swim?"

"When we're out of this," Rafe went on, "I want to talk to you. You've got the drop on me, but I think I know part of your game now. Give me your orders. I'll tell you whether I'm willing to carry them out or would prefer being shot. You believe like Edmond Dantes, don't you, that the good will be rewarded and the wicked punished? You like to play God. Very well . . ."

Madrone was white as chalk. The red-haired young sailor laughed at him and went past him to the door.

"I'll have your boat ready for you, Monte Cristo. You be ready for it if you value rewards and punishments."

Chapter XXI.

Taking up the paddle, Rafe strolled out of his front door and went on to the canoe left by Hortense. He made his way round the end of the island and then shot swiftly into the shelter of the heavy swamp growth. He thrust in as far as the dense bushes permitted and whistled softly the call of a water bird. He heard Madrone splashing about and in a few moments he slithered into the canoe.

"Per Bacco! I'm afraid of snakes!" Madrone's face was pale.

THE EMBRYO is the small "seed" or "germ" that you see protruding from the end of every peanut. This "germ" possesses a noticeably bitter taste and its removal is necessary in order to produce the distinctive, sweet, meaty flavor for which Sanico Peanut Butter is so famous.

Women Face Zero Hour Today In Fight for Bar Admission

Men Lawyers Count Votes Today on Proposal to Extend Library Privileges and District Association Membership to Feminine Colleagues.

By Frances Mangum.

A war, a bloodless 25 years' war, a war waged behind closed doors with polite words and courteous notes, may end today—if the women win.

But if the ballot which the members of the District Bar Association are holding to determine whether women may be admitted as members is mainly "Nay," then the war continues—until the women win.

For almost a quarter of a century women attorneys have been applying for membership to the District Bar Association. For just as long they have been refused admittance.

"A perfectly ridiculous state of affairs!" Mrs. Grace Hayes Riley, dean of the Washington College of Law, said yesterday. "The men in the association who have opposed women members simply have an inherent antagonism against women in professional circles. These men generally have had no contact with women lawyers and simply base their opinions of them on senseless prejudice.

Library Privilege Asked.

"Besides," Mrs. Riley continued, "women haven't the slightest desire to 'crash' a men's organization. It isn't that at all! The facts of the case are these: The District Bar Association maintains a splendid library in the courthouse which women are not allowed to use. Naturally a great many women attorneys would like very much to have access to these books."

Mrs. Riley further stated that a short time ago a woman lawyer went there on Sunday when the Congressional Library was closed to do some urgent research work. Right in the midst of it she was asked to leave, told that it was against the rules of the library to admit women.

Dr. Ellen Spencer Mussey, who was influential in first getting women admitted to the District bar, took the other side of the question.

"I don't see why the women want to get in anyway," she said. "We have an association of our own and I don't think we'd want the men to belong to that!"

Miss Pearl McCall, former assistant United States attorney, is emphatic in her belief that women should be admitted.

Grievance Vote Sought.

"Because," she said, "I think women attorneys should be represented on the bar association court of grievances. Although no woman here in the District has ever been cited before the court, nor disbarred, if there was ever such a case, certainly she should be directly represented."

She expressed great confidence in the outcome of the vote.

"I believe this is the first time that the members of the District Bar Association have held such a ballot, and I have reason to believe that they will express themselves generously," she said.

"I have talked to a great many of the members and they have always told me they thought it was a shame that women should not have access to the association library. It's one of the finest in the country and naturally we'd all appreciate the use of it."

Judge Mary O'Toole of the Municipal Court said she certainly thought the men should vote for the admittance of women.

Meanwhile, the Vote.

"Why, it's simply too small for words, this prejudice of theirs which has kept women out for so long," she declared.

"The funny part is," she said, "most of them are good scouts. You'd never think they'd act like this.

"Bar associations in other cities have not hesitated to admit women members nor have they suffered from it in the slightest degree. It's positively 'mossbacky,' this keeping women out. As for this ballot, I hope for the best, but I won't commit myself!"

Frederick Stohlman, member of the District Bar Association, and secretary of the ballot committee, has several boxes of ballots which are to be opened and counted late this afternoon.

In the meantime, women lawyers all over the District await the armistice—or the renewal of war.

First Woman Federal Judge Voices Thanks

Florence Allen, Appointed by Roosevelt, Urges Feminist Cause.

Columbus, Ohio., March 7 (U.P.).—Judge Florence E. Allen, the first woman ever to be named to a United States Circuit Court of Appeals bench, today said she was "tremendously gratified" with her latest triumph.

Miss Allen was recommended by President Roosevelt yesterday for appointment to the Sixth District United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati. The recommendation was sent to the Senate for confirmation.

In appearance she is a tall and commanding figure. Her features are forceful and striking. She offers no quarter and asks none. She believes women deserve a place with men in professional and business positions and offers her own career as an example of how women may achieve such positions.

Bobbed-haired, pleasant and keen, Miss Allen has been an ascending luminary in Ohio legal circles for more than a decade. In her record as a member of the Ohio bar, she holds the distinction of being the first woman in the State to hold a position as assistant county prosecutor, the first to be elected common pleas judge, the first to preside at a first degree murder trial, and the first woman in the Nation to be elected to a State supreme court.

Miss Allen was elected to the Ohio Supreme Court in 1922. Of the seven members on the court, only two have served longer terms than she.

As a hobby, Miss Allen indulges in music. Before she entered law she was music editor and correspondent for several publications.

Cotton Returns To Popularity

Seersuckers Rank First in Crinckled Frock Materials.

Crinkled cotton will be used for smart daytime frocks this spring and summer, with seersuckers the happiest version of these fabrics.

Not so long ago the word seersucker meant a dull, uninteresting material in narrow gray and white stripes. It was used chiefly for rompers, aprons and nurses' uniforms. But the new seersucker is a different thing; made in a wealth of striking patterns, colors and weights.

Gay plaids, brilliant stripes, bold geometric figures and plain, clear colors are set forth by the popular crinkled cotton this year. Seersucker adapts itself well to trim, tailored lines and launders beautifully. Best of all, it needs very little pressing, because of its rough surface.

Crinkled voiles that do not crease will be used for informal afternoon frocks. These soft, sheer fabrics are made in conventional designs, floral patterns, plaids and checks. Plaids will undoubtedly be the favorites of the mode, according to stylists.

Bright colors are used as well as pastels. The light-colored voiles are often covered with field flower patterns or more sophisticated floral design.

Greens, especially in dark, jungle tones, are being used by many of the outstanding designers for summer frocks. Yellowish shades of green are also important.

For a woman, bicycle riding possesses advantages which are shared by no other form of exercise. Its influence upon both body and mind are beneficial. The exhilarating effect produced upon a rider's mind by the swift and easy movement, the rapid presentation of changing scenery, at once interest the brain and distract its attention from cares and worrying thoughts; and it is this influence which has made all riders so

Love on a bicycle made its debut in the best sellers of the 90's. Upper left, the new woman, who, though she scandalized the Mrs. Grundy of her day, was the heroine of many a fervid romance. Upper right, a Sunday afternoon courtship on a bicycle built for two. Below, the benefits and dangers of bicycle riding for women are discussed in a popular treatise of the day. Brainiest Girls Wed Youngest, Study Shows

This fact has been proved by a study of 905 school girls here, extending over a period of ten years, and conducted by Prof. Edward L. Thorndike, of Columbia University, for the Commonwealth Fund.

Higher averages of intelligence were possessed by girls who married before the age of 20 than those who married later, Prof. Thorndike discovered.

For his investigation he chose girls in Grade 8B of the city schools in 1922. Records were completed for 706 out of the original 905, that number having lived to the age of 22 or more.

The survey revealed that 108 of the 706 worked only in the home after leaving school. Eighty-six of that number married while the remaining 22 stayed single.

Those 22, according to mental tests made by Prof. Thorndike in 1922, were intellectually inferior to the 86 that married.

On the other hand, the 254 girls who went to work after leaving school and who married before they were 22 years old had a lower average mental rating than those who worked but did not marry. Among the 254 who married, 85 continued working and these were found to be superior to those who spent their time at home after marriage.

Post Parade

By Mildred Reed Bundy.

"Hands clean, Billy?"

Billy had hoped teacher wouldn't notice. He had kept his hands in his pockets when he entered the lunch room.

"They won't do. Run back and wash them and then come back for your lunch," relentless teacher said when she saw the begrimed hands.

Billy and about 60 other children with hands just as clean as his were having their noon meal together at a grade school in northeast Washington. Outsiders looking in might have thought a special event was in progress, but it was only the lunch regularly provided for underprivileged children. The room looked almost partified with a green tray for each child neatly arranged with paper napkins, sandwiches, an orange, a bottle of milk and a bowl of soup. The gay chatter of the children, their general good behavior and the entirely cheerful atmosphere of the place made it hard to believe that in the background of most of the boys and girls the big, bad wolf of hunger had been stalking most of the winter.

The beautiful sandwich lady in the big kitchen supplying the special free noonday food for District school children is a marvel of efficiency. Mothers who have lunches to prepare for their own youngsters to take to school should consider their own task a mere trifle when they know that the sandwich lady is responsible for the preparing of 6,000 sandwiches before 9 o'clock each school morning. Even counting her 17 helpers, the sandwich lady's championship is undisputed.

"See our kitchen kettles," said Mrs. Katherine McFarland Ansley, head of the District school lunch project as she pointed pridefully to a pile of aluminumware in a corner of the headquarters kitchen on Wisconsin avenue. Rather than what is usually thought of as "kettles" to the average housewife—with a capacity measured in quarts—were gigantic utensils that will hold 30 gallons each. Then Mrs. Ansley exhibited with equal pride the large, seamless alunimum milk cans that are to be kept in sanitary condition with a special sterilizer in the big kitchen.

For one so young, "Charley" Farrington, namesake son of Charles J. Farrington, of West Virginia, clerk to the Commission on Mines, has a large acquaintance on Capitol Hill. Young Charlie is only 4½ years old, but knows by sight and calls by name—often by first name—many of the legislators—and legisladies. The small Farrington has the extraordinary weight for his age of 53 pounds and a height of 40 inches. A beloved, much-worn Teddy bear goes every day with the little West Virginian to his father's room in the House Office Building. The Teddy bear never is taken to the Capitol, though, as the Farrington's think the toy animal has an origin and sentiment too strongly Republican to make him popular.

"Our town of Welch, W. Va., is so small that it has been called just a crevice in the mountain," said Farrington, senior.

It is said about Washington—with as much admiration as fun-poking—that many of the state papers and public addresses of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace might serve as well as Bibles in hotel rooms. Probably no Cabinet member of recent times has had a familiarity with the Bible equal to that of Secretary Wallace, or has been so adept in using allusions to its texts apropos to some discussion of current economics.

"Whether the Bible baiters of the Mencken school, who are in some numbers among New Dealers, like it or not, Secretary Wallace probably will continue to call upon the prophets and wisdom of the Scriptures to interpret the philosophy of the agricultural program," a Washington correspondent for the St. Paul Pioneer-Press wrote for his home paper's column of Washington comment.

Views Clash on Women's Bar Status

Gillilan to Speak Before Pen Women

Strickland W. Gillilan, poet, humorist, radio star and author, and Dr. Lucius C. Other speakers will be Mrs. Laura Vitray, feature editor of The Washington Post, and Miss Maybelle Jennings, Washington columnist. Mme. Patricia Bennett Dimitriu, author and wife of the financial counselor of the Rumanian Legation, will be the mistress of ceremonies.

Athletic-Type Girl Remodeled Villain's Smirk, Hero's Love

Damsels Continued to Faint in Novels, But Character-Assassin Problem Plots Ushered in Heroines Who Could Flirt and Still Stand Up.

What was the secret of their appeal—those heroes and heroines who have made housewives of all eras go dreamy over the breakfast dishes?

Their lives and personalities, as well as their technique in courtship, are revealed in the collection of paper-backed novels recently catalogued in the rare book room of the Library of Congress.

By Hope Ridings Miller.

The bicycle changed the entire course of true love in the best sellers. On it, the New Woman of the 90's rode into the literary limelight.

This mysterious female was talked about (and preached against) long before anybody could point to a living specimen. She was alleged to have masculine ideas, and she was a serious threat to the sanctity of the home—with her bicycle, her bloomer outfits, and her "indecent" bathing suit (almost up to her stockinged knees). She was dangerous. And she was bold. And she had the audacity to speak of her "rights;" to imply that her intellect had possibilities.

Fiction writers foresaw a change in feminine reading taste long before other people would admit that the New Woman had come to stay. Accordingly, they put their old formulas away in moth balls and made up new ones.

The 1890 Model Villain.

How then did the New Woman affect romance? What kind of men—if any—made love to her?

Despite her freedom of ideas the advanced woman of the 90's was above reproach in her love affairs. Though often misunderstood, she remained uncompromised. Like her sisters of the 80's she was saintly—though in an earnest, athletic fashion.

Her romance was further complicated by the villain's return to the picture. He came back with nefarious schemes that put his predecessors in the shade. Where the rascal of by-gone decades had merely wanted to destroy the fair heroine, the scoundrel of the 90's set out to tarnish her good name. And he wove his web so cunningly that many an innocent heroine found herself falsely accused.

The favorite device was to have the girl faint in the arms of the villain just as her lover appeared on the scene. Naturally, he thought the worst" and retired in sorrow (as the villain chuckled), his faith in the girl shattered beyond recognition.

Sin Poaches on Melodrama.

But although the 90's was the great era of the misunderstood woman, the heroine's real worth was always revealed at the end of the book. Every story that dealt with a poisonous villain and a pestiferous saint had a conclusion wherein the former would be punished and the latter duly rewarded.

As the naughty 90's were on, the coquette pushed into the foreground. She was a more attractive person than her cold-blooded forerunner of the 80's. Her boldness and deceit had merged into mere playfulness, and she was dangerous only in a pleasant sort of way. But every flicker of her eyelash, every wave of her handkerchief gave the wrong impression. And while her lover adored what he termed her "light-hearted gaiety," he privately suspected her of not being "what she should be."

"Path of Glory," which for a time was the rage among housewives of the 90's, had such a theme. It definitely introduced SIN into fiction, but it also emphasized that "the wages of sin is death."

The hero was a starry-eyed young preacher who was attracted to a young woman who was "not as careful as she should be." Catching sight of her ankle as she lifted her skirts to cross a mud puddle, he straightway was plunged into a conflict with his lower nature. And when he saw her in her fashionable bloomer costume, it was too much for him. In the ensuing battle between his sex and his faith, sex conquered.

Cruel, Cruel Folly!

At first the young preacher was submerged in shame. But "lifting his head in exchange for forgiveness, he dedicated his future to right living." But although he behaved sublimely from that time on, he had sinned, and, according to fictional standards of the nineties, had to suffer. Eventually he died in disaster, leaving the heritage of many kindly deeds.

In the meantime the coquette, who had caused all the trouble, also paid the penalty of wrong doing. But as she expired "t'was felt by those who watched at her bedside that she, too, had found forgiveness and would find the way to the Path of Glory."

This novel, however, popular as it was, was the exception in depths of daring. Lovely women who stooped to folly received no sympathy from novelists of the Mauve Decade. Most erring women appeared only in magazines of questionable standing, which enjoyed a wide (if somewhat secret) circulation.

Debut of Problem Novel.

Naturally the New Woman was bound sooner or later to fall in love with the Wrong Man. Thus the problem novel made its debut. This novel was usually built around two persons of excellent character who fell in love, but could not marry because of some great obstacle. This situation created a dilemma with unchastity on one side and the frustration of a grand passion on the other, with a grand passion conceived of as an experience that befell a girl but once.

By the turn of the century the erring woman had ceased being a moral menace and had become a victim. And the man, however plausible in manner, was presented as a profligate and a villian, who lived only long enough to suffer for his crime. The girl either died, crowned with a halo of repentance, or lived to bend her endeavors toward helping those more unfortunate than she.

In short, the New Woman, with all her advanced ideas, was as sentimental about virtue as her grandmother had been. A heroine had to be good or suffer the consequences. She might be flirtatious, mischievous and indiscreet—in a lady-like sort of way—but she couldn't be unchase and live happily ever after.

If the New Woman, then, could have looked 20 years ahead and read some of the "flaming youth" books, or even some of the pulp fiction of our own day, there is little doubt that she would have mounted her bicycle and pedaled back into the past.

Wild West Heroes Approved By Better Films Advocates

Better for Children Than Sex Movies, Declare Chevy Chase Mothers Who Are Working With Theater Managers to Provide Programs for Juveniles.

Out of the running are movies that put bad ideas into young America's head. For parents and theater managers have united in an effort to provide better films for children, and are getting results.

Mrs. Charles D. Curtiss, president of the Bethesda-Chevy Chase Better Films Council, yesterday told of the valuable work of that organization in obtaining better films for the community movie houses.

"Virtually every child in this community goes to the movies either Friday of Saturday each week," she said. "So we felt that something should be done to see that the pictures shown at that time were suitable. We conferred with the theater managers who agreed to obtain the best films available for children on Fridays and Saturdays.

"More than 20 community organizations are represented on our committee. The theater managers have cooperated whole-heartedly.

Disagreement Hinders.

Mrs. Curtiss says that one of the greatest difficulties the committee encounters is the difference in opinion as to what is suitable.

"Then, too, we have a very limited number of films to chose from," she said. "In 1932 only one child's picture was made. The best we can do, as a general thing is to fall back on the Westerns, which are, at least, innocuous.

"The past year, however, has given many excellent films for children. And we hope that the success of 'Alice in Wonderland,' 'The Three Little Pigs,' and 'Little Women' will show producers there is a demand for wholesome, entertaining pictures, and that they will make more of them."

All kinds of sex pictures and films depicting gangsters and crooks as heroes are firmly opposed by the committee, Mrs. Curtiss said.

"We feel that the amount of harm done by showing these pictures to impressionable children is immense," she said. "And it is gratifying to note that with the notable exception of the Mae West productions, the sex dramas of the last year have not been successful, and that fewer gangster pictures are being made."

Serials Here to Stay.

Mrs. Curtiss said that members of the committee not only have to choose pictures that will not harm the child, but those that will entertain him.

"If the pictures we choose bore the children we defeat our own purpose," she explained, "for they will lose faith in our judgment." All children love adventure and activity. "We have to give them these things in the form that will appeal to them, and yet not harm them. That is one reason we pick so many Westerns, for the children love them. And all Western heroes are brave, good men.

"Another movie institution that is here to stay so long as children make up audiences is the serial. Saturdays just aren't Saturdays to children without them.

"Sistie" and "Buzzie" Willing To Call a Halt on Nicknames

(Copyright, 1934, by the United Press.)

A code for the prevention of nicknames is being earnestly advocated by the two favorite grandchildren of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, "Sistie" and "Buzzie" Dall.

This became known when "Sistie," who incidentally is suffering with the measles and has had plenty of time for reflection, addressed the following sage observation to Mrs. McDuffy, her faithful colored nurse:

"Duffy, why can't something be done so that I may be called Eleanor? All I hear is Sistie this, and Sistie that, and Buzzie this and Buzzie that.

"Sistie" is Eleanor Now.

"Anyway, Duffy, the names Sistie and Buzzie were meant only for the family. They were not names that other folks were to call us."

Mrs. McDuffy was somewhat taken aback by this reasoning from a 7-year-old, but she agreed that Sistie was growing up.

"I'll call you Eleanor from now on," the nurse promised. After a day or so, however, she forgot and hailed the youthful Anna Eleanor Dall by the old familiar name.

And "Buzzie" is Curtis.

"I thought you was going to call me Eleanor?" the little flaxen-haired girl sadly remarked.

Mrs. McDuffy, who communicated Sistie's wishes to Buzzie, found a welcome if not ardent champion of them in him.

"I want to be called Curtis, I want to be called Curtis," was his reaction, snappy and to the point.

Henceforth, he'll be Curtis to his nursemaid in whose eyes he is a hero.

Plot to Seize French Power Laid to Frot

Paris, March 7 (AP).—Three startling disclosures involving secret symbols, the murder of a prominent judge, and rumors of a coup d'etat were made today by officials investigating the $40,000,000 pawnshop bond scandal of the late Serge Stavisky.

Members of a parliamentary committee quoted Jean Chiappe, former prefect of Paris police, as saying former Interior Minister Eugene Frot planned a coup to gain the leadership of the government during recent riots that formed a bloody sequel to the Stavisky affair.

Another development was that police, in their efforts to find a "trail of higher ups" in the swindle, studied the mysterious symbols Stavisky used to designate check stubs in his secret pay roll.

The third was that police sought the "double" of Judge Albert Prince, key man in the Stavisky investigation who was slain between here and Dijon recently, in the belief that a man strongly resembling the murdered magistrate had arrived in Dijon instead of Prince.

The judge shortly before he was to testify in the scandal probe received a fake telegram saying his mother was seriously ill in Dijon. It was at first believed that he went there, and that he was poisoned and stabbed on a train returning to Paris. The body, bound and mutilated, was found near the tracks.

Under this new theory, Prince's death would have occurred in a train en route to Dijon.

The former prefect, whose dismissal by the Daladier government raised popular indignation to a new climax, declared he had warned Edouard Daladier, then premier, that Frot had recruited a group of "sure men" for a personal coup.

Guild Backs Mrs. Sanger

Congregational Church Women Will Support Birth Control.

Full indorsement of Mrs. Margaret Sanger's crusade to have Congress repeal Federal restriction upon dissemination of birth control information was voted yesterday by more than 200 members of the Women's Guild of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church.

After hearing an address on the subject by Mrs. Sanger, the group voted "full indorsement of the work of Mrs. Sanger and asked that the House and Senate act favorably upon the bills now before them to change the Federal laws forbidding contraceptive information from being given by authorized clinics and the medical profession."

Mrs. Sanger called upon women of Christian churches "to aid in the task of preventing needless tragedies in the lives of millions of women and children who inarticulately suffer" from the lack of birth control information.

Two Honest Violators of Traffic Laws Found.

Park police headquarters is holding $4, waiting to be reclaimed by two parking violators who seem to be uninformed on the law's processes of handling motorists who disobey traffic regulations.

With a check for $2 there came a letter from a woman, reading:

"I am sorry that you found occasion to fine me for parking in the Monument Grounds, but I had business to transact and could find no other place to leave my car. I assumed, erroneously I now see, that a spot so far from main traffic would be permissible. In the future I shall be more careful. Inclosed please find my check for $2."

The other "fine" was the result of a notice sent to a motorist after he apparently had ignored a ticket for overtime parking.

Impressed by the action of the two culprits, the park police office said charges against these first offenders will be dropped and they can get their money back by calling at headquarters.

P. S. P. Randolph Hurt When Shotgun Bursts

Pinehurst, N. C., March 7 (AP).—P. S. P. Randolph, father-in-law of Ogden L. Mills, former Secretary of the Treasury, was wounded slightly here today while trapshooting when the barrel of his shotgun burst.

Several shots were imbedded in his wrist. He was given hospital treatment. Mr. Randolph has homes at Philadelphia and Hempstead, Long Island.

Posse Kills Student In Hunt for Firebug

Charleston, Ill., March 7 (AP).—Hershel Petty, 20, student at the Illinois State Teachers' College, was shot and killed when mistaken by a sheriff's posse for a man who earlier in the evening set fire to a barn.

The owner of the barn observed flames and saw two men flee in an automobile last night. The sheriff was called and a posse took up the chase. Possemen said the student failed to obey a command to halt.

Pope Confers Honor On Newark Laymen

Vatican City, March 7 (AP).—Pope Pius awarded promotions to 15 ecclesiastics and conferred honors upon four laymen of the Diocese of Newark, N. J., today.

This extraordinary group of honors, seldom before conferred upon an American diocese, was granted through the intercession of Bishop Thomas J. Walsh, of Newark, now in Rome.

Thanks! Darrow Has Book Full Of Them for Free Taxicab Ride

Famous Lawyer Leaves Cash in Hotel Room; Seeks Driver.

Clarence Darrow, chairman of the new National Recovery Review Board, is looking for the taxicab driver who carried him from the Willard Hotel out to a dinner engagement Sunday night.

Mr. Darrow had brought an extra pair of trousers to Washington, and he changed into them before going to his dinner party. But he forgot to transfer his pocket money, and he discovered at his destination that he couldn't pay his cab fare.

"My name's Darrow," he explained apologetically to the driver. "I haven't got a cent with me, but if you come to the hotel tomorrow I'll pay you off."

"You mean Clarence Darrow?" asked the driver.

"Yes," the famous lawyer replied.

"Well," you've done so many things for other people that I'm glad to haul you for nothing."

Now Darrow wants to give him a present, and he asked The Post last night to help him get in touch with the cab driver. So if the lucky operator will call at room 131 at the Willard Hotel, he can have an autographed copy of Mr. Darrow's autobiography.

Presbyterian Merger Agreed by Committee

Charlotte, N. C., March 7 (AP).—A joint committee representing the Presbyterian Church in the United States and the Associate Reformed Church of the South announced here tonight it had unanimously agreed upon a basis for union of the two bodies.

Details of the agreement were not disclosed, pending submission of the report to the higher ecclesiastical bodies of the two denominations.

Peruvian Leaders Agree A Duel Is Unnecessary

Lima, Peru, March 7 (AP).—The incident of honor between Dr. Luis Flores, former premier, and Minister of the Interior Alfredo Henriód today was settled satisfactorily—without a duel.

An arbitration tribunal ruled that the reported offense, the outgrowth of a political matter, did not warrant a duel and both seconds and interested parties signed a document accepting the decision.

Son Finds Father's Body at Wife's Grave

St. Louis, March 7 (U.P.).—Remembering his father's words that "if I'm ever found dead, it will be at your mother's grave," William Dohrmann ended an all-night search when he went to the cemetery and found his father's body hanging from a tree near the grave.

Herman Dohrmann, 73, made the statement several months ago. Last night he disappeared.

Man and Woman Slain In Scissors-Razor Duel

Central City, Ky., March 7 (AP).—Alvin A. Ferguson, 56, and his housekeeper, Mrs. Lillian Posey, 50, were found dead today with evidence that they had fought to the death with razor and scissors.

A coroner's jury decided the woman had killed Ferguson and then cut her own throat with the razor. Because of cuts on Mrs. Posey's face from the scissors, the coroner's jury concluded Ferguson had used them to defend himself.

James Roosevelt Urges Racing in Massachusetts

Boston, March 7 (AP).—James Roosevelt, son of the President, was among those who today favored before a Legislative committee a bill to legalize pari-mutuel horse racing in Massachusetts.

Experience in England, Roosevelt said, showed that in racing the populace was given a sport which it could enjoy without marked detriment to morals.

Door handles and hinges are modernly styled in satin finish chromium. Ice tray fronts are also highly polished chromium.

BEAUTIFUL FINISH
Available in either porcelain or Newtone (the finest non-porcelain finish made), or lacquer. Gleaming white, easy-to-clean surfaces.

USES NO WATER

Costs least to operate! Permanently silent! It offers more years of dependable service! The entire Gas Industry stands behind it!

The new 1934 air-cooled gas refrigerator sets a new high standard for refrigerator value. It offers you more vital advantages than any other automatic refrigerator!

For years the gas refrigerator—Electrolux—has forged ahead because, by its simple scientific principle, it has made possible a cost of operation lower than that of any other automatic refrigerator. It has eliminated complicated machinery entirely and uses in its place only a tiny gas flame, which circulates a refrigerant hermetically sealed in rigid steel. The result is a modern refrigerator that efficiently safeguards your family's food absolutely without vibration or noise and without costs that are inevitable with constantly moving parts. By its very simplicity the gas refrigerator guarantees a longer period of life and sets a new standard of dependability which cannot be questioned.

The gas industry has tested every claim made by the manufacturers, and the experiences of thousands of owners in Washington and elsewhere have been nothing short of remarkable. That is why we can enthusiastically recommend this refrigerator to you.

Come in and see the new 1934 air-cooled gas refrigerator in actual operation at our show rooms. See its beautiful new cabinet that any woman would be proud to own, it's smart chromium hardware, new finish and the exciting new features described to the left. Despite its many advantages, which will actually save you enough in a short time to pay for the refrigerator itself, Electrolux costs no more than other well made modern refrigerators. And of course you can buy it on easy terms. It will be well worth making a special trip downtown just to see these new 1934 models.

White House To Give Pay Views Today

Compromise Is Sought on Amendments to Avoid Veto.

Democratic House leaders this afternoon will obtain instructions from President Roosevelt before assembling in a caucus tonight on Government pay restoration, veterans' benefits, and other amendments to the independent offices appropriations bill.

A conference is scheduled for 3 p. m. today. Speaker Rainey, Majority Leader Byrnes, Chairman Buchanan of the Appropriations Committee, and Representative Woodrum, chairman of the independent offices sub-committee are among those who will attend.

While Administration spokesmen, both in the House and in the Senate, are convinced that the President would veto the bill with the existing Senate amendments, they want to ascertain just how far he will go in the way of a compromise on veterans' benefits before binding the party caucus.

No Gag Rule.

It is generally conceded that the Chief Executive will consent to the 5-and-5 pay restoration plan although he had previously forced the House to accept only 5 per cent restoration on July 1.

The House Appropriations Committee is not expected to meet before the caucus, but will meet afterward and draft its program according to instructions. Chairman Buchanan predicted that the committee's report will reach the House early next week, possibly following disposal of the bonus bill.

Democratic leaders insisted again yesterday that no effort will be made to impose a gag rule on the House when the bill and amendments are reported "unless the majority of the members" wants such a rule. They indicated that many members would want such a rule to prevent embarrassment of a record vote on veterans' benefits.

Party leaders are inclined to favor the amendments sponsored by Senator Byrnes (Democrat), of South Carolina, but rejected by the Senate, as to pensions for Spanish-American and World War veterans as well as the 5-and-5 pay plan. It is also believed that these amendments meet with Presidential favor.

Courses Studied.

Any of the several courses may be adopted by the Democratic caucus tonight. It may be decided to adopt a rule on one or two of the more controversial amendments and to refer the remainder to conferees, or the Appropriations Committee may be instructed to prepare substitute amendments.

Majority Leader Byrns has indicated that he favored the taking of a vote on each of the Senate amendments separately. Representative Woodrum said that if the majority of the members at the caucus tonight want the vote "wide open," he is confident no attempt will be made to gag them.

One of the Senate amendments on which the House is sure to pounce with both feet is the Borah amendment to retain the 15 per cent reduction on all salaries above $6,000, as this would keep the pay cut on all members of Congress.

Rites Tomorrow For V. E. Lake, 66

Was Woodward & Lothrop Employe Half Century.

Funeral services for Vivian E. Lake, 66, of 1511 Park road northwest, for almost 50 years an employe of the Woodward & Lothrop department store, will be held at the residence tomorrow at 9 a. m. He died Tuesday at his home following a short illness.

A native of Upperville, Va., he entered the store's employ in 1887 and later became floor manager. Many shoppers knew him. He retired recently.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lillian L. Lake; a daughter, Mrs. Helen M. LeGendre, and a son, Thomas V. Lake. Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery.

Gas Range Sold Quickly

Maurice J. Colbert & Co., 1008 M street northwest, knew some one would be interested in buying a specially priced gas range the company had for sale. So the Colbert Company placed a small ad in the Classified Columns of The Post and in three days the range was sold.

The Colbert Company manager, Mr. Ewaldson, says the next time he has a range for sale—and wants prompt results—he knows where to advertise it.

Fishermen to Save Cap'n Joe's Career

This road-locked houseboat is going to be lifted out of Roaches Run, hauled across the Mount Vernon Memorial highway and placed in the Potomac to save the professional career of Cap'n Joe, the fishermen's friend. Cap'n Joe, who is known only by that name, was not home when the photographer paid a call yesterday, and that is why he is not in the picture. Ducks caused the Cap'n all this trouble, fishing being prohibited because the fishermen are said to disturb the wild fowl.

Ban on Student Absence Asked To Avoid Rum

Ballou Seeks Rule if Licenses Are Issued Near Any School.

Recommendation that children be prohibited from leaving schools from the time they report until dismissal if any liquor licenses are granted in the vicinity of school buildings was made to the Board of Education yesterday by Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou.

The board adopted a resolution introduced by Henry I. Quinn expressing the opinion that the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board should not issue liquor licenses of any class for a place of business within the vicinity of schools and colleges, or where residents or property owners in the neighborhood of these places of business register an objection.

The resolution also asked that the A. B. C. Board give full recognition to protests from the Board of Education, parent-teacher associations and citizens' associations in determining whether the place for which a license is to be issued is an appropriate one.

Distance Changed.

In taking this action, the board wiped out the 400-foot limitation, specifying that no license be granted "within the vicinity" of a school.

Mr. Quinn declared that the liquor board has the power to deny a license at any place if it is against the wishes of the majority of the citizens in a community.

In asking for a ban on licenses within the vicinity of schools, the board ignored pleas from Edgar M. Mayne and Joseph Sullivan, who represented business interests in the vicinity of the Roosevelt High School and the Marfarland Junior High.

Claim Handicap.

The two men made a specific plea for a drug store on Georgia avenue where, they said, an average of 250 Roosevelt and Macfarland children eat lunch daily. They charged that this store was being placed under a handicap because a license had been granted to another business a few blocks away.

In recommending that children be prohibited from leaving all schools during the day if licenses are granted near any schools, Dr. Ballou said that such regulations have been put in operation in other cities. The board withheld action on the recommendation pending decision by the A. B. C. board on a policy for licenses near schools next Saturday. It was pointed out that the board has no jurisdiction over the children on their way to or from school.

The Board of Education will be represented at the session on Saturday by Henry Gilligan, Mr. Quinn and Charles H. Houston, all lawyers, and by Dr. Ballou.

Policeman Lends Morgenthau 25c To Pay Cab Man

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., whose department has a cash balance of $4,874,633,950.89, was obliged to borrow 25 cents from a Capitol policeman to get back to his office after appearing before the Senate Finance Committee.

Morgenthau went in search of a taxicab to return to the Treasury. He felt in his pockets. They were empty. He turned to Policeman Guy B. Reeves and said:

"Lend me a quarter for a taxicab and I'll pay you back later."

Reeves was a bit hesitant but finally produced a quarter.

An hour later an employe in Morgenthau's office jumped out of a taxi and gave Reeves a half dollar.

"I can't take all of that," Reeves said. "The Secretary only borrowed 25 cents."

Change was made and the messenger taxied back to the Treasury to give Mr. Morgenthau his quarter.

Skipper Will Get "Lift" to New Livelihood on Potomac.

The river wouldn't come to Cap'n Joe, so Cap'n Joe is going to the river, by the graces of the Office of National Capital Parks and the Izaak Walton League.

Cap'n Joe's is a sad story, a story fraught with frustration and desperation engendered by a law against fishing at Roaches Run. Maybe you din't care whether fishing is allowed or not at Roaches Run, but it means everything to Cap'n Joe. But his story is going to have a happy ending.

In a few days his houseboat will be lifted out if the "run," slid across Mount Vernon Memorial Highway and set down gently in the Potomac River, so Cap'n Joe can carry on again earning his livelihood—selling bait and renting boats to anglers.

"Ruined" by New Law.

For years, until last fall, the elderly Negro, who is Cap'n Joe, did a brisk business at his houseboat, catering to the wants of fishermen who came to Roaches Run for black bass.

When the Office of National Parks, Buildings and Reservations put up a "no fishing" sign, explaining that the anglers frightened away wild ducks, Cap'n Joe was "ruined."

In the flurry of protests which followed the Federal edict, closing to fishermen what is said to be the only unpolluted stream in the District area, the plight of the Negro and his service station was quite forgotten.

During the winter, when there is no fishing, Capt. Joe was unconcerned. But with the coming of warmer weather and the emergency of rods and reels, he began to worry.

Former Patrons Act.

The houseboat is anchored some 300 yards from the highway and just a few steps from the railroad tracks. When Capt. Joe moved in years ago, the memorial boulevard did not exist. Now it shuts him in, preventing him from shoving off into the Potomac.

Learning of his predicament, six or seven former patrons petitioned the Izaak Walton League to help give the captain a lift. Meaning "lift" literally.

The league laid the plea before the parks office this week. Yesterday plans already were under way to tow the boat across Roaches Run, which is about half a mile below Highway Bridge, skid it across the road and deposit it along the river bank, giving Capt. Joe a new career. The operation may be performed this week-end.

The departure of Cap'n Joe will leave only one houseboat on Roaches Run. Its occupant is caretaker of the wild duck sanctuary.

Dupont Circle Traffic Trial Held Success

Van Duzer Says System Eliminates Morning Rush-Hour Jams.

The new morning rush-hour traffic system at Dupont Circle will continue indefinitely, Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer indicated yesterday.

The system was inaugurated yesterday. Eastbound traffic along Massachusetts avenue northwest was diverted into Twentieth street before reaching Dupont Circle. Twentieth street was made one way, with no parking on either side. At M street traffic again was allowed to resume eastward. Thus, Van Duzer pointed out, early morning traffic jams at the circle were eliminated.

A new traffic-light system will be tried at Thomas Circle Monday, it was announced.

The plan was outlined as follows: Through traffic along Fourteenth street will flow for 50 seconds. Then for an additional 40 seconds vehicles from Massachusetts avenue, M street and Vermont avenue will proceed. All traffic will stop for 20 seconds to allow pedestrians to cross.

Moral Indecision Grows, Says Bishop

Dr. Strider Cites Need of Stronger Character.

"Moral Indecision" was the subject of the third of the series of noonday Lenten sermons given at the Church of the Epiphany yesterday by the Right Rev. R. E. L. Strider, Bishop Coadjutor of the diocese of West Virginia.

"We modern people need a more uncompromising morality," he said. "Many of us are trying to live noble lives who have no definite moral convictions at all. The absence of the iron of moral earnestness in the modern soul is responsible for many of our ills.

"While within the past 40 or 50 years our physical stamina and our intellectual graps have been increasing, our moral resolution has been weakening. It is in the realm of personal character that we modern people are failing to measure up to the requirements of our age."

New D. C. Milk System Is Sought by McCarran

Development of an entirtly new system of distribution for Washington's milk supply will be sought by Senator Patrick A. McCarran (Democrat), of Nevada, when the Senate District Committee meets at 10 a. m. today.

Senator McCarran is a member of the sub-committee which investigated the local milk industry. Report of the sub-committee is expected to be submitted to the full committte today.

'Our Error—Excuse Us' Cry 2 Who Tried to Rob John Law

Mistakes will happen, but even "a little mistake" may grow bigger—as it did in Police Court yesterday.

It was an "unintentional error" that led to trouble near Kalorama road and Champlain street northwest Tuesday night. Policemen W. H. Bell and S. T. Creech, of the Traffic Bureau, off duty, were driving in Bell's car. Two colored men approached the policemen's automobile as it halted for a stop sign.

"Where do you guys think you are going?"

Bell, nonplussed for a moment, grabbed the man's arm, wrested the gun from his grasp and jumped from the machine. Creech, meanwhile, was told to "sit still" by the other man. Both policemen grappled with their opponents, but when Bell drew his own service revolver, the struggle ended.

Both assailants quickly surrendered. One of them said:

"Gee, we didn't know you-all was The Law. Excuse us—we made a little mistake!"

The "little mistake" brought charges of carrying a concealed weapon and assault with a dangerous weapon against Johnny Thurston, 28, and asault charges against his companion, Leroy Roper, 26.

Arraigned before Judge Isaac Hitt yesterday, Thurston was held for grand jury action under $1,200 bond, while Roper demanded a jury trial and was held under $500 bond.

Six Weeks' Relief Case Delay Bared

Report to Halbert by Post Results in Fast Action.

Octavus Crum and his wife, Helen, colored, of 1514 Twelfth street northwest, ended six weeks of trying to exist off charitable red tape instead of food, when the local emergency relief office yesterday finally took cognizance of their plight.

Six months ago Mrs. Crum lost her job in a downtown restaurant. Her husband had not been able to find work. They got along as best they could until about six weeks ago. Then they were forced to make application for relief.

Crum went to the main office of the District Relief Administration in John Marshall Place. He was told to go to 2403 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. He went directly to that address, a district office.

At the Pennsylvania avenue address he was interviewed in the routine way and instructed to go home and await the arrival of a relief worker, who would investigate his situation. That is a regular part of the system.

Waited and Waited.

Crum went home and waited. He waited for ten days. Then he went back to the Pennsylvania avenue office. He was told to return home and that an investigator would call on him.

Crum went home and waited some more. After ten more days he made a third trip to the Pennsylvania avenue office. This time he received a different response. He was told that he had been applying to the wrong office, that he should go to the office at 2458 Eighth street northwest.

He went immediately to the Eighth street office and was told to come back the following week. He went home and on February 28 he received a letter. It was from the office on Pennsylvania avenue. It told him something he already knew, that he was supposed to apply at the Eighth street office. That's all it did tell him.

Halbert Is Notified.

The next day he took the notice to the Eighth street office. He was told to come back March 6. He went back March 6 and was told to return on March 9.

That is all that happened until yesterday when the facts were reported to The Post. They were transmitted to LeRoy Halbert, District relief director. He checked up. He found Crum had applied for relief. He found his case had been transferred from one office to the other. He found that no investigation of the case ever had been made. He found that no relief had been given.

Halbert didn't know why all of these things were true. He said he would try to find out. He ordered immediate action in the case. A relief worker was sent to the Crum home as soon as Halbert learned the facts.

Short of Workers.

"We have had trouble about transferring cases from one office to another," Halbert said. "These changes are made necessary because the city is divided into districts and boundaries change as the organization expands.

"Our relief workers are instructed to make investigations as rapidly as possible. Sometimes two or three days elapse after an application is made before a worker can investigate. We still don't have enough workers.

"However, our workers are instructed to give relief first and investigate afterward, if the story of the relief applicant appears to justify that action. We would rather err in the direction of giving relief for a day or two where it is not absolutely essential than to have delay cause suffering."

Delay Is Mystery.

Halbert repeated that he did not know why there was no investigation of the Crum application, or why no immediate relief was provided. He explained that most of his workers are drawn from the ranks of the unemployed and nearly all of them are inexperienced. He blamed this situation for mistakes, but said he did not think there were many instances like the Crum situation.

The staff of relief workers recently has been increased from 60 to 125. Halbert said he should have about 170 workers, or one for each 100 cases. After the original investigation, workers call on relief cases about once a month, he said.

At the present time, he said, there are about 17,000 charity cases being handled through his office. Of these, he said, 13,000 are families and 4,000 are individuals.

Men Debaters of G.W.U. Will Open Season Today

The George Washington University men's debating team will open its season at 3 p. m. today in Corcoran Hall against a Washington and Lee University team. They will debate Hitlerism and its benefits to Germany.

Arthur Murphy, of Washington, and James Edwards, of Texas, will represent the Colonials. The same teams will contest March 19 in Lexington, Va.

Discuss D. C. Budget and Taxes

Park Savings Receiver Sues Stunz Surety

$1,550,000 Damages Asked by Capital Bank on Bond Claim.

Suit for $1,550,000 against the American Security Co., of New York, as guarantors against the dishonest acts of any employe of the closed Park Savings Bank was instituted in the District Supreme Court yesterday by John F. Moran, bank receiver.

The company insured the bank against a loss of $50,000 and Mr. Moran brought suit for $1,500,000, claiming damages as a failure to pay the claim. In a second count of the suit, the receiver asked for $50,000 on an "excess bond," with a face value of $50,000.

Mr. Moran charged that the bank had "sustained direct money losses of $200,000" through the dishonest acts of Robert S. Stunz, former executive officer, who killed himself in the basement of his Kalmia street home, early in March, 1933, prior to the discovery that there was a huge shortage in the institution.

The insurance company is contesting payment on the ground that the bank's charter expired in 1929 and that it had not agreed to cover losses of a bank without a charter.

Society of Osteopaths Elects Frank T. Shyne

Dr. Frank T. Shyne has been elected president of the National Capital Osteopathic Association.

Other officers chosen include Dr. Elizabeth N. Smith, vice president; Dr. C. Richard Smith, secretary and treasurer; Dr. F. T. Evans, member of the board of directors; Dr. Conrad Praetorious, legislative chairman, and Dr. M. B. Crabill, chairman of public relations. The meeting was addressed by Dr. Praetorious, who spoke on "Osteopathy and Its Application to Diabetes."

Big Bond Set In Gun Attack

Deavers Hearing Put Off Faces Woman in Hospital.

With a bullet in her abdomen, Mrs. Alice Martin, 29, remained in a serious condition at Casualty Hospital last night, while her alleged assailant, Arthur Deavers, 34, was held under bond of $25,000 in Police Court. A hearing on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon was continued until March 21.

Mrs. Martin confronted Deavers at the hospital yesterday and denied his claim that she was shot as they scuffled for possession of a gun she pulled on him.

The woman declared she was in the kitchen of her home, 726 Twelfth street southeast, Monday, when Deavers entered and without warning shot her.

Mrs. Martin's story was substantiated by her three children, Billy, 8; George, 10, and Virginia, 11. They said their mother never owned a gun. Deavers was a former roomer at her mother's home and had known Mrs. Martin for several years, police were told.

Store Man Held For Grand Jury

Accused of Cheating Poor With Short Weight.

Charged with victimizing destitute families in a short-weight swindle, Stewart M. Keyser, 27, chain grocery manager, was held for grand jury action under $1,000 bond in Police Court yesterday.

Keyser's store in Anacostia was used as a distributing point for provisions of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. He was authorized to "cash" relief slips furnished to needy families.

Army Evidence Believed Ended

Grand Jury Hears Motor Men; Indictments Are Awaited This Week.

Two witnesses were heard yesterday by the District grand jury investigating War Department contracts. They were Joseph B. Woodside, Washington, and Norman K. Haig, of Detroit, both of General Motors Corporation.

It is understood the two witnesses added to their previous stories concerning proposals for sale of motor equipment to the Government under the War Department's $10,000,000 motorization program.

Attorney, said he believed the two Leslie C. Garnett, United States witnesses would be the last to appear before the jury. The jury is reviewing the voluminous evidence and may vote on indictments this week. A report to the court is not expected before next week.

Driver Near Death In Gasoline Blast

Painfully burned when a can of gasoline exploded as he cleaned a suit of clothes yesterday, J. Marvin Kitchen, 28, of 1258 Talburt street southeast, was reported in a critical condition at Georgetown Hospital last night.

Kitchen, employed as a driver for the Ready Mixed Concrete Corporation, 3046 K street northwest, was in the company offices cleaning spots from a suit when the can exploded. His body was sprayed with blazing fluid.

Trio Held for Jury On Burglary Charges

Three alleged housebreakers, arrested in connection with two downtown robberies, were held for grand jury action under bond of $10,000 each in Police Court yesterday.

The men, Ralph P. White, 28, a marine, of 3121 Sixteenth street northwest; David E. Miller, 33, of 3513 Thirteenth street northwest, and Curtis Weaver, 34, of the same address, pleaded not guilty and waived a preliminary hearing.

Volunteers' Anniversary Sunday.

Members of the Volunteers of America will observe the thirty-eighth anniversary of the founding of the National organization Sunday, in the Volunteer Relief Mission, 471 Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

Mrs. Sanger Luncheon Speaker.

Mrs. Margaret Sanger, birth control advocate, will be the guest speaker at a joint luncheon meeting of the Washington Round Table and the Monarch Club at the University Club tomorrow at 12:30 p. m.

Reserves to Hear Col. Lull.

Reserve officers of Washington will be addressed by Lieut. Col. Charles E. T. Lull, chemical warfare officer of the Third Corps Area, of which the District is a part, in the Munitions Building at 8 p. m. tonight.

D. C. Budget Faces Attack By Blanton

Hearings Off to Record Start, but Texan Plans Cuts.

Donovan's Report Takes Up Most of First Day's Session.

The annual District budget hearings got off to an auspicious start yesterday with indications that the sessions before the House appropriation subcommittee will be concluded in record time.

While the report of Auditor Daniel J. Donovan on the District's financial condition customarily consumes two days or more, it was disposed of yesterday in short order, and consideration of department estimates started.

Though District officials believe that the 1935 budget, carrying estimates totaling $35,821,013, has already beun cut to the bone by themselves and the Budget Bureau, Representative Blanton (Democrat), of Texas, always a stormy figure at District hearings, revealed that he would present a plan which, in effect, will save local taxpayers some $3,000,000 a year.

Details Kept Secret.

Refusing to disclose the details of his proposal, which will be disclosed piecemeal during the hearings, Blanton said that it would enable the District Commissioners to reduce the tax rate from $1.50 to $1.20, without eliminating a worthwhile project or an important job.

His program, he said, is almost uncontroversial in character and would unquestionably be approved by local civic bodies, if it were explained to them.

It is known that Blanton has compiled data on the salaries of all Government department heads and their assistants and that he believes that their salaries are in most instances too high.

At the last session of Congress he introduced a table to show how many of the salaries of many department heads had been raised within recent years and denounced this trend.

Points to Past Cut.

"When I advocated a cut in the District tax rate last year," he said, "nobody believed it could be done. But they did it, didn't they, and without sacrificing any worthwhile projects. And they also cut the assessment base by about $80,000,000."

Almost the entire session yesterday was devoted to the financial report submitted by Maj. Donovan, and members of the sub-committee, headed by Representative Cannon (Democrat), of Missouri, who showed keen interest in the revelation that the District would end the fiscal year 1935 with a surplus of several million dollars with the proposed budget.

This surplus would reach $5,000,000 with only a 5 per cent pay restoration July 1, as proposed when the estimates passed the Budget Bureau, but this surplus would be cut by $1,700,000 if the 5-and-5 plan now in the fore is adopted.

With sessions being held morning and afternoon, hearings are expected to be concluded by the latter part of next week.

Retreat House Service Scheduled for Sunday

A day of recollection will be conducted by the Rev. J. C. Murray, S. J., of Georgetown University, at the Washington Retreat House Sunday.

The services will begin at 9:30 a. m. and close after the evening conference at 7 p. m. A day of recollection for school teachers and their friends will be conducted at the retreat house March 18 by Dom Benedict Brosnahan, O. S. B., of St. Anselm's Priory.

Good morning! We still have men coming to our store for monogrammed shirts at $1.45 each. We don't blame them. That was a remarkable value and those who bought them are glad of it. We can not repeat the offer after this week, but we do urge that you respond promptly to all our special offerings, and avoid disappointment.

I FEEL AS LIMP AS A RAG TODAY. ALL LAST NIGHT I DREAMED ABOUT THOSE RUFFIANS AT THE OTHER HOUSE WHO HUNTED FOR THAT POOR CHILD.
THOSE RED-HOTS! LET'S SEE THE BOY NOW.
WELL CAPTAIN, HOW DO YOU FEEL? HOW ABOUT THAT NAME.....YOU REMEMBER IT NOW, DON'T YOU? I KNOW YOU DO.
MY NAME IS.. IS.. JERICHO!
JERICHO? OH NO!
THAT'S THE NAME OF THE DARK MAN AT THE OTHER HOUSE..... WASN'T IT? JERICHO?
OH YES! HE WAS A BAD MAN. HE WOULDN'T LET ME GO HOME.
HOME! WHERE IS YOUR HOME? THINK HARD. REAL HARD. I JUST KNOW YOU CAN REMEMBER THAT, EASY, BUB.

Walt Mason, Himself

A New Fear.

The rich man always had his woes; he walked along through endless rows of problems, penalties and pains, a hoodoo rested on his gains. A poignant fear was in his soul that some day he might lose his roll; the stratagems of other plutes might rob him of his shirt and boots, and leave him, shivering and sore, a pilgrim at the poorhouse door. And when the news was spread abroad that he possessed a princely wad, all people who had jazzy dreams of mighty wealth-producing schemes would trail him everywhere he went, on gorgeous contributions bent. The tax collectors sat up nights to get the rich man dead to rights, and statesmen kept on framing laws, without a recess or a pause, to make the wealthy, pampered skate foot all the bills and pay the freight. He's always known such cares as these, they're ancient pains and penalties; but now a terror new and fresh disturbs his soul and chills his flesh. He fears he may be borne away by kndnap workers, any day, and in some moldy cellar placed, perhaps manhandled and disgraced, and held there, in that hole decayed, until a ransom has been paid. The rich man has so much of grief that poverty's a great relief. The delegate who's busted flat will never meet a fate like that.

Washington Post Sports

Sierra, Senator Harrison's Hopeful, Impresses Griffith and Cronin

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

BILOXI, Miss., March 7 (Spl.).—This NRA business is rapidly souring the good people of Biloxi on the Administration, what with the developments this morning when the sun took the day off under the new code for celestial agencies recently approved by Gen. Hugh Johnson.

Despite the protests of the Biloxi Chamber of Commerce, the sun failed to appear for duty this morning, alarming the good chamber of commerce folks, who have prevailed on the Washington Ball Club to train here for the past five years, using Biloxi's incomparable weather as their most powerful persuader.

As a result, the good chamber of commerce folks who have been among the most faithful camp followers of the Nats at headquarters before, during and after the daily practice sessions, were this morning keeping a discreet distance from Clark Griffith.

Complications in the form of a pea-soup fog that settled thickly over the Gulf Coast terrain followed in the wake of the sun's enforced absence and by noon the Biloxi Chamber was marshaling an array of legal talent in an effort to test the constitutionality of the entire National Recovery act.

Half-hourly bulletins were issued from the Chamber of Commerce offices and dispatched by messenger to the Nats' hotel through the morning, chamber officials being somewhat reluctant to face the facts in the case, the facts being what they were. I give you a transcript of the official bulletins:

"Bulletin No. 1—9 a. m.—The Biloxi Chamber of Commerce officials regret that the sun is a bit tardy in reporting for duty this morning but it is expected to arrive at any moment.

"Bulletin No. 2—9:30 a. m.—Upon inquiry, the Biloxi Chamber of Commerce is advised by the celestial code authority in Washington that the sun, while not yet a signatory to the NRA code, is observing its limitations and is operating on a six-day week.

"Bulletin No. 3—10 a. m.—Biloxi Chamber of Commerce officials are hopeful that the president and manager of the Washington Ball Club will be patient while negotiations for the sun's release from the celestial code obligations are carried direct to Washington.

"Bulletin No. 4—10:30 a. m.—Biloxi Chamber of Commerce officials are informed of Washington's refusal to act on the matter of special dispensation for the sun to shine in Biloxi on Wednesdays and the tolerance of the Washington baseball officials is earnestly sought until matters can be adjusted.

"Bulletin No. 5—11:00 a. m.—Biloxi Chamber of Commerce officials have voted to place the issue squarely before the sun's board of directors and have dispatched Chamber Secretary Anthony Ragusin as ambassador plenipotentiary to the confederation of heavenly agencies for a series of conversations.

"Bulletin No. 6—11:30 a. m.—(By wireless)—Ambassador Ragusin reports that the sun, at first inclined to observe the authority of the NRA to the letter, now considers itself outraged by the frequent high flights of the Blue Eagle into celestial territory without proper visas and threatens to shine today (Wednesday), in protest.

"Bulletin No. 7—11:31 a. m.—Biloxi Chamber of Commerce officials are now pleased to report that the sun is shining."

After the Nats had betaken themselves to the Biloxi ball yard for a brief bit of practice that ran into the lunch hour, I was informed by persons high in the councils of Biloxi politics that due recognition would be taken of Ambassador Ragusin's noteworthy services in the court of the sun.

Among the honors in store for Ambassador Ragusin is the order of the red shield, emblematic of his elevation to the post as honorary chief of the Biloxi West End Fire Department. The significance of this award is seen in the fact that the only other living mortal to hold the same distinction is Nick Altrock.

Third Straight Purse Won by Flying Cadet

New Orleans, La., March 7 (AP).—Flying Cadet, from the stable of J. Burke, accounted for its third straight victory in copping the featured Jackson Square Handicap today.

The gelding, which has shown steady improvement in all his recent starts, beat out H. G. Shoemaker's Open Hearth by a head in an exciting finish of the 6-furlong dash. The Lone Star Stable's Rip Van Winkle was third. The winner paid $7.40 to win in the $2 mutuels.

Trailing at the half-mile mark while Ep set the early pace, Flying Cadet moved up in the stretch run and beat out Open Hearth in a driving finish.

Hockey Player Dies.

Edmonton, Alberta, March 7 (AP).—Harvey Robertson, 25, well-known northern Alberta hockey player, today died in a hospital as a result of injuries received when he fell to the ice in a game between the Wetaskiwin-Leduc teams last night.

Gehrig Goes Fishing.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 7 (U.P.).—Lou Gehrig, New York Yankees' first baseman, today began a sailfishing trip out of Miami Beach and will spend several days in the Keys before joining his club at St. Petersburg.

With the Nats at Biloxi as They Begin Training for Another Campaign

Monte Weaver, Cronin and Alvin Crowder discuss pitching in particular and baseball in general just before the two regular hurlers worked a few kinks out of those trusty right arms. Both expect 1934 to be their biggest seasons. Weaver regained his best form in the closing month of last season and occupies a chief place in the Nats' plans.

Team of Shute And Espinosa Wins Title

MIAMI, March 7 (U.P.).—A birdie 4 scored on the thirty-sixth hole by Denny Shute, of Philadelphia, British open champion, gave him and his partner, Al Espinosa, of Akron, Ohio, the international four-ball golf championship today.

The victory was worth $750 to the winning team, while the former champions collected $500.

The Shute-Espinosa team was never down in the 36 holes played over the Miami Country Club course although on several occasions they were even.

Best Ball of 66.

The winners were ahead at the end of the first 18 holes with a best ball of 66, 6 under par. Their rivals had a 67 to stand 1 down at the half-way mark.

In the afternoon round they were even three times and it was only a 10-foot putt sunk by Shute on the last green that decided the issue.

Shute and Espinosa increased their lead to 3 up at the twentieth hole only to have the diminutive Runyan cut the lead to even when he carded 3 birdies out of five holes to square the match on the twenty-sixth.

They rounded the final turn on even terms and moved to the thirty-fifth hole with Shute and Espinosa 1 up. On that hole, Runyan drove to within 151foot of the cup and then holed a 15-foot putt for an eagle 2 that evened the match with a hole to play.

Ball Hits Spectator.

On the final green, Runyan made a bold shot for the green but his ball hit a spectator and bounded into a trap. Smith was over and Espinosa rammed his shot into a trap. Shute played a high pitch shot to the green that landed within 10 feet of the cup. He then holed out his 10-foot putt for the birdie that gave his team the match.

The best-ball scores:

Smith-Runyan	35—32—67
Shute-Espinosa	33—33—66
Smith-Runyan	33—31—54—131
Shute-Espinosa	34—30—64—130

Plans Are Completed For Clarksburg Bouts

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Plans have been completed to put on boxing matches here.

Lew Haymond and Jules Beck, matchmakers at Motor Square Garden and other Pittsburgh fight arenas, have been in Clarksburg the last few days arranging for a series of fight cards to be held every two weeks in the Carmichael Auditorium, with Samuel Colombo, of this city, as their special representative.

The card is now being made up for the first of the series to be held the night of March 16.

Levinsky Sues To Ban Radioing

New York, March 7 (U.P.).—Kingfish Levinsky, using his legal name of Harry Krakow, went to court today and obtained a temporary injunction which would restrain the Madison Square Garden Corporation from making a broadcast of his fight with Walter Neusel on Friday night.

The injunction was served on James Joy Johnston, boxing official of the Garden. It was contended that the Garden had no right to use Krakow's fighting name in a broadcast. It is answerable Friday morning.

Levinsky has been objecting to a broadcast, holding that he gate receipts would suffer.

Move to Salvage Va. Racing Bills

State Senator Rust May Try to Discharge Committee.

An eleventh-hour attempt to save the Virginia racing bill and the accompanying legalization of parimutuel betting may be made by State Senator John W. Rust, of Fairfax, at the request of his constituents. The bill was pigeon-holed by the Senate finance committee after passing the House of Delegates.

Rust received a telegram from members of the Fairfax County Young Democrats Club, whose members have campaigned vigorously for horse racing in the Old Dominion. Messages also were received from Mrs. Jouett Shouse, wife of the former National Democratic committee chairman; John S. Barbour, an attorney; David N. Rust, jr., Washington realtor and Virginia property owner; S. Cooper Dawson and Harry C. Weston.

To revive the measure Rust must request the discharge of the Senate Finance Committee from further consideration of the bill and get it to the Senate floor for a vote. Whatever action he takes must necessarily be speedy, however, as the General Assembly adjourns Saturday.

Harrisonburg Quintet Wins 19th of Season

Harrisonburg, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—The Harrisonburg High Blue Streaks closed the most successful basket ball season in their history of the school last night when they trounced Handley High, of Winchester, 33 to 18, to register their nineteenth victory in 20 starts.

During the past season, Harrisonburg scored 703 points to 362 for its rivals, falling 19 points short of doubling the count. Coach Claude Warren's lads triumphed in easy fashion in most of the games as the season's record indicates. It follows:

Ida Simmons Gets New Pin Record at Norfolk

Norfolk, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Pretty Ida Simmons, in a six-game block last night, added new laurels to her bowling record when she established a new mark for the Norfolk Ladies' League and a new city record for league play.

Knocking down maples for games of 142, 121 and 120, she hung up a set total of 383, the highest mark ever bowled in her division in this city.

Monte Pearson Agrees To Sign With Indians

Fresno, Calif., March 7 (AP).—Monte Pearson, of Fresno, right-handed pitcher of the Cleveland Indians, left by automobile for Cleveland today to sign a 1934 contract.

Pearson was a holdout until he received a "very favorable" wire from General Manager Billy Evans.

Shoot at Riverdale.

The Stephen Citizens' Association will hold a turkey shoot Saturday afternoon on Edmonston road, East Riverdale, Md., at 1 p. m.

A special range for women will be set aside. Those entering who have no guns may borrow them from the club. No admission will be charged.

Potomac State Wins.

Keyser, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Potomac State College scored its seventh consecutive basket ball triumph here by defeating Cam Henderson's Davis and Elkins, W. Va., quintet by the score of 38 to 30 before 350 persons.

16 Teams Open Play Today At W. & L.

Eastern a Seeded Quintet; Emerson and Tech Also Entered.

LEXINGTON, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—The 16 accepted entries for the eleventh annual South Atlantic scholastic basket ball tournament which starts at Washington and Lee University here tomorrow includes teams from five States and the District of Columbia. The list of competing quintets is composed almost entirely of State and city champions and runners-up.

Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, West Virginia and Virginia are the States represented. Virginia leads in the number of entries with seven and the District of Columbia is second with three. The Carolinas are each sending their two leading high school teams, while Georgia and West Virginia each have a single representative.

Championship teams entered are Jefferson High School, of Roanoke, and Staunton Military Academy, Virginia high and prep school title holders, respectively; Charlotte High School, North Carolina State champions; Spartanburg High School, South Carolina State champions; Eastern High School and Emerson Institute, winners of District of Columbia high and prep school crowns; and Thomas Jefferson High School, Richmond city champions.

Runners-up for Title.

Of the other teams Durham, N. C., and Greenville, S. C., were runners-up for their respective State titles; Tech High, of Washington, and John Marshall High, of Richmond, were runners-up for the championships in their respective cities, and Augusta Military Academy was runner-up for the Virginia prep school crown.

Eastern, Staunton Military and John Marshall have practically monopolized the tournament championship during the ten years of its existence. Staunton and John Marshall have an edge on the Washington team, having held the title three times each, but Eastern, the defending champion, is the only team which has won top honors two successive years.

Seeded high school teams this year are Eastern, Jefferson, Charlotte and Spartanburg. Because of the small number of teams with satisfactory records entered in the prep division, the tournament committee, after seeding, drew several high schools for competition in the prep bracket.

Starts at 1:30 P. M.

Augusta Military Academy, Fort Defiance, Va., vs. Greenbrier Military School, Lewisburg, Va., 2:30 p. m.

Charlotte, N. C., High School vs. Ashland, Va., High School, 3:30 p. m.

Massanutten Military Academy, Woodstock, Va., vs. Durham, N. C., High School, 4:30 p. m.

Eastern High School, Washington, D. C., vs. Tech High School, Atlanta, Ga., 10 p. m.

N. C. State Announces 23 Baseball Contests

Raleigh, March 7 (Spl.).—North Carolina State's spring baseball schedule announced today lists 23 games, 10 of which will be played here. The opening game is with Washington and Lee and will be played here March 29.

May 1, Carolina here; 3, Virginia here; 5, Wake Forest there; 8, Davidson here; 9, Davidson here; 10, Duke here; 14, V. P. I. here; 15, Duke there; 17, Wake Forest here; 22, Carolina there.

Virginia Awards Court, Ring Numerals, Elects Managers

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—The University of Virginia major sport "V" has been awarded to 11 members of the undefeated boxing team which won the Southern Conference championship for the fourth season in succession, and to 9 members of the basket ball team. At the same time first-year numerals were awarded to 12 freshmen boxers and to the same number of freshmen basket ball players.

Charles S. Adams, jr., of Lynchburg, Va., was chosen to be varsity manager of basket ball next season, while George W. Humphreys, of Memphis, Tenn., was named boxing manager for 1934. Griff G. Berkley, of Dayton, Ohio, becomes the next manager of freshman basket ball and Edmund O. McCabe, of Charleston, S. C., manager of freshman boxing.

Harold C. Steura, captain of boxing and conference junior middleweight champion, was given a gold boxing glove for having been a regular through three seasons. The manager's charm goes to George G. Moore, of Covington, Ky., retiring boxing manager. John J. Griffiths, of Jacksonville, Fla., received the basket ball manager's charm.

The "V" for basket ball was awarded to the following: Ned Booker, Louisville, Ky.; Lucian B. Cox, jr., Norfolk, Va.; Harold H. Gist, Fort Humphries, Va.; J. David Marrett, Louisville, Ky.; John W. Murphy, Richmond; Robert B. Nelson, jr., Winchester, Va.; Orlin W. Rogers, Dry Fork, Va.; Raymond O Smith, Belleville, N. J., and Henry J. Sturm, jr., Newport News, Va.

Class numerals were awarded the following freshmen boxers: P. J. Beattie, jr., Richmond; M. M. Caplin, Richmond Hill, N. Y.; F. J. Cramer, Philadelphia, Pa.; Herbert Eisler, New York City; H. T. Fitch, jr., Charlottesville; S. G. Gill, jr., Norfolk, Va.; J. H. Noll, Fort Wayne, Ind.; J. A. Perlinski, Atlanta, Ga.; J. M. Rutherford, Tuxedo Park, N. Y.; P. C. Rommell, Little Rock, Ark., and J. P. Stafford, jr., Easton, Md.

Senate Advances Virginia Ring Bill

Plan Ordered Engrossed Without Opposition.

Richmond, March 7 (Spl.).—Opponents pulled their punches today when the Daughton professional boxing bill was reached in the Senate on the second of three readings.

The measure was ordered engrossed without a dissenting vote. Reactionaries, however, served notice they would seek to kill the proposal when called for third reading shortly.

Fifteen-round decision bouts would be permitted by the bill. A three-man commission would be established to regulate the sport.

Warrenton Roller Hockey.

Sports followers in Warrenton, Va., will get their first look at roller skating hockey tonight when Washington's powerful Silver Flashes meet the newly organized Warrenton A. C. in the debut of the latter club.

The two clubs probably will play a return game at the Silver Spring rink on Sunday night, according to Capt. Kreh.

3d Corps Boxers Vie in Baltimore

Championship Series Is Set for March 22.

Baltimore, March 7 (Spl.).—Army boxers of the Third Corps Area will meet in Baltimore on March 22 for the annual championship series, it was announced here today at the headquarters of Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, corps area commander.

Contestants from at least ten Army posts, representing the pick of the boxing talent from nearly 10,000 soldiers, will be assembled at Fort George G. Meade, Md., on March 17 for preliminary eliminations to be held on March 19 and 20. Only the semifinals and finals will be held at Carlin's Arena in Baltimore on the night of March 22.

This year's boxing tournament will be in charge of Capt. W. G. Hilliard, Thirty-fourth Infantry, detailed as special assistant to Lieut. Col. Elvid Hunt, corps area athletic officer.

Manassas High Five Downs Lee-Jackson

Manassas, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Manassas High School, champions of Prince William County, conquered a well-spirited Lee-Jackson team here, 25 to 14. The score at the half was 10-9 in favor of visitors.

Excellent passing and ability to make shots put Manassas in the lead. Albrite, star guard, played his best game of the year. Kite led the scorers with 12 points. Sublett was the high scorer for Lee-Jackson.

Penn Avenue High Girl Burned; Out for Year

Cumberland, Md., March 7 (Spl.).—Due to serious burns, Miss Ethel Smith, forward on the Pennsylvania Avenue High School basket ball team, will be unable to play further this season. She was an outstanding player and leading scorer.

While standing with her back to a gas stove in the bathroom at her home on Virginia avenue, her clothing ignited and she ran screaming into the street. Her body was practically stripped of clothing before the flames were extinguished.

A. A. U. Lists 3 Star Fives Tonight

TWO of the most formidable 145-pound teams in Washington, and an unlimited quintet that is listed in the class of "dark horses," will display their wares tonight at Roosevelt High School Gymnasium in the District A. A. U. basket ball tournament which The Washington Post is sponsoring.

Twin Oaks Black Hawks, which is locked in a three-way tie for top honors in the minor division of the Community Center League, is one of the crack 145-pound teams, and Olmstead Grill, 1933 A. A. U. finalists, the other.

The Black Hawks, winners of more than 33 games this season, will engage the Northeast Boys Club in the opening game at 7:30, while an hour later Olmsted Grill will oppose the Georgetown Boys Club.

Mount Vernon vs. Wisconsin.

The Black Hawks were leading their league until a 40-to-20 defeat inflicted by Olmsted Grill last Saturday threw the race into a triple tie, with Katzman Tailors as the third party involved. Favored to win over the Northeast Clubbers, the Black Hawks are banking heavily on two sets of brothers—Bob and Frank Schaefer and Charles and Joe Hunter. They also have an ace in the hole in Jake Understein, who recently returned to the team after an enforced absence. Harry Cecchini and Elvin Shank are two good players from the Northeast team.

Olmsted Grill is determined to win this season. Last year Depenbrock, of K. of C., tossed a goal in the last minute of play to beat the Grill boys, 25 to 24, for the title. Bernard Reichhardt, Leo Thompson, Frederick Benham and Lee Kamp are some of the Grill stars.

Mount Vernons Rated Highly.

Mount Vernon may go far in the tournament if Ray Garber, Maurice Goubeau and Bob Gray start clicking in their shooting efforts. This Garber is a Dead-eye Dick. He is one of the best forwards in this dear old town, and should prove it tonight against Wisconsin Motors. Mount Vernon holds a victory over Bureau of Investigation.

Pompey Baseball Club Elects New Officers

Katherine Ralston, Leonard Cain, Edward Shartzer, Oscar Hansel, Earl Giles, Mary Beche, John Cain, Helen Hansel, Rose Ubras, Agnes Leake and James Fatkin were named on the entertainment committee. George Scott and William Scott compose the publicity committee.

Pompey was a member of the Allegany County League last season, but hopes to secure a berth in the Cumberland and George's Creek league this year.

Race Meet Canceled After Action of Court

Salisbury, N. C., March 7 (U.P.).—The three-week horse racing meet to have started here this month has been canceled on account of recent court action which enjoined the county commissioners from holding another election on legalizing pari-mutuel betting.

A previous election had been lost by a small margin. One hundred horses, brought here for the races, will be taken to other tracks.

Pitcher, 18, May Obtain Contract

Klumpp to Get Job if Catcher Bolton Fails to Accept Terms.

By Shirley L. Povich
(Sports Editor of The Post).

BILOXI, Miss., March 7.—Unless Clark Griffith and Joe Cronin are currying favor with the Democratic Administration by their outward display of enthusiasm over the prospects of young Andy Sierra, the 6-foot-three southpaw pitcher from over Gulfport way is the prize package among the bundle of rookies which was dumped into the Nats' training camp here.

Sierra, it is recalled, is the 18-year-old lad recommended to the Washington club by Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, whose unqualified indorsement of the boy was duly attached to the request that he be given a thorough trial.

Power in Patronage.

Now Senator Harrison is not a man to be taken lightly even in baseballdom. He has the ear of the White House and is so high in the councils of the Administration that he won the job of the collector of customs at the Port of New Orleans, La., for a native of Biloxi, Miss. That is the sort of thing that is a tip-off on Senator Harrison's patronage powers.

But, as I was saying, young Sierra is engaging the almost undivided attention of Griffith and Cronin who see eye-to-eye, apparently, in the promise of talent concealed in that huge frame that makes the Gulfport boy easily recognizable among the raft of rookies at the ball yards.

Has Chance at Contract.

He has nice action, too, to hear Griffith and Cronin tell it, and from what I hear is the only one among the dozen rookie pitchers not signed who has a ghost of a chance of being given a contract. The others will be on their merry way as soon as Cronin decides to prune the squad.

Excepted from this category, of course, are such untried rookies as Ed Chapman and Ray Primm, who cost goodly sums; Ed Linke, the fat boy who showed promise last year; Leonard Phillips and Mark Filly, who have other berths awaiting them if they fail to land with the Nats.

But Sierra is the best of the others, and that goes for Slim Mills, a young bean-pole from Mobile, who blew in last night and was issued a uniform. Cronin will try to look Mills over, but that will be difficult in view of his 6 feet 5 inches. The others, Radonovich, Schopp, Molnar, et al, are enjoying the experience, anyway.

Weaver Turns Ankle.

The feature of the abbreviated practice this morning occurred in the volley ball game. Monte Weaver turned his ankle and went down in a heap. My evil-minded colleagues of the press, who were hopeful that it was nothing trivial, were disappointed to see Monte arise almost immediately, test his ankle, and discover that nothing serious had happened. But Monte remains as the only player in camp with even a near-sense of news value.

The hardest-working fellow out there at the ball yard is Joe Cronin, himself, who you'd think was an ambitious rookie trying to make good, but the ambitious way he takes his laps around the track, tosses the medicine ball and generally sets a shining example for his underlings. Cronin is the leader of the rubber-shirt brigade which includes also Earl Whitehill and Luke Sewell.

Klumpp Promising.

One reason why Boss Griffith is acting so firmly with the recalcitrant Cliff Bolton is the presence in camp of Elmer (Yoohoo) Klumpp, a catcher on loan from the Chattanooga club, who will be the Nats' No. 3 backstop in the event Bolton hews to his determination to hold out for more of the coin of Griffith's realm.

Bolton has been silent for the past two days since he received Griffith's telegram to send no more collect wires anent the salary situation. But Bolton will be here, you can bank on that. There hasn't been a genuine holdout in the big leagues since Eddie Rousch retired to his dairy farm back in 1917.

Walking to town has replaced golf as the chief diversion of the ball players after lunch in view of the $1.60 green fee at the Biloxi links. Among the chief walkers is Ed Linke, the Chicago fat boy, who discovered that the weight he lost in the morning practice had accrued again by the time he stepped off the bus that bore the gang back to the hotel.

J. B. Snow's Delapaix Takes 'Chase in Britain

Cheltenham, Eng., March 7 (AP).—Delapaix, owned by the American, J. B. Snow, today won the Cotswold steeplechase over 2 miles by 5 lengths from V Smith's Dusky Chief and four others.

Thirteen horses started the race, but only six finished, among those falling being another American-owned horse, J. H. (Jock) Whitney's Double Crosed which went down at the last jump while leading by 6 lengths.

Soon Over Takes Florida Derby Spotlight, Scoring Neck-Victory at Hialeah

Racing Heads Disqualify Three

Garlic's Victory in 7th Ruled Out; Two Penalized in 5th Event.

HIALEAH PARK, March 7 (AP). Three disqualification marked the racing at Hialeah this afternoon, although only one winner was affected. In the seventh event, Barlic bore over and impeded Butter Beans and Just Fun in their stretch run and was first to pass the finish line. The tewards, however, nullified this victory, giving it to Caerleon, a 5-to-1 shot, and moving up Butter Beans and Just Fun to second and third, respectively.

The other horses whose day's work went to naught through the stewards' rulings were Sky Haven and Gibby's Choice, which finished second and third in the fifth event. Their numbers were taken down from the board because they ran out of the course, the race being peach won the race, paying the run on the turf in the infield.. Imfancy figures of $63.80, $24.30 and $10. The disqualifications moved Escadron, $19.60 and $9.10, to second and Off Duty to third in the official placing.

Jockey Johnny Gilbert, who is battling Earl Porter for riding honors here, rode a triple, scoring on Heiress in the first, Idle Victory in the third and Stone Martin in the last. Porter did not ride a winner.

Soon Over by Neck.

Mrs. Payne Whitney's Soon Over, strong Florida Derby candidate, making his first start since last fall at Jamaica, scored a hard-earned victory in the 6 furlongs of the Jupiter Purse here this afternoon. The son of Buchan was whipped in the final sixteenth to register by a neck over Mrs. J. Grossman's Gay Joe. L. M. Severson's Jens Son was third, two lengths behind. Soon Over was a heavy favorite on the strength of his impressive juvenile performances and recent good works, paying $3.10. His time was 1:11 1-5.

With the announcement early today that Time Supply, advance Florida Derby favorite, had been withdrawn from the closing day feature, Soon Over became more in the spotlight than ever, as he has been rated second choice. While the colt did not win as easily as his odds would imply, it was a good effort, considering his extended absence from active competition.

Draws Into Command.

Bobby Jones broke the favorite second to Eddie Lee from his inside post position. The chestnut colt quickly drew into command and opened up daylight as Gay Joe ran into the runner-up position. The latter was blocked slightly at the far turn. He overcame the trouble speedily and drew well clear of the others. Turning for home, Soon Over maintained his length advantage, while Gay Joe was the only one close enough to menace the choice. Gilbert rode Gay Joe hard in the stretch, and Jones was forced to ply the bat to Soon Over to assure victory. Jens Son made up considerable ground to be an easy third.

The finish of the opening event was so close that the result was in doubt until the official numbers were flashed. Heiress, under Johnny Gilbert's strong handling, barely lasted to nose out Ahmed. Ten lengths back came Tit Tat to earn the show. Heiress, $3.70 choice, held a substantial lead and saved ground, but Ahmed, taken a bid wide turning for home, closed resolutely and would have won in another jump.

Gallic Pays $19.30.

Form players received one of the worst setbacks of the meeting when the heavily weighted Claremont bowed to the stretch challenge of Gallic, one that returned $19.30. A neck separated the pair, while The King was beaten five lengths for the place.

Idle Victory, speedy filly in the stable of Mrs. H. D. Cox, won her second straight purse in the juvenile dash, third on the card. It was the ninth start for the daughter of Victorian and the ninth time she has finished in the money. Johnny Gilbert was in the saddle and rang up a double without much trouble, the Kansas boy breaking his mount on top and never being in danger. Cheka finished fast under punishment but could only come within three lengths of the winner, which returned $4.30. Greenstone was third, an additional length away.

Johnny Gilbert completed a triple as a result of his victory astride the $13.80 shot Stone Martin, which won the nightcap by 3 lengths from One Chance. Fingal was third.

Tide in the Bay of Fundy rises higher than at any other point on the coast. Its rise and fall are so great that water rushes through parts of the bay at 60 miles an hour when the tide comes in. Boat owners make use of the tide as a natural drydock. They can leave their boats near shore while the tide is in, then remove barnacles while the tide is out.

Any one who has tried it knows that an ordinary water glass will make a musical tone if rubbed with the moistened finger. Benjamin Franklin made use of this fact in the invention of his strange musical instrument which he called the "armonica." In this instrument he mounted several glasses of different diameters on a common shaft which could be turned by a treadle. These glasses were tuned by grinding the edges until they represented notes on the musical scale.

The instrument was played by rapidly turning the glasses, which were wet with rain water, and holding the fingers against one and another of the glasses. Franklin's "armonica" is now in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

Gasoline, according to Dr. George Granger Brown, professor of chemical engineering at the University of Michigan, is 10 times as powerful as T. N. T. as an explosive. Even if the explosive powers of T. N. T. could be controlled, as can gasoline, it would make a rather poor motor fuel.

Dear Al: Hialeah Race Track, March 7.

The most unusual pet hereabouts is a duck at the C. Hudson barn. And he cares nothing for other members of the duck family. In fact, he became detached from the duck family rather prematurely. Owner Hudson put an egg under a hen over at Bainbridge Park two years ago and it wasn't long before "Sam" was wobbling around the stables. Hudson thought it would be a good idea to let Sam break into the high society of duckdom by placing him in the lavish infield lake with a covey of his kind. Everything was all right until Sam heard the hoof beats of a field of galloping horses. He left his feathered cousins flat and ran quacking down the beckstretch behind the field. Two winners and four seconds for the boy today.

BILL.

First race—Bartering Kate figures right on top of this field and, with Meade to do the booting, I believe we shall start the day with a winner. Piety appears to be the one to beat. Knight's Hope may be the surprise package of the race.

Second race—An army of youngsters marches postward in this, and one guess is as good an another. On cold dope it looks like Gobet, Aperitiff and Bank Holiday to complete the money circle.

Third race—Chain ran a swell race for me to defeat a fair field, and I'm sending him against these with high hopes. Dark Conquest and Chu Chu for the rest. The last named has a fighting chance to score at good odds.

Fourth race—Pardee gets the Bennings call over Porter's Dream and My Purchase. This trio figures bsst. Fairly Wild will be on top if a distinct upset is recorded. This one is in smart hands.

Fifth race—Quel Jeu gets in this with only 100 pounds and thus rigged deserves the choice over the speedy Monel. Hokuao, the Hawaiian horse, for the show.

Sixth race—I'm going to try to make Moralist upset these. Clocker Mike tells me I'm all wet about this one being through. One more chance for him. Lone Hand's last was a beaut. Boy Crazy may have Catrone up and that possibility lets him out.

Seventh race — Mountain Elk seems best suited in the final. He will have Haggerson and Triangular to handle in the stretch.

LaSalle Five Closes Season With Victory

Cumberland, Md., March 7 (Spl.). La Salle Institute basket ball team concluded its Western Maryland Interscholastic League season with a record of eight victories and four defeats and clinched third place in the standings by trouncing Bruce High School, 52 to 17, here.

The Institute scored 21 field goals while Bruce was being held to four double-deckers. The game was a rough one and Referee Dick Johnson called a total of 31 personal fouls, 20 on La Salle and 11 on Bruce.

Chart of Hialeah Park Races

(Associated Press, Wednesday, March 7, 1934.)

WEATHER, CLEAR. TRACK, FAST.

FIRST RACE—One mile (out of chute). Purse, $800; claiming prices, $2,500 to $2,000. For maidens, 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 2:18½. Off at 2:22. Winner, Albert Sabath's br. f. (4), by Bunting—Dixie Bird. Trained by B. S. Mitchell. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:39.

BELL MAN	99½	4	6	6	6	5	5°	5°	Litzenberger	9.40
JANE FOSTER	89	6	5	4½	4°	6°	6	6	Roberts	31.10

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HEIRESS, $3.70, $2.20, $2.20; AHMED, $2.30, $2.50; TIT TAT, $6.20.

HEIRESS broke running, opened a long lead, saved ground and just lasted to win. AHMED was hard ridden the last half mile, came wide entering stretch, closed gamely, but failed to get up. TIT TAT began to move up around turn and was best of the others. FOXIE SIS had no mishap. JANE FOSTER had speed for five furlongs.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $700; claiming prices, $2,000 to $1,500. The Helpful. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 2:52. Off at 2:56½. Winner, C. A. Hanson's b. g. (4), by Galetian—Gay Gold. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:11 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GALLIC, $19.30, $4.50, $2.60; CLAREMONT, $2.70, $2.30; THE KING, $2.70.

GALLIC broke well, was kept on the inside all the way, finally got through at sixteenth pole and drew away. CLAREMONT handled his weight, raced THE KING into defeat in first half mile, but could not stall off the determined bid of the winner. THE KING had plenty of early speed, but tired under the weight. TREMOLO lacked early speed.

THIRD RACE—Three furlongs (straightaway), nursery course. Purse, $700; claiming price, $2,500. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:21½. Off at 3:25. Winner, Mrs. H. Wm. Vic-Noon Tide. Trained by H. D. Cox. Value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:34 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—IDLE VICTORY, $4.30, $2.30, $2.20; CHEKA, $2.50, $2.40; GREENSTONE, $6.50.

IDLE VICTORY got away flying, opened wide lead, came down the middle of the track and easily held race safe. CHEKA was a bit slow to get into his stride, closed gamely under the whip. GREENSTONE, away alertly and hard ridden, held on well. MICKEY'S MAN had no mishap. BLACKBIRDER was placed out of the stalls, broke slow, and lacked speed.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming price, $1,500. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:31½. Off at 3:36. Winner, J. E. Smallman's blk. f. (4), by Haste—Stephanie. Trained by G. Alexandra. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:11 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—QUICKLY, $7.50, $3.90, $2.80; HAPPY SCOT, $3.80, $2.90; WEDDING RING, $3.30.

QUICKLY broke very fast, was sent to the front with a rush, opened wide gap and easily held race safe. HAPPY SCOT broke slow, but was kept on the outside and finished with a rush. WEDDING RING was initially alone from the start and had no excuse. VISHNU followed pace closely for five furlongs and then quit. TWO TRICKS was outrun. ENERGETIC BOY ran away below best form.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles (on the turf). Purse, $800; claiming prices, $1,500 to $1,200. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start poor. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:24½. Off at 4:25. Winner, S. d. Loomis' b. g. (5), by Galetian—Blame. Trained by S. Burnside. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:47 2-5.

†Disqualified.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—IMPEACH, $63.80, $24.30, $10.00; ESCADRON, $19.60, $9.10; OFF DUTY, $3.90.

IMPEACH, showing marked improvement over recent races, moved up fast around turn, but was blocked, then came to the outside and finished with a rush. SKY HAVEN was unprepared for the start, moved up fast and opened lead entering the stretch, but bothered GIBBY'S CHOICE forcing the latter out of the course, for which he was disqualified. GIBBY'S CHOICE had plenty of speed, but was crowded off the course and was disqualified. ESCADRON was bothered some going into first turn. HIGH PROOF also suffered interference when DORNOCH ran out on turn. DUTY trailed far back. DORNOCH ran out on first turn, jumped the rail, and then pulled up.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000. The Junior. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 4:55. Off at 4:57½. Winner, Greentree Stable's ch. c. (3), by Buchan—Fleeting Dawn. Trained by M. C. Lilly. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:11 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SOON OVER, $3.10, $2.70, $2.30; GAY JOE, $5.70, $2.90; JENS SON, $2.30.

SOON OVER ran good race for first effort. He broke fast, rushed to the front, but had to stand a long drive to win. GAY JOE was blocked around turn, but came to the outside and was gaining the winner down. JENS SON trailed field to the stretch and closed very fast in final furlong. FIRE MASK was on the outside all the way. EDDIE LEE had speed for three furlongs and then quit.

Stocks Driven Into Declines Of 2.2 Points

Activity Speeds Up Under Drop and Sales Rise to 1,747,330 Shares.

New York, March 7 (AP).—Except for gains in U. S. Government obligations and steadiness of high-grade corporation loans, the direction of markets was generally downward today.

Stocks plodded along at fairly firm prices for a couple of hours, but declined in the afternoon following publication of reports that Gen. Johnson favored a 10 per cent cut, by Executive order, in hours of workers employed in such code industries as could afford the reduction.

The closing found many net losses of 1 to 3 points. Activity increased on the decline and turnover of 1,747,330 shares was nearly a million larger than yesterday's wheat, cotton and silver sag.

Move to Revise Hours.

The move toward a further revision of hours, with a compensating pay increase, attracted much attention in market circles which immediately raised the question of what effect action toward raising costs would have on the return to industry.

Market circles also noted the White House expression of confidence that a regulatory measure for stock exchanges would be passed before Congress adjourns, although there was no indication of the President's attitude toward the Fletcher-Rayburn bill.

Stock market pressure was rather equitably distributed among the major groups.

Old and New Favorites.

Some favorites, both old and new, managed to progress, among them International Nickel and Philip Morris, but most old-line leaders sagged when much pressure was applied. Chemicals, steels, rails, metals, merchandising issues, motors, farm implements and the general run of tobaccos, as well as utilities, fell back more or less consistently.

Among the maximum losers were Allied Chemical, American Tobacco "B," Liggett & Myers "B," Case and Du Pont, which yielded around 3. Douglas Aircraft, Motor Products, Chrysler, Santa Fe, American Can and Union Pacific dipped 2 or more. Final prices were somewhat above the lows in many instances.

Perplexities of the moment were accompanied by a number of favorable trade reports. Iron Age said steel production had risen 2 points to 49 per cent and that Detroit area mills were working at capacity.

Further Expansion Seen.

The review thought prospects favored further expansion "unless labor difficulties grow more serious." Electric power production last week had the largest percentage rise over the previous year since July, 1929, and several chain stores reported substantial gains in sales volume over 1933.

Freight traffic appears to have recovered from the effects of recent widespread storms. Comparisons with a year ago are now being made against a period of highly abnormal business activity.

One particularly favorable report was that of Montgomery Ward for February; its sales increase of 52.2 per cent was said to have been the largest since May, 1923. American Telephone's long lines revenues for January increased nearly $1,100,000 from 1933.

The rise in United States Government loans appeared to reflect expectations of favorable terms for new financing, as well as reports, which later proved to be correct, that the amount sought by the Treasury might be smaller than had been anticipated.

Robey's Review

Finance Economics Business

Secretary Wallace's Analysis of Our Problems Hits at a Basic Shortcoming in the Policies We Have Followed During the Last Year.

By Ralph West Robey.

Secretary Wallace's delineation of the problems confronting this country probably is too simple to appeal to most economic students. Through its simplicity, however, it gains a force which would not be possible if an attempt were made to analyze the problems in more detail. Because of this, it seems to me, the public should be profoundly grateful to the Secretary of Agriculture. He, to a degree not found in the case of any other member of this Administration, faces facts and discusses probable consequences of this or that policy with frankness.

His latest action in this connection was his speech this week in New York at the first hearing of the Commission of Inquiry on National Policy in International Economic Relations, a Rockefeller Foundation project. Earlier he had presented his views in a pamphlet called "America Must Choose," published by the Foreign Policy Association. His thesis, in brief, is comparatively simple. It is that there are three roads that the United States may travel and that it is absolutely imperative that we make up our minds which of these we are to take and stick to it. It is his view that unless we do make this decision the country may be driven to "genuinely uncontrolled inflation" with all that that involves.

Extremes Are Nationalism and Internationalism.

The three paths between which we must choose are, first, nationalism, leading to a self-contained economy; second, broad internationalism, and third, a carefully planned middle course.

If we take the first course, it means the virtual elimination of foreign trade. This, in turn, will necessitate, Secretary Wallace says, the withdrawal of perhaps 50,000,000 acres of land from cultivation.

The second course means, according to the Secretary, the importation of, say, $1,000,000,000 more goods than in 1929. This will necessitate a reduction of tariffs and the working out of such international relationships as are necessary to permit the opening of our markets to such a flood of products.

The third course means cutting midway between these two extremes. It would involve, on the one side, the withdrawal of, say, 25,000,000 acres from cultivation and, on the other side, the importation of some $500,000,000 more of goods than in 1929.

The Secretary himself, he says, leans toward internationalism. As a practical expedient, nevertheless, he follows the intermediate course.

Now, quite obviously, it would be simple to raise many objections to such an approach. One could question, for example, the figure of 50,000,000 as the number of acres that needs to be withdrawn from cultivation, or the $1,000,000,000 as the amount of additional imports that we must have. Or, again, he could maintain that the possibility of a planned middle course involves a regimenting of all business and control of all trade in a way that the American public would not countenance. Such objections, nevertheless, it seems to me, are completely beside the point.

In other words, the issue raised by Secretary Wallace simply is whether we are going to develop an economic philosophy and follow that philosophy or whether we are going to continue to stumble around experimenting first with this and then with that, without ever deciding where we are going. At present and for the past year we have been doing the latter. We have had neither a policy consistently developed with a view of becoming entirely nationalistic, nor a policy leading to a reopening of world markets, nor a policy giving us any rational middle course.

Which of these three alternatives we should adopt as a National policy may be an open question. My own feeling agrees with that of Secretary Wallace. The important thing at the moment, nevertheless, is for the American public, and, through it, the Administration to make its decision one way or the other and then drive in that direction with sufficient vigor to wipe out the disturbing inconsistencies that delay whatever degree of recovery might be attained along either route.

Curb Records Small Losses In Wide Range

Utilities, Oils and Alcohols Among Declines; Sales, 303,000 Shares.

New York, March 7 (AP).—Losses of fractions to around a point or so predominated at the close of the curb market today. Declines embraced a wide range of issues, including utilities, oils, metals and alcohols.

Trading was dull in the forenoon and the trend fairly steady. Activity increased as selling tendencies gained momentum in the late dealings. Closing prices were around the low levels for the day.

Natomas Co. virtually canceled its 5-point advance of yesterday. Aluminum Company of America and General Tire & Rubber lost 3½ and 4¼ points, respectively, on small offerings. Losses of major fractions to more than a point were shown by Hiram Walker, Electric Bond & Share, Distillers Corporation-Seagrams, Butler Bros. (new), Fisk Rubber, Humble Oil, United Gas preferred, Tubize Chatillon, A. A. O. Smith, Newmont, New Jersey Zinc and American Gas & Electric.

Transfers approximated 303,000 shares compared with 225,000 for yesterday.

U. S. Debt Jumps 5 Billion in Year

(Associated Press.)

Recovery spending increased the United States public debt more than $5,000,000,000 during one year of President Roosevelt's Administration.

Figures for March 5, the comparable date for last year's inauguration, put the public debt at $26,052,457,179, as compared with $20,936,058,784 a year ago.

The cash balance, however, was $4,874,633,950, while last year the Treasury's ready cash was less than $200,000,000. In this year's large balance is counted $2,810,047,708 of profit on dollar devaluation which the Treasury has segregated from its ordinary spending funds.

Ludlum Steel $161,000 Net Stops Losses

New York, March, 7 (AP).—Net earnings of Ludlum Steel Co. in 1933 amounted to $161,000 after charges, compared with net loss of $474,000 in 1932. Current assets at the end of the year amounted to $2,800,000, including $524,000 in cash.

Directors of Tri-Continental Corporation have declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the $6 cumulative preferred st

Cotton Prices React Under Liquidation

March Closes at 11.98 as General Market Drops 3 to 10 Points.

New York, March 7 (AP).—Cotton futures reacted late today under realizing or liquidation promoted by the easier ruling of the grain and stock market. July deliveries, after selling up to 12.38 on early trading broke to 12.16 during the afternoon, and closed at 12.20, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 3 to 10 points.

The opening was quiet at an advance of 2 to 4 points and active months showed net gains of 8 to 10 points shortly after the call on a moderate trade and commission house demand encouraged by the relatively steady showing of Liverpool.

Selling More Active.

In the afternoon selling became more active when sentiment was influenced by the action of the stock market, and houses with Wall street connections were among the sellers. May broke to 12.05, October to 12.26, but closing prices were a few points up from the lowest.

Part of the early buying was attributed to expectations that the Bankhead bill would be taken up in the House tomorrow, but there seemed a disposition to await further developments in that connection.

The decline in the stock market and a question as to the effect of proposed shorter working hours in industry if adopted, on costs and distribution of textiles seemed to have an unsettling effect on sentiment in some quarters. Exports today, 10,791, making 5,743,131 so far this season. Port receipts, 8,044. U. S. port stocks, 3,311,396.

Mexico's Oil Yield Sets Peak After 13 Years

For the first time since 1921, Mexico's production of petroleum in 1933 registered an increase over the preceding year, according to a report from Vice Consul W. P. Cochran, jr., Mexico City, made public by the Commerce Department.

Total production from Mexican wells in 1933 amounted to 34,000,000 barrels, compared with 32,805,000 barrels in 1932 and 33,038,853 barrels in 1931. The value of the 1933 production was 90,636,000 pesos.

While the volume of petroleum increased 3.65 per cent in 1933, the increase in value was 19.75 per cent. It is confidently expected by the Mexican petroleum industry, the report states, that rising prices and a firm and growing demand, both at home and abroad, will result in 1934 being a very favorable year.

During 1933, 93 wells were drilled in Mexico, 53 of which were productive, compared with 50 wells driven and 31 productive in 1932. Petroleum exports from Mexico during 1933 registered a slight decline, dropping from 22,597,137 barrels in 1932 to 22,020,573 barrels. It is estimated that local consumption of petroleum products during 1933 amounted to 12,225,000 barrels, an increase of 459,000 barrels compared with 1932.

Power Production Rises 16.5 Per Cent

Largest Percentage Gain Since July, 1929; Activity Up.

New York, March 7 (AP).—There was a rise of 16.5 per cent in electric power output last week over the corresponding week last year, the Edison Electric Institute reported today. This was the largest percentage gain reported since July, 1929, and reflected further gains in industrial activity in conjunction with the subnormal conditions prevailing a year ago.

The week's outturn of 1,658,040,000 kilowatt hours came back to about the peak level of 1933, established in September.

In the preceding week, which included Washington's birthday, output was 1,646,465,000 kilowatt hours. Production in the corresponding week last year was 1,422,875,000, which was near the low occasioned by the industrial paralysis resulting from the banking crisis.

In the New England region output was up 15.7 per cent over last year, against a rise of 14.2 per cent in the previous week; Middle Atlantic was up 15.3 per cent against 14.4 per cent; Central Industrial, up 24.6 against 24.7; West Central, up 10 against 7.5; Southern States, up 11.9 against 4.1; Rocky Mountain, up 12.2 against 16.3; Pacific Coast, up 7.7 against 12.5.

Steel Rails Ordered.

New York, March 7 (AP).—The Chicago & Northwestern Railroad has placed orders for 25,000 tons of steel rails and 4,000 tons of tie plates among various steel companies. The Chicago & Eastern Illinois has ordered 4,000 tons of rails.

Trade Trends.

(Associated Press.)

Cotton goods—Reports from New England yarn manufacturing centers say that consumers are not inclined to buy far ahead, and that manufacturers are showing reluctance to book further orders in view of a possible further shortening of operating schedules.

Dyestuffs—Some items show considerable activity, notably benzol, in which a substantial volume of business is passing in connection with replacement of depleted stocks.

Cocoa—Imports of cocoa beans at New York, Boston and Philadelphia for the first two months this year aggregated 555,049 bags, compared with 714,327 for the same period last year.

Tin—Trade authorities regard current purchases as small, in comparison with high rate of tin-plate mill operations and consumption. Prices continue steady in spite of the small buying interest.

Textiles—"Activitiy in general business and in the textile industry registered gains during January, and indications are that for the next couple of months, at least, general business activity will continue to increase rather strongly," says the Textile Organ, published by the Rubize Chatillon Corporation.

Baltimore Grain Prices.

Baltimore, March 7.—WHEAT—Receipts, 4,917 bushels by car. Shipments from elevators, 11,580 bushels. Stock in elevators, 930,492 bushels. Spot prices were: No. 2 red winter, sarlicky, spot, domestic, 84½; March delivery, domestic, 94½. Settling prices: No. 2 red winter, sarlicky, spot, domestic, 95. Receipts of wheat running light and demand is fairly good here for No. 2 red winter, sarlicky. Off grades hard to sell.

CORN—Receipts, 4,730 bushels by car. Shipments from elevators, 382 bushels. Stock in elevators, 5,173 bushels. Receipts of corn from the nearby sections have recently been running light. For yellow and high-colored mixed there is a fair domestic demand. Cob corn quoted at 2.75@3.00 per barrel for carloads prime nearly yellow on spot. Offerings more than ample for present needs. No. 2 yellow corn (old) arriving here by car quoted at 65@66 per bushel with transient billing.

OATS—Receipts, 1,599 bushels by car. Shipments from elevators, 3,204 bushels. Stock in elevators, 84,515 bushels. Receipts of oats show considerable variation in weight, being mostly light. Demand fair in a jobbing way. Good heavyweight oats are relatively scarce and such command a good premium. No. 2 white oats, 47@51 per bushel as to weight and location.

Note—On all sales of oats to the local trade, excepting those on track, there is an additional charge of 1½ cents per bushel for storage and elevation, which is paid by the buyer.

RYE—Receipts, 2,752 bushels by car. Shipments from elevators, 200 bushels. Stock in elevators 27,661 bushels.

HAY—General hay market is quiet. No surplus of good timothy. Prices range from 12.00 to 14.00 per ton, as to grade and kind. The poorer grades of hay are hard to sell at any price. Market irregular on everything below 1 timothy.

Richmond Markets.

Richmond, Va., March 7 (A.P.).—FRUITS AND VEGETABLES — Prices quoted are for sales made to retail merchants in small jobbing lots. Large wholesale deals, and carlot sales are not quoted.) Northern grown No. 1 potatoes in 100-lb. sack packs, 2.50@2.60; Virginia sweet potatoes, 1.25. New crop cabbages, 1½ bushel hamper packs, 1.25@1.50. Onions in 50-lb. sack packs, No. 1 stock, 1.60. Canada Sells More Bonds in Past Month

New York, March 7.—The Canadian bond issues in February amounted to $3,350,654, as compared with $649,000 in February, 1933, according to figures compiled by Dominion Securities Corporation.

The largest issue sold during the month was a $3,000,000 loan of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario. This issue and loans of various small municipalities, amounting to $350,654, were all payable in Canadian funds only and were placed in Canada.

Provincial...	$43,799,000	$13,000,000
Municipal...	350,654	1,412,610
Public Utilis..	3,000,000	6,625,000
	$47,149,654	$21,037,610

The bond market in Canada during February continued to show the same strong position which it maintained during the latter part of 1933. Of particular importance during the month has been the improvement in the bonds of the western provinces.

For example, the Province of Saskatchewan 5½s due November 15, 1946, have improved almost 5 points since February 1.

Weekly Food Prices Pushed Higher in Week

New York, March 7.—Although some reactionary tendencies were visible in commodity markets, as a whole, during the past week, prices for foodstuffs maintained their relatively high levels. Marking its tenth consecutive weekly gain, the Weekly Food Index, compiled by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., advanced 1 cent to $2.15 for February 27, the highest since October, 1931 and comparing with $1.49 for the same week of 1933. The latest index shows a rise of 44.3 per cent over the comparable 1933 week and is 20 per cent higher than the figure for the like week of 1932.

Contributing to the increase in this week's index were advances in rye, corn, bellies, lard, butter, eggs, potatoes, steers, hogs and lambs. On the other hand, flour, wheat, oats, barley, hams, sugar, coffee, and sheep displayed slight declines.

The Dun & Bradstreet Weekly Food Index of wholesale prices (the sum total of the price per pound of 31 articles in common use), compared with preceding weeks and years, is given herewith:

Cuba Sugar Exports Rise 94,672 Tons

New York, March 7.—Exports of sugar from Cuba since the beginning of the year to March 3 totaled 223,130 long tons raw sugar value, as compared with 138,458 tons during the similar period last year, an increase of 94,672 tons, or a little over 68 per cent, according to Lamborn & Co.

To the United States there were shipped 186,823 tons as against 124,711 tons for the same period in 1933, an increase of 62,112 tons or 49.8 per cent. To other destinations, principally United Kingdom and France, the exports amounted to 36,307 tons, as contrasted with 13,747 tons shipped during the same period last year, an increase of 22,560 tons.

Sugar stocks in Cuba on March 3 approximated 1,103,356 tons, while on the same date last year 2,237,317 tons were on hand. One hundred and one mills had started grinding the 1934 sugar crop by March 3, while last year 123 mills had started by this time.

U. S. Exports Of Paper Cut Eight Per Cent

Exports of paper and paper manufactures from the United States during January registered a decline of 8 per cent in value, as compared with December, but an increase of 48 per cent, compared with January, 1933, according to figures compiled in the Commerce Department's forest products division.

Total shipments of such items during January, 1934, were valued at $1,500,775, as against $1,631,086 in December and $1,011,726 in January, 1933.

Eliminating insulating and wall boards, wall paper and "other paper and paper products," the volume of exports of paper and paper manufactures in January, 1934, amounted to 18,573 short tons, as compared with 23,110 tons during December and 12,629 tons during January, 1933.

The above figures indicate that the decrease in volume in January, compared with the preceding month, was somewhat greater than the decrease in aggregate value. This is partly explained by the fact that the heaviest decreases occurred in such relatively low-priced items as newsprint, boards and overissue newspapers. Compared with January, 1933, the change in value is more representative of the change in the volume of shipments. It is of interest to note in this connection that most items show an increase, exceptions being bristols and other paper boards, boxes and cartons and a few specialty items.

The decline in January exports of paper products, the report states, is to be expected, in view of the fact that there is generally a lull in shipments after the holiday season.

Radio Waves and Ripples

PROBABLY for the first time in the history of commercial broadcasting a sponsored program has been put on the air in anticipation of reaching only a small portion of its regular audience.

It was the Seth Parker broadcast Tuesday night.

While thousands of listeners turned their dials to pick up Phil Lord and the crew of his round-the-world schooner "Seth Parker" on their regular spot on National's "red" network, N.B.C. was switching the program to the "blue." No announcement was made. Seth Parker adherents dialed in vain. A comparatively small audience heard the program by chance.

National's desire for a small audience arose from the uncertainty of its engineers over the results of the first short-wave broadcast from Lord's ship. They might have saved themselves the trouble, however. Everything came through fine via San Francisco and New York.

Between Walter Winchell whistling on Arthur Godfrey's Sun Dial broadcast from New York and Willis Huggins, late of Winnie, Willie and Hal, getting a job as a Columbia sustaining performer, WJSV had just about as much excitement yesterday as we would consider safe for people whose nerves and hearts probably aren't any too good, anyway.

Winchell didn't only whistle with Godfrey. He helped Arthur, worked right along with him. He played records! He wisecracked! He sang! Why, he said his sponsors on that N.B.C. commercial probably would raise the very deuce, and he didn't even care! What do you think of that, hey?

Willie Huggins came up from Roanoke one day last October when WJSV had a half hour hole to fill and nothing much to put in it except a radio editor and a couple of announcers who seemed to think the situation very funny. Willie said he could sing. They put him on, and he could sing.

A month or so later he was singing for an auto dealer until the dealer discovered the continuity in the act was supposed to be funny.

Willie came up to WJSV to see Announcer Harold Gray. He went to New York last week to see the Statue of Liberty and Columbia studios. Someone suggested an audition and someone else a two-year contract. His premiere performance is tomorrow afternoon at 4, with Mark Warnow's orchestra.

Good gosh!

National took steps yesterday to halt the exodus of listeners from its networks to Columbia Friday afternoons when the Philadelphia Orchestra is playing in Carnegie Hall by engaging the Boston Symphony Orchestra for a series of Friday concerts to begin at 2:30 p. m.

Locally, this means that Marine Band partisans must do without the 3 to 4 p. m. concerts that have been a regular WMAL feature for several months.

Less pres-agented than Stokowsky's organization, the Boston Symphony is one of the oldest units of this kind in the Nation, and one of the finest. N.B.C. minds expect their "blue" network to hold its own Friday afternoons hereafter.

There won't be much trouble about that this week. The Philadelphia, which was to go on the air tomorrow afternoon, with Violin Virtuoso Yehudi Menuhin as soloist, has been canceled.

Things around Woodridge, D. C. have been pretty dull for W. W. Stevens. N.B.C.'s Washington offices have a card from Mr. Stevens saying he thought the Hawaiian broadcast was fine but wished they had thrown noises of a volcano erupting and Floyd Gibbons announcing to brighten it up a bit.

Arthur Bernard calls himself the "North Carolina Poet." But for the sake of a WRC Saturday night broadcast he'd just as soon string along as "Lights and Shadows" for ten minutes of verse reading, beginning at 11:20.

Wool Prices Barely Firm; Quiet Market

Boston, March 7.—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston says:

"The wool market has passed through another quiet week. Scattered purchases of clean-up lots of fine and fine medium territory wools are reported by top makers at prices which are barely firm. Some interest is shown now and again in woolen wools, but there is no snap to trading.

"Some little contracting is reported in the West now and again at around 30 cents, but nothing momentous has occurred in the new clip.

"Foreign markets are quieter and inclined to wait the next London opening Tuesday, when prices are expected to rule 5 to 15 per cent under the close of the last London series.

"The piece-goods markets are slow. Retailers are making heavy price reductions in their winter clothing sale in the effort to move it. Spinners and combers still complain of the difficulty in getting shipping instructions against old contracts.

The Commercial Bulletin will publish the following quotations:

Mild Shake-up Plan Approved By Swanson

Vinson to Push Sharp Revision Bill Despite Department Move.

Proponents of radical changes in the Navy Department's present set-up were doomed to disappointment yesterday as Secretary Swanson announced his approval of a mild form of reorganization proposed by a special board headed by Assistant Secretary Roosevelt.

While the Secretary declined to reveal details of the Roosevelt board's long-awaited report, he said that reforms would be more in the nature of a "clarification of authority."

"We expect to cut a few heads off," the Secretary said, "but that is to be expected." He said the Roosevelt plan was drawn along two basic principles—economy and efficiency.

Meanwhile, at the Capital, Chairman Vinson of the House Naval Affairs Committee was preparing to push his Navy reorganization plan. The Vinson plan was understood to provide a drastic shake-up of administrative naval offices.

Opposition in official naval quarters to the Vinson plan developed almost immediately following introduction of his reorganization bill several weeks ago. It centered principally around provisions of the Vincent plan which would virtually put the Chief of Naval Operations, a post now held by Admiral William H. Standley, in complete charge of the Navy, superior in authority in many instances to the Secretary.

Informed of the Navy Department's plans, Chairman Vinson said:

"I am conceited enough to think my bill's a good bill, and I intend to see that action is taken before we go home this spring."

First Lady Hops To Virgin Isles On Indies Tour

New St. Thomas Hospital Is Named for Her; Studies Natives.

St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, March 7 (U.P.).—Flying over Tropical lands bordering the Caribbean Sea, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt reached here tonight for a visit to the Virgin Islands.

The President's wife flew here from San Juan, Puerto Rico, through heavy downpours which delayed the Pan-American plane, American Clipper, in which she is making an aerial tour of the West Indies.

United States Governor Paul M. Pearson met her in San Juan, and flew with Mrs. Roosevelt to St. Thomas, where the party arrived at 3:09 after a 75-mile flight from Puerto Rico.

Sees Native Rituals.

On arrival, a native band struck up "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," traditional symbol of Negro freedom.

Mrs. Roosevelt witnessed native ceremonies despite the rain, at the formal naming of a new hospital building "Anna Eleanor Roosevelt." The First Lady dined at Government house where she will stop, and was guest of honor at a formal reception tonight.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she planned to make a short flight to other islands in the Virgin group tomorrow before returning to San Juan. Her program here will include a study of Virgin Islands education.

The President's wife also expressed interest in economic improvement, particularly through the oil and rum industries.

Haiti Starting Point.

The arrival at St. Thomas ended a day's flying, starting at 6:30 a. m. at Port Au Prince, Haiti, where Mrs. Roosevelt spent last night. The big plane made one halt of 20 minutes at San Pedro Macoris, Santo Domingo.

Nine U. S. Marine planes escorted her from Port Au Prince to the Dominican border.

Distiller Asks Aid Against Bootlegger

Urges Tariff Cut to Avoid Semi-Poisonous Liquor.

Chicago, March 7 (AP).—The manager of one of the world's biggest distilleries today told the Government that the liquor industry needed some help in fighting the bootlegger. He urged that the industry itself unite in opposing the saloon.

"We promised the public that repeal wouldn't bring back the saloon," said William E. Hull, general manager of the Hiram Walker Distillery at Peoria, "and we must keep that promise."

The best way the Government could help kee bootleggers and manufacturers of cheap and often semi-poisonous liquor ouf business, Hull said, would be to cut half the import duty of $5 a gallon on aged whisky from Canada.

Rotary Club Greets 100 NRA Visitors

Approximately 100 Rotarians, here on NRA code missions, attended the Washington Rotary Club's luncheon at the Willard Hotel yesterday and listened to reports of the social welfare activities of the local group.

Dr. David E. Buckingham told of the Rotary Club's work in founding the Georgetown Boys' Club and in financing certain health activities. These activities have since been taken over by the Community Chest.

Board Urges Halt in Auto Plant Strike

Labor Officials to Seek Arbitration; Alabama Miners Lose Move.

(Associated Press.)

An agreement to postpone a threatened walkout of 10,000 automobile workkers in Detroit pending the outcome of conferences here next Wednesdayq was sought by the National Labor Board yesterday.

James F. Dewey, representative of the board, was in Detroit attempting to persuade employes of the Hudson Motor Cr Co. to withhold strike plans in line with an agreement he negotiated at Flint, Mich., affecting nearly 20,000 workers of the Fisher Body Corporation and the Buick Motor Co.

A proposed strike vote yesterday by 7,000 employes of the Fisher Body Co. at Cleveland was called off by agreement of union officials and Ralph A. Lind, of the regional labor board.

Meanwhile, striking miners in Alabama coal fields were ordered to return to work next Monday in a 2-to-1 decision of the coal labor board, division No. 3. The board held the men walked out in violation of the bituminous code without attempting to negotiate their dispute with the operators over the "check off" system of collecting uion dues. Strikes affecting more than 7,000 Alabama miners have been called in the last two weeks.

Union machinsts, tool and die makers at the plant of the Toledo Machine and Tool Co. went on strike yesterday, adding to the list of industrial troubles in Ohio. Union leaders said 500 left their jobs, but the company declared the number was only about 250.

A shortage of skilled metal trades workers was reported in Cleveland, partly as a result of heavy production by the automotive industry. Union leadrs declared, however, that some of the plants were not paying enough to attract skilled men.

At Conneaut, Ohio, the plant of the Walter A. Goldsmith Co. was closed with 100 women on strike; 900 workers of the Selby Shoe Co were idle at Ironton, Ohio; the Roger W. Griswold Greenhouses at Ashtabula, Ohio, were being picketed, and two persons wer injured in a clash at East Liverpool, Ohio, growing out of a strike of pottery workers.

Kidnap Notes Laid to Strewl

Handwriting Expert Holds "Go-Between" Wrote Letters Himself.

Albany, N. Y., March 7 (AP).—Peculiarities of penmanship were pointed out in court today by a handwriting expert as evidence that Manny Strawl wrote the ransom letters in th eJohn J. O'Connell, jr., kidnaping.

Huge enlarged photographs of letters and words appearing in the kidnapers' communications were hung on easels, 6 feet high, before the jury.

Dr. Albert S. Osborn, handwriting expert, explained his reason for declaring Strewl wrote the notes. One note threatened death unless $250,000 was paid. Eventually the abductors freed O'Connell on July 29 for $40,000, after 22 days.

Doumergue to Let War Debts Sleep

Reports of Payment Plan Are Discounted.

Paris, March 7 (AP).—The cabinet of Premier Gaston Doumergue today decided to let the troublesome question of war debts sleep.

His four-man foreign policy directory fears a discussion of a course of action on the problem would be like waving a red flag before the continued hostility of the Chamber of Deputies toward payment.

Officials said there were no foundations to rumors in chamber lobbies that the government is considering regularizing the American debt, possibly by a token payment.

Various Types of Engineers Operate Federal Machinery

From Cartographic Kind to Ceramic, They Work in Many Bureaus.

It takes all sorts of engineers to run the United States Government, speaking literally.

Civil Service Commission lists show at least 25 different kinds of engineers included in the Federal personnel. In the formal style of the commission's listings, they run a broad range of designation.

Leading off is the class simply listed as "engineer," the only one of all which conforms to the popular and old-fashioned conception of the word. Men in that position, in short, are those whose daily work is linked with the operation of engines.

Passing the simple and unadorned designation, however, strange and unexpected titles are encountered in abundance.

Most laymen have to take a trip to the dictionary to get an idea of the sort of work done by a "cartographic engineer." The Federal list furnishes a clew, of course, by indicating that the position is one of those in the Coast and Geodetic Survey and other Government units which have map-making as one of their operations.

There comes a surprise also, when the eye encounters the "fire protection engineer" listing, and there seems to be something quite unusual about an "assistant ceramic engineer" being shown as a member of the Department of Justice personnel.

The Federal agencies in which the Government engineers are employed present a list almost as varied and extensive as that which sets forth the positions themselves. Here are some of the Government units which include engineers on their personnel rolls; Bureau of Animal Industry, Supervising Architect's Office, Bureau of Standards, War Department, Coast Guard, Bureau of Mines, Interstate Commerce Commission and Bureau of Public Roads.

Some of the more familiar engineering positions are so widely spread among the various Federal units that their location is covered officially by the word "general."

Tub Yields Sleeping Boy.

Hagerstown, Md., March 7 (Spl.). After Mrs. Floyd Rudisill and neighbors had searched in vain for hours for her 2½-year-old son, Bobby, and police had been summoned, he was found curled up asleep in a washtub in the summer kitchen.

Bachelor at 103, He's First to Urge Youths to Marry

St. Paul, Minn., March 7 (AP).—Dan Eyre, who today completed 103 years of bachelorhood, is not opposed to marriage.

He said so today as he celebrated his birthday by smoking two cigars—ordinarily, his quota is one—and admired a birthday cake nearly hidden by a forest of candles.

"If I had my life to live over again," he asserted, "I would still be a bachelor, but I would be the last to discourage young men who want to marry."

Bank's HOLC Deal Approved

Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue, District Supreme Court, yesterday authorized Robert C. Baldwin, receiver of the Commercial National Bank, to acept bonds of the Home Owners Loan Corporation in exchange for a second trust note on the home of Charles DeMott, 723 Tewksbury place northwest.

Permission of the court was necessary because the bonds received are less in face value than the second trust note held by the bank. The receiver was unwilling to permit the substitution without a judical decree.

The home was threatened with foreclosure, and when holders of both the first and second trust notes agreed to a "write down" of their trusts so that the property could be financed for 80 per cent of its loan limit, the court was asked to direct the receiver to accept the plan.

Park Service Gets Back Its Old Name

"Office of National," Ets., Found Too Cumbersome.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes yesterday announced the Office of National Parks, Buildings and Reservations will be known henceforth as the National Park Service.

Restoration of the former title, which was dropped last summer, was provided for in the Interior Department appropriations bill signed last Friday by President Roosevelt.

"The new name was cumbersome," said a statement, "and in addition, public reaction was all in favor of the title 'National Park Service,' which throughout the country had come to stand for the highest conservation ideals."

D. C. Electric Railway Plan Studied Today

Senate Committee Will Consider Bill to Cut Smoke Nuisance.

Electrification of steam railroad lines within the District is authorized under a bill for which favorable recommendation will be sought at a meeting of the Senate District Committee today.

Passage of the bill has been recommended by the District Commissioners. It would tend to alleviate the smoke nuisance, Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen said in a letter to Senator William H. King (Democrat), of Utah, committee chairman.

Authority to electrify its lines within the District is desired by the Pennsylvania Railroad as a part of its project for electrification between Washington and New York. The Public Works Administration advanced the road $77,000,000 for this work.

Leslie C. Garnett, United States district attorney, is to appear before the committee at the request of Senator King to explain provisions of the gambling bill recently introduced at his request. The bill includes so-called numbers games in the antigambling provisions of the District code.

Dates for hearings on an old-age pension law for the District will be sought by Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), of Kansas, ranking minority member. A bill regulating foreclosure of mortgages also is expected to be brought up.

Truck Overturns, Killing One Horse

Two Other Animals Saved in River Road Crash.

The Bladensburg Volunteer Fire Department was called out yesterday to rescue three horses pinned beneath an overturned truck on River road, near Bladensburg.

The call was sent in by members of the Rescue Squad, who, after extricating the driver, Charles C. Fowler, Forestville, Md., were unable to rescue the horses.

Ropes and manpower were used to lift the truck off the struggling animals. One animal was found dead. Fowler was uninjured. Police said the truck attempted to make the turn too fast.

Judge Ill, Delaying Hyattsville Docket

All cases in Hyattsville Police Court were continued yesterday, when it was announced that Judge J. Chew Sheriff, because of continued illness, would not be present.

Judge Sheriff was absent from court last Monday for the first time since his appointment June 1, 1927. It was said Judge Joseph C. Mattingly of the Prince Georges County Circuit Court would probably name a temporary magistrate-at-large for the police court.

Stafford Retains Miss Page, Nurse

Supervisors Defer Action on 1934 Budget.

Stafford Courthouse, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Action on the 1934 budget was deferred until the April meeting by the Stafford supervisors, who met here yesterday.

They retained Miss Frances E. Page as health nurse for another 12 months at her present salary of $800 per year from the county, $300 from the State, $200 from the school board and an allotment from the Public Health and Welfare Association.

They voted to contribute $38 to a fund for advertising 11 northern Virgnia counties, as requested by Dan M. Hollenger, secretary of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Tigert to Address Educators at Bristol

Bristol, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Dr. John J. Tigert, former National commisioner of education, now president of the University of Florida, will speak here March 30 at the joint meeting of districts "I" and "K" of the Virginia Education Association, Prof. C. B. Warren, of Dungannon, announced today.

Mrs. Mary Barnes, of Washington, D. C., representing the department of classroom teachers of the National Education Association, also will speak. Programs for the two-day meeting, to be attended by most of the two districts' 2,000 teachers, have been completed.

Phillips to Be Mayor Of Mannington, W. Va.

Mannington, W. Va., March 7 (Spl.).—As senior member of the Mannington city commission, Charles R. Phillips will become the next mayor as the result of the city election just held, at which Dr. F. C. Flowers became a member of the commission.

Resumed Steamer Service Expected

Fredericksburg Awaiting Baltimore Line.

Fredericksburg, Va., March 7 (Spl.).—Possibility of resumption of steamer service between Fredericksburg and Baltimore was announced yesterday by John Dare Davis, formerly of this city, an official of the Western Shore Steamship Co., which operates between Baltimore and Norfolk, and Baltimore and Tappahannock.

There has been no permanent upper Rappahannock River boat service since the final successor to the old Weems Line scrapped its business three years ago in April.

Shortly after the line was abandoned, Mr. Davis, Capt. James Gresham and other officers on boats that the company had operated organized and purchased two boats, forming the Western Shore Steamship Co.
